NIXON HOUSING LINE HIT

...Group Says Aspirin Prescribed For Cancer

(C) Washington Star

Washington — The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, a coalition of 126 civic, labor, fraternal and religious groups, Tuesday assailed the Nixon administration's new policies on housing segregation as "simply unacceptable."

The administration "has diagnosed a cancer and prescribed aspirin as the remedy," said the conference statement.

'It is particularly ironic that this administration, so concerned with the power and influence of the United States abroad, seems content to assume the role of a 'pitiful helpless giant' at home, unwilling to assure equality to its own citizens."

First Studied Reply

The statement represents the first studied response by prominent civil rights organizations to the President's 8,000-word policy statement in June on housing opportunity and to subsequent expressions of policy by the Departments of Justice and Housing and Urban Development.

The statement, prepared by a task force headed by James Harvey, director of the Housing Opportunities Council and assisted by the Center for National Policy Review, was released at a news conference Acting as spokesmen were Harvey; Bayard Rustin, chairman of the conference's executive committee, and the policy review center's William L Taylor.

While the conference credited Nixon with recognizing "the seriousness" of housing discriminations and with taking "the first halting steps toward solutions," it was in the main highly critical.

Its major attack was on the distinction the President made in proposing to end "racial discrimination" in housing without forcing "economic integration" of neighborhoods. Said the statement:

"By creating artificial distinctions between 'racial' and 'economic' discrimination, the administration has handcuffed itself in efforts to overcome the principal barrier to progress — exclusionary land use policies which have an economic rationale but a racial impact.

The conference also sought to counter Nixon's assertions that only racially based discrimination is prohibited by law and that there are more poor whites than poor blacks.

More than half of the poor in the nation's inner cities belong to minority groups, the conference argued. It is clear, added the statement, "that in major metropolitan areas the major impact of exclusionary zoning ordinances is black, Puerto Rican and Mexican-American citizens."

It further argued that the proper legal test is not whether a zoning ordinance has a racial purpose but whether its effect is to exclude people by race and minority status.

The Leadership Conference also attacked the administration's policy on grounds of:

—Failure to use its maximum authority to make sure that developers, lending institutions and real estate brokers meet the provisions of federal civil-rights laws.

—Failure to initiate vigorous investigations of discrimination rather than waiting for complaints.

—Failure to recognize that the primary moral responsibility on this issue rests with the resident.

The conference found little to praise in the set of new guidelines prepared by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for carrying out the Nixon policies.

The guidelines include "affirmative marketing" rules designed to encourage builders to make federally-subsidized housing available to all.

MONSTER FROM MURKY MANATAWNEY

Once upon a time, the Manatawney Creek which flows through Pottstown, Pa., was a sparkling clean stream in which kids swam and fished and boaters had fun. Alas, it's that way no more. Today it's an ecologist's nightmare, as shown by this scuba diver's emerging from the muck-filled creek. It is polluted with chemicals and filled with all kinds of algae and stagnant growth. "No swimming" signs dot the banks.

University Receives One Millionth Volume

The University of Nebraska Libraries in Lincoln acquired its millionth volume, a rare copy of "The Works of Geoffrey Chaucer," published in 1542, in a special ceremony Tuesday evening.

The volume was donated to the University by Johnny Johnsen of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Book Company which operates the Nebraska Book Store.

"This milestone has been a long time coming," Chancellor D. B Varner said in accepting the tome on behalf of the university "But it's no cause for more than momentary celebration. There's work to be done if we are going to make the University of Nebraska into the kind of institution it is capable of being."

Speaking to some 30 special guests at ceremonies held at the C. Y. Thompson Library on East Campus, the chancellor said he hoped the university could boast of two million volumes in its libraries by 1980.

Frank Lundy, director of University Libraries, described the acquisition as a "symbol of intellectual maturity. It is an early symbol of maturity and greater growth lies ahead This is a moment of great pride to all of us who have shared in this institution, whether as students, as faculty, as staff, or as fellow Nebraskans."

Dr. John Robinson, professor of English and associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, described the volume by Chaucer as "a copy of the collected works of this master of life and of art which has so munificently been donated.

"This edition was conscientiously put together from the manuscripts by one William Thynne, and printed by the same early printers who printed the Great Bible of 1539. It is set in English blackletter type, contains 744 pages (and yet remember that Chaucer was an economical writer) and twenty-one woodcut illustrations. Of course, very few other copies of this book survive," Prof. Robinson said.

"During the course of a hundred years, the university has from time to time received a few gifts of such a nature. None, I believe, exceeds the present volume in true value.

"Chaucer himself realized the value of such things, and loved old books. The book is also a cultural monument of great inspirational value. It is also primary research material for the textual scholar and bibliographer," Prof. Robinson said.

Lundy said that "during the first 50 years from 1869 to 1920, the University libraries acquired 150,000 volumes. The libraries averaged 3,000 volumes per year during the university's first 50 years and 17,000 volumes per year during the second 50 years. In the final year of the first 100 years, 75,000 volumes were added.

Lundy said the $10,000 volume will be put on display, probably at Sheldon Art Gallery. Then plans will have to be worked out for a special display case to house the book at the main library.

"The university already has a collection of rare books," Lundy noted. "In the process of collecting a million volumes some of them just happen to be valuable. Now we need some help in developing and remodeling the room we have set aside for the collection."

'Friendly Forces' Work On Pollution

. . . VARNER TELLS STUDY UNIT

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Chancellor D. B. Varner Tuesday told the legislative water resources study committee that the University of Nebraska has "put friendly forces to work" on the problems of agricultural pollution.

"We're going to be under the gun on agricultural pollution within this decade," Varner predicted.

That's one reason the Board of Regents has assigned Howard Ottoson, associate dean of the College of Agriculture, to coordinate a new program in environmental quality and water management, the chancellor said.

New Program

NU has also launched a new program of irrigation development and directed the Nebraska Water Resources Institute to research the problems associated with a falling water table in four south-central Nebraska counties, Varner noted.

University efforts recognize "the vital importance of water to the whole economy of the state, particularly agriculture," the chancellor said.

Varner's appearance before the committee followed Gov. J. James Exon's personal pledge to provide full executive cooperation in developing a state water plan.

Assume Leadership

"I am prepared to assume a leadership role in working with you," the governor said.

Exon suggested that the committee consider the creation of a new state department of natural resources, combining the Department of Water Resources and the Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

The governor said he has "no preconceived ideas" on the best way to develop Nebraska's soil and water resources, but noted the great potential for further irrigation in the state.

State Must Act

Exon warned that Nebraska must act to maintain control of its water resources in view of signs that other states, particularly Texas, may covet some of its water supply.

Varner said Ottoson has been asked to propose a program which would coordinate all University resources in water supply, water management, water conservation, water economy and water utilization.

That should be a "top priority" concern at NU, he said

Reasonable Approach

The program seeks "a reasonable approach" to the problems of agricultural pollution, he noted.

Nebraska now irrigates only about 20% of the acres which could be serviced, Varner said.

Leslie Sheffield, assistant director of agricultural extension, has been named director of the irrigation development program.

Further Investment

Further investment of state funds may be required to develop Nebraska's water resources, the chancellor pointed out.

"I'm not sure we can afford to wait for some large federal project . . . we could be a long time in getting some of these things done," he said.

Union Chiefs Decry Use Of Cheap Foreign Labor

Washington (AP) —U.S. labor leaders said Tuesday that American industry's growing use of cheap labor abroad threatens a return to sweatshops and collapse of the economy in this country.

Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, told an AFL-CIO conference U.S. workers have to compete with foreign labor which works for as little as 9 cents an hour.

"And God knows we cannot compete with 9 cents an hour — and we don't propose to," Potofsky said.

"It took us years to overcome sweatshop conditions in this country," Potofsky added, "and we don't intend to allow the sweatshop to return on the back of low-wage imports from Hong Kong, Taiwan, Japan, or any other country."

Economic Suicide

AFL-CIO President George Meany said U.S. firms are committing economic suicide for themselves and the country by transferring their plants to low-wage countries in quest of a quick profit.

Meany said the American standard of living is based on the purchasing power of the American worker, who traditionally has purchased more than 90% of the output of American industry. He said this purchasing power is destroyed when jobs are eliminated.

"If they destroy the purchasing power of the American people," Meany said, "they're putting themselves out of business. It's just that simple."

At the closing session of the AFL-CIO Conference on Jobs, speaker after speaker decried the exporting of jobs, licenses, technology and patents.

"The impact of the trade job loss is felt by virtually every American worker, teen-agers, blacks, urban and rural dwellers, union workers and non-union workers alike," said Paul Jennings, president of the Electrical Workers.

Corporations Blamed

I. W. Abel, president of the Steelworkers, laid a large portion of the blame on American-based multinational corporations, which produce goods in cheap-labor areas for sale in the United States.

"They can produce components in widely separated plants in Korea, Formosa and America, assemble the product in a plant on the Mexican side of the border and sell the goods in the United States," Abel said.

"Patriotism or concern for the American worker seldom interferes with their philosophy of 'anything for a buck,'." Abel said.

The International Union of Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, representing one of the hardest hit fields, says some American business, contrary to a public impression that it is suffering from foreign competition, is actually supporting the importation move.

"In the period 1960-70 the U.S. electrical-electronics industry invested $2.5 billion in new plants and equipment in foreign countries," the IUE says. "At the same time, U.S. licenses and patents have been leased to foreign manufacturers in exchange for handsome royalties. These patents in many instances, were researched and developed with U.S. government funds."

Firms Listed

Among the U.S. firms listed by the IUE as locating in such places as Formosa, Singapore, Hong Kong, South Korea, Mexico and South America are General Electric, Westinghouse, RCA, Sylvania, Zenith, Emerson, Philco, Admiral, Singer Sewing Machine and General Instrument.

"Wages in a number of these countries average 15 cents per hour," the IUE said, "Mexican wages average 35 cents an hour. In Japan, where there are relatively effective labor unions, wages in our industry have been brought up to a level of $1 per hour.

"Taiwan is a military dictatorship, which is propped up by U.S. foreign aid. In turn, its leaders protect American industry to the hilt from unionization, strikes, etc."

The unions contend that U.S. consumers do not get full benefit of the low wages which go into the imported products they buy.

Sutherland Rancher Killed; Hit By Train

Sutherland (AP) — A prominent Sutherland-area rancher was killed Tuesday night when he was struck by an eastbound Union Pacific freight train.

The state patrol identified the man as John C. Kelly, 64, who owned a large ranch three miles north of Sutherland.

Authorities said he was struck by the train while crossing the tracks on railroad property en route to his truck parked at the opposite side of the tracks.

The patrol said the death will not count as a traffic fatality because the accident happened on private property and not at a crossing.

Sioux Indians Ask State To Recognize Forgotten Land

. . . TINY PART OF PINE RIDGE RESERVATION NOT ON MAPS

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A group of Sioux Indians and sympathizers from northwest Nebraska met with Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday and requested state recognition of part of the Pine Ridge Reservation which lies in Nebraska but has been dropped from the state's maps.

After spending a half-hour session with the group, the governor said he would do "everything possible to get this oversight corrected. I see nothing but good that can come from this."

The area in question is in Sheridan County and contains a little over a section of land (640 acres.) The area was designated as part of the Pine Ridge Sioux Reservation in South Dakota by presidential order of Teddy Roosevelt. Currently 532 acres of the area is "no man's land," meaning there are no homes or businesses in the area and no taxes are paid on the land.

Federal Aid At Stake

Reginald Cedarface, a member of the group, said it is important to have the area recognized on maps as part of the reservation so that federal funds are available to approximately 100 Indian school children. The Johnson-O'Malley Act provides a per capita allotment of funds for Indian school children if they live on or near a reservation.

Cedarface said the money was needed to provide a guidance program for the Indian school children of the area which has been traditionally plagued by a high drop-out rate.

"We want to provide Indian guidance counselors for these children who can understand their problems and will not be trying to instill middle-class white values," he said.

There is no way of knowing how much money the children are missing out on due to the recognition problem.

Research Described

Ann Kosmiski of the Minorities Teachers Cross-Cultural Workshop told of the research the group had done in its efforts to determine the status of the lands.

She showed the governor copies of the presidential order and maps of the Interior Department and Bureau of Indian Affairs which verified the Indians' claim to the land.

"So far no one has any idea how the area got dropped from the state maps. It's been forgotten by everyone. It's just an oversight, I guess," said Mrs. Madra Horse of Chadron.

Legal Check Planned

Exon said he would get moving on this matter as soon as his legal advisor, Norm Krivosha, checks it out.

Krivosha advised the group to employ a bonded abstractor in Sheridan County in order to find the original deed giving the land to the Sioux and to work through the Interior Department if any problems arise.

"No one else has any claim to this land except the Sioux," Krivosha said.

Senate Committee OKs Bill To Save Lockheed

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Banking Committee Tuesday approved a bill intended to save Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and other financially troubled companies from bankruptcy with government loan guarantees.

The measure was sent to the Senate floor by a vote of 10 to 5, with three Republicans and two Democrats opposed.

Lockheed, the nation's biggest defense contractor last year, was expected to receive a government-guaranteed loan of $250 million if the Senate and House approved the measure. Without a loan, Lockheed says its collapse would be inevitable.

Proxmire To Fight

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said he would lead a vigorous floor fight to have the Senate reject the administration-supported measure as "a reward for bad management."

Joining Proxmire in voting against the bill were Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Republicans Edward W. Brooke, Mass.; Robert Packwood, Ore., and Robert Taft, Ohio.

Proxmire said he felt there was some doubt that Lockheed would qualify for a loan guarantee under the bill. But Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said every amendment was cleared with the committee's legal staff and he felt "absolutely no doubt" that Lockheed would qualify and receive the loan guarantee.

Three-Man Board

The bill would create a three-man board with authority to approve up to $2 billion worth of government-guaranteed loans to firms whose collapse "could adversely and seriously affect the economy of the nation."

World News

Congress would have at least 20 days in which either house by a majority vote could veto an application approved by the board. But that veto power would not take effect until next Oct. 1, in language inserted to make sure that Congress could not blackball a loan guarantee to Lockheed.

In a significant victory for the bill's opponents, the committee agreed that only one member of the three-man board would be a political appointee.

It decided to make the board consist of the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, the president of the Federal Reserve Bank in the district where the loan application originated, and the Treasury secretary.

As originally drafted by the committee chairman, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., the commerce secretary would have served instead of the district Federal Reserve Bank president, giving the White House an automatic majority.

Argument Succeeds

Proxmire successfully argued that with the board majority under control of the White House, loan guarantee applications would be decided on the political rather than the economic merits.

The committee voted to create the board for only a two-year trial period, after which Congress would have to pass a new law continuing it in existence. But the loan it initially approved would be guaranteed for five years, with an option to renew them for three more years.

When the government guarantees a loan under the bill, the Treasury would assume all risks and must repay the loan from government funds if the firm goes bankrupt before the loan is paid off. But the government would have first claim on the bankrupt firm's assets, ahead of all other creditors.

Lockheed's board chairman, Daniel J. Haughton, testified in the House Tuesday that his company could repay its proposed $250 million in guaranteed loans by the end of 1974, but would definitely go bankrupt without them.

Packard Contends U.S. Must Depl More Missiles As Bargaining Chip

©The New York Times

Washington — Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard Tuesday contended before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee that the United States must proceed with the deployment of offensive and defensive missiles as "bargaining chips" in the strategic arms limitations talks (SALT) with the Soviet Union.

The contention was challenged by Paul C. Warnke, a former Pentagon official, who argued that continued deployment of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system and multiple warheads for offensive missiles only lessened chances of reaching an arms control agreement with the Soviet Union.

The two officials testified before the Senate foreign relations subcommittee on arms control, headed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

The hearing reflected the changing emphasis in the arms control debate, both by the Defense Department and by the subcommittee that in the last two years has provided the focus of opposition to deployment of the Safeguard system

No longer is the subcommittee challenging the technical capability of the Safeguard system to stop a large-scale Soviet missile attack. And the Pentagon is no longer stressing that Safeguard is needed to protect the nation's deterrent force of Minuteman intercontinental missiles against attack by the large Soviet SS9 missiles.

'Bargaining Chips'

Rather, the Pentagon's emphasis now — and in turn the subcommittee's challenge — is upon the argument that ABMs and multiple missile warheads, known as MIRVs, are needed to get the Soviet Union to agree to halt weapons deployment as part of a strategic arms control agreement.

The "bargaining chip" argument has been used in the past by the administration to persuade Congress to accept the Safeguard program, but never quite so directly and emphatically as in Packard's testimony Tuesday.

With Senate interest waning in waging another ABM debate on technical grounds, it could prove to be a persuasive argument in a Senate that is sensitive to any suggestion that its actions could interfere with negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"If we had not continued Safeguard the way we did," Packard observed at one point, "we would not be talking at Helsinki today." Later he contended that if the United States were to stop deployment of the Safeguard system or MIRV warheads on Minuteman and submarine - launched Poseidon missiles, it would place the likelihood of a st arms control agreeme "great jeopardy."

As described by Packa United States should p with deployment of tw ditional Safeguard sit persuade the Soviet Un accept an agreement li ABM systems. Co deployment of the MIRV necessary, he contended, incentive for the Soviet to agree to limit off missiles, such as its missile.

The bargaining logi disputed by Warnke, who as assistant secretar defense for intern security affairs in the J administration, as well Muskie and Sen. Cliffo Case of New Jersey ranking Republican o subcommittee.

The "bargaining justification, Warnke plained, is a "self-de notion" that only leads acceleration of the atomic race.

"If the existence of SA used to justify deplo which otherwise would made," he said, "then simply becomes an occas an expanded arms race."

"It is the possibility th United States might oth proceed with a large-area system or the deploym accurate MIRVs that wi the Soviets to ne seriously," he said.

CWA Strike Against Bell 'Unavoidable'

Washington (UPI) — With thousands of its members already walking off the job, the Communications Workers of America said late Tuesday it saw no chance of avoiding a nationwide telephone strike Wednesday which could last at least two weeks.

As the strike deadline neared, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said it had prepared a new, improved contract offer but could not get union negotiators to meet with individual Bell System representatives to consider it.

CWA President Joseph A. Beirne told a news conference he did not know about the new AT&T proposal, but said that considering the late hour, the offer could amount to no more than a "scandalous, double-dealing act."

Beirne said the two sides were only about one per cent apart on a money agreement for new contracts, but he claimed AT&T's proposals would widen the pay difference between men and women employes as well as the differential between workers in various parts of the country.

"This is intolerable and should be corrected," Beirne said over a telephone hookup with CWA officials and reporters in 10 other cities around the country.

Packard Contends U.S. Must Deploy More Missiles As Bargaining Chips

©The New York Times

Washington — Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard Tuesday contended before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee that the United States must proceed with the deployment of offensive and defensive missiles as "bargaining chips" in the strategic arms limitations talks (SALT) with the Soviet Union.

The contention was challenged by Paul C. Warnke, a former Pentagon official, who argued that continued deployment of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system and multiple warheads for offensive missiles only lessened chances of reaching an arms control agreement with the Soviet Union.

The two officials testified before the Senate foreign relations subcommittee on arms control, headed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

The hearing reflected the changing emphasis in the arms control debate, both by the Defense Department and by the subcommittee that in the last two years has provided the focus of opposition to deployment of the Safeguard system.

No longer is the subcommittee challenging the technical capability of the Safeguard system to stop a large-scale Soviet missile attack. And the Pentagon is no longer stressing that Safeguard is needed to protect the nation's deterrent force of Minuteman intercontinental missiles against attack by the large Soviet SS9 missiles.

'Bargaining Chips'

Rather, the Pentagon's emphasis now — and in turn the subcommittee's challenge — is upon the argument that ABMs and multiple missile warheads, known as MIRVs, are needed to get the Soviet Union to agree to halt weapons deployment as part of a strategic arms control agreement.

The "bargaining chip" argument has been used in the past by the administration to persuade Congress to accept the Safeguard program, but never quite so directly and emphatically as in Packard's testimony Tuesday.

With Senate interest waning in waging another ABM debate on technical grounds, it could prove to be a persuasive argument in a Senate that is sensitive to any suggestion that its actions could interfere with negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"If we had not continued Safeguard the way we did," Packard observed at one point, "we would not be talking at Helsinki today." Later he contended that if the United States were to stop deployment of the Safeguard system or MIRV warheads on Minuteman and submarine - launched Poseidon missiles, it would place the likelihood of a strategic arms control agreement in "great jeopardy."

As described by Packard, the United States should proceed with deployment of two additional Safeguard sites to persuade the Soviet Union to accept an agreement limiting ABM systems. Continued deployment of the MIRVs was necessary, he contended, as an incentive for the Soviet Union to agree to limit offensive missiles, such as its SS9 missile.

The bargaining logic was disputed by Warnke, who served as assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs in the Johnson administration, as well as by Muskie and Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, the ranking Republican on the subcommittee.

The "bargaining chip" justification, Warnke complained, is a "self-defeating notion" that only leads to an acceleration of the atomic arms race.

"If the existence of SALT is used to justify deployments which otherwise would not be made," he said, "then SALT simply becomes an occasion for an expanded arms race."

"It is the possibility that the United States might otherwise proceed with a large-area ABM system or the deployment of accurate MIRVs that will lead the Soviets to negotiate seriously," he said.

Niobrara Basin Official Hits Game Commission

. . . For Withdrawal Of Support For Norden Dam Project

Nebraska News

O'Neill (AP) — The president of the Niobrara River Basin Development Association had harsh words Tuesday for the State Game Commission due to its withdrawal of support of the Norden Dam Project.

Alfred Drayton of O'Neill, association president, said members of his group and of the North Central Nebraska Reclamation District "are not very happy about" the commission's action.

Earlier, Dr. Larry Holcomb, chairman of the Quality Environment Council, said the commission action would aid ecologists and others in efforts to halt development of the Norden Dam on the Niobrara River and the connecting O'Neill irrigation unit.

$98 Million Plan

The federal Bureau of Reclamation has approved the $98 million plus project for irrigation and recreation and the game commission was to develop recreational areas near the reservoir and sponsor the project.

Drayton said the association "will on next Monday night issue a letter of intent of our own. And this will take care of it. We'll operate this if we have to by ourselves."

He said the commission's decision "doesn't amount to anything, except that we'd prefer to have the state operate it."

Drayton said the new dam would make it possible for thousands of persons to enjoy recreational activities on the Niobrara.

Six Iowa Men Are Indicted For Alleged Bookmaking

Omaha (AP) —Six men from the Council Bluffs, Iowa, area have been indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged bookmaking operations, Paul C. Young, special agent in charge of the Omaha FBI office, said Tuesday.

Young said two indictments handed down by a grand jury for the southern district of Iowa, sitting in Des Moines, were the culmination of an investigation begun by a court authorized wiretap conducted by the FBI in January of this year.

Both indictments name David Leslie Merryman of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Five other men are named in one indictment.

One contains four counts of alleged bookmaking operations in violation of state and federal laws. This names Merryman, Floyd Kinart, Jack Marshall, Gary Price and Don Miles of Council Bluffs, and Leslie Merryman of Honey Creek, Iowa.

The other indictment charges David Merryman with 16 counts of wilfully attempting to evade and defeat the payment of wagering excise taxes from September, 1969, through December, 1970.

Young said this indictment, based on evidence developed primarily by special agents of the Internal Revenue Service, alleges that Merryman reported he accepted wagers over the 16-month period totaling $12,844 on which excise taxes were $1,284.40, but that he in fact accepted wagers in excess of $307,000 and owned more than $30,700 in excise taxes on these wagers.

David Merryman was arrested last January and has been free on $2,500 bond since that time

Union Members Okay Tote's Proposal For Ending Strike

Beatrice (AP) — Tote Systems of Beatrice called 83 employes back to work Tuesday following Monday night approval by union members of the company's proposal to end a 32-day-old strike.

John Brashears, president of the local division of Hoover Ball and Bearing, said all workers should be back on the job by Friday.

The new three-year contract includes a 40 cent average increase in base wage rates for the first year, 12 cents the second year and 13 cents the third, for a total of 65 cents an hour.

The contract also provides that beginning in the second year there will be a cost of living allowance based on quarterly readings of the consumer price index, with a one cent increase in wages for each four-tenths of one percent increase in the index. An additional paid holiday also will be added in the second year, bringing the total to 10. Improvements in the health and welfare program, life insurance, hospitalization and sick and accident pay also were included.

The company earlier had announced an offer averaging 30 cents an hour and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, Local 543, had sought an average increase of 75 cents an hour.

The old contract expired May 31 and the union struck June 3.

Tote negotiators submitted the final pact to the union last Friday and the union approved it on a 94-41 vote Monday night.

Minnesota Boy Listed 'Critical' In Pool Incident

A 5-year-old Minnesota boy was listed in "critical" condition in the intensive care unit of Bryan Memorial Hospital after being pulled from the swimming pool at the Villager Motel Tuesday night, according to police officers Dennis Siegrist and Jeff Kinney.

The officers said that Joseph Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams, of St. Paul, Minn., was found in the pool by Pamela Monroe, 13, of 316 West Orchid. She pulled him to the surface and the boy's father helped her get him out of the pool.

The officers said they could detect no pulse or respiration during the time they were there.

Work Begins On Replacing Morrill Span

Construction has begun on permanent replacement of five damaged spans of the 660-foot Morrill bridge over the North Platte River, the Nebraska Department of Roads reported Tuesday.

The five spans, totaling 270 feet, collapsed into the river June 19.

The Missouri Valley Construction Co. of Grand Island is doing the reconstruction, begun Monday, under a negotiated agreement under which it furnishes labor and equipment, and department engineers direct the project. The agreement was negotiated after bids received July 9 were higher than anticipated.

Target date for completion of the work is late September, but a department spokesman said bad weather and high water in the Platte could cause delays.

Congress Seems Bit Hypocritical, Observes Thone's Summer Intern

By PEGGY SIMPSON

Washington (AP) — When a congressman asks his college summer interns what they think of Congress, he might get back answers that make him swallow hard and wish he hadn't bothered.

Such appeared to be the case when freshman Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., questioned his interns, Nancy Armstrong and Dan Burleigh.

"Congress seems a little bit . . . hypocritical," said Miss Armstrong, choosing her words with care and then slowing in embarrassment as she realized the boss' eyes were fixed on her keenly.

"Go on," Thone said.

"These people think the congressmen are vitally interested in each of their children and he's not . . . It's a form letter."

Thone noted duly that all of this is part of a public servant's help to his constituents. And, he added, it helps him get reelected.

Thone had opened up this line of questioning by asking the interns, among 1,400 just completing their sixth week here, "Have you been disappointed in the governmental processes since you've been here or how do you find it?"

'Some Boring'

Burleigh let the opportunity pass by saying merely, "some of the debate is fascinating, but some is boring."

He gave the congressman a bit of discomfort later, however. Thone said it had been useful for him to visit with the interns "about general legislation and on occasion they had some input into our projects."

Asked for specifics, he said he didn't think he had any. After a polite pause he turned to Burleigh and asked if he recalled any particular matter of legislation they had discussed.

"We were talking about the Lockheed matter," Burleigh said quickly.

"Yes, we had some rap sessions about the pending legislation," Thone said, keeping the discussion general.

He soon switched the subject to a compliment: "It's amazing to see how well-informed these college people are. It's surprising. When we were in college we were more interested in raising heck. We didn't get involved."

Back To Lockheed

The conversation reverted to Lockheed, however, with Thone discussing his qualms about public funds being used to bail out a private company which, he said, is badly managed. He opposes the bill to aid the troubled aircraft manufacturer.

"I was watching the committee hearings on it," interjected Burleigh, "and they came up with figures that 11 000 companies went bankrupt last year. So how can you decide not to help all of them? It seems to me this risk of bankruptcy is part of the free-enterprise system."

Burleigh is from Norfolk; Miss Armstrong is from Lincoln. He is a senior at Kearney State, majoring in political science and not ruling out a political career for himself. She is an elementary education major and will graduate next year from the University of Nebraska.

In Thone's office, Miss Armstrong has been a receptionist and Burleigh has worked on a poll the congressmen took of his district.

Both have done some research on a proposed bill to provide benefits to veterans who lost one or both arms in the service.

Missing Girl, 17, Found At Aurora

Polk (UPI) — Linda Kay Freidrickson, 17, a heart patient for whom a search was conducted the past weekend, was located at Aurora, authorities reported

Linda Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Frederickson of rural Polk, was in good condition, it was reported. She had disappeared late July 3.

It was feared that the girl might need treatment for the heart condition, and authorities brought in the help of extra officers and an airplane to join in the search.

Park Curfew Proposal Is 'Under Advisement'

Omaha (UPI) — The City Council Tuesday voted unanimously to "take under advisement" a proposal to reinstate the 11 p.m. curfew at Memorial Park.

Council President H. F. Jacobberger said the present 8 p.m. curfew will remain in effect until one of the councilmen draws up a resolution to recind the current curfew.

State Sen. P. J. Morgan of Omaha presented the council with petitions he said contained about 1,700 signatures favoring reinstatement of the 11 p.m. curfew.

Morgan said the petitions accounted for about 60% of residents contacted in the Memorial Park area and throughout the city.

The Omaha senator said another 20% favored reinstating the 11 p.m. curfew, but refused to sign the petition. He said among those favoring the 11 p.m. curfew who lived in the Memorial Park area were businessmen and doctors.

Labelling last week's disturbances as a "disgrace to the city," Councilman Art Bradley said, "I don't see any room for compromise."

Councilman Warren Swigart re-affirming Bradley's stand said "after four days of violence" the possibility of reinstating the 11 p.m. curfew is unfavorable.

Bradley added, "many of the area residents signed the petitions because they were afraid."

Denying "fear tactics," Morgan said he personally called on area residents Sunday and asked them if they would sign the petition. If they refused to sign, "I simply thanked them and left," Morgan said.

The state senator said he became involved in the matter after a number of area residents and several youths called him at home.

Morgan said there were "only about 20-25 persons creating the problem."

In part, the petition claimed the youths would help police the park themselves. The petition asked that trash receptacles be installed.

Meanwhile, Police Capt. Elwin Stokes said that 110 persons had been interviewed in connection with complaints against police actions during the park disturbances.

Stokes said command officers on the force had given him names of policemen who allegedly broke car windows without provocation during the Wednesday and Thursday night disorders.

Stokes, head of internal security on the force, said he hoped to make a report to Chief Richard Andersen later this week.

Niobrara Basin Official Hits Game Commission

. . . For Withdrawal Of Support For Norden Dam Project

Nebraska News

O'Neill (AP) — The president of the Niobrara River Basin Development Association had harsh words Tuesday for the State Game Commission due to its withdrawal of support of the Norden Dam Project.

Alfred Drayton of O'Neill, association president, said members of his group and of the North Central Nebraska Reclamation District "are not very happy about" the commission's action.

Earlier, Dr. Larry Holcomb, chairman of the Quality Environment Council, said the commission action would aid ecologists and others in efforts to halt development of the Norden Dam on the Niobrara River and the connecting O'Neill irrigation unit.

$98 Million Plan

The federal Bureau of Reclamation has approved the $98 million plus project for irrigation and recreation and the game commission was to develop recreational areas near the reservoir and sponsor the project.

Drayton said the association "will on next Monday night issue a letter of intent of our own. And this will take care of it. We'll operate this if we have to by ourselves."

He said the commission's decision "doesn't amount to anything, except that we'd prefer to have the state operate it."

Drayton said the new dam would make it possible for thousands of persons to enjoy recreational activities on the Niobrara.

Six Iowa Men Are Indicted For Alleged Bookmaking

Omaha (AP) —Six men from the Council Bluffs, Iowa, area have been indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged bookmaking operations, Paul C. Young, special agent in charge of the Omaha FBI office, said Tuesday.

Young said two indictments handed down by a grand jury for the southern district of Iowa, sitting in Des Moines, were the culmination of an investigation begun by a court authorized wiretap conducted by the FBI in January of this year.

Both indictments name David Leslie Merryman of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Five other men are named in one indictment.

One contains four counts of alleged bookmaking operations in violation of state and federal laws. This names Merryman, Floyd Kinart, Jack Marshall, Gary Price and Don Miles of Council Bluffs, and Leslie Merryman of Honey Creek, Iowa.

The other indictment charges David Merryman with 16 counts of wilfully attempting to evade and defeat the payment of wagering excise taxes from September, 1969, through December, 1970.

Young said this indictment, based on evidence developed primarily by special agents of the Internal Revenue Service, alleges that Merryman reported he accepted wagers over the 16-month period totaling $12,844 on which excise taxes were $1,284.40, but that he in fact accepted wagers in excess of $307,000 and owned more than $30,700 in excise taxes on these wagers.

David Merryman was arrested last January and has been free on $2,500 bond since that time.

Union Members Okay Tote's Proposal For Ending Strike

Beatrice (AP) — Tote Systems of Beatrice called 83 employes back to work Tuesday following Monday night approval by union members of the company's proposal to end a 32-day-old strike.

John Brashears, president of the local division of Hoover Ball and Bearing, said all workers should be back on the job by Friday.

The new three-year contract includes a 40 cent average increase in base wage rates for the first year, 12 cents the second year and 13 cents the third, for a total of 65 cents an hour.

The contract also provides that beginning in the second year there will be a cost of living allowance based on quarterly readings of the consumer price index, with a one cent increase in wages for each four-tenths of one percent increase in the index. An additional paid holiday also will be added in the second year, bringing the total to 10. Improvements in the health and welfare program, life insurance, hospitalization and sick and accident pay also were included.

The company earlier had announced an offer averaging 30 cents an hour and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, Local 543, had sought an average increase of 75 cents an hour.

The old contract expired May 31 and the union struck June 3.

Tote negotiators submitted the final pact to the union last Friday and the union approved it on a 94-41 vote Monday night.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

There can be no argument with Gov. James Exon and with Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas in their expressed interest in making the registration-for-voting process as easy and simple as possible. Certainly, as party and state officials, they have a responsibility to encourage the registration of voters and the exercise of the voting right on the part of all citizens.

But there are some serious considerations to look at before a lot of changes can be made in things. The idea behind the laws that are now on the books is to protect our voting process against abuse.

It is true that we could go so far in our protection as to defeat the ends of a free elective process but it is doubtful that we have done this. It should be remembered that Nebraska, in recent history, has had very few recounts and, to our knowledge, no contested elections.

Part of the reason for this is that we have had pretty good laws on the subject. To begin with, the process of registering and voting is not arbitrary, but rather, is dictated by the law and changes proposed would often necessitate a change in the law.

It has been suggested, for instance, that high school officials be established as qualified registrars. This sounds good but it is not as easy as it sounds.

For one thing, we doubt that the schools want anything to do with the registration of voters. Secondly, how could they manage it? Their registration forms are not complicated but they should be properly filled out.

Without some assistance, many forms might not be properly filled out. And if you can register at school, what about hospitals and, perhaps, department stores, etc. A lot of difficulties can come from opening up of the registration process into a sort of free-for-all.

The law implies, at least, that registrars shall work in teams of two, a Democrat and a Republican. Without this, you run the risk of partisanship in registrations. You run the risk of someone's urging upon potential voters a registration in one party or another rather than letting them express their own choice.

By opening things up, you might open the door to such things as registration drives by organized groups such as labor, fraternal groups, social organizations, trade associations, management groups, etc. You may have companies registering employes and they may try to direct or influence their registrant.

Not only do we want to protect all registrants, but we want to protect the voting process. With widespread, untrained and generally loose registration, it could become difficult to control the voting process on election day.

People vote in their own precincts and they vote by party affiliation in the primaries. They vote by name and by address and without all this in proper order, it is impossible to tell who is a qualified voter and who isn't. A number of difficulties are experienced now on election day by election officials and the registration and voting process is about as orderly as you can get it.

There is a question of where students should vote—a big question in cities where there are universities and the voting age is now 18. University students in Lincoln, it is said, should be able to vote in Lincoln.

If they swear they are residents here, they can vote in Lincoln. But, it means they cannot vote in local elections in their home towns, have to pay the Lincoln wheel tax on their car, have to pay the Lancaster County auto tax, have to pay the Lincoln area auto insurance rates, have to register with the draft by a Lincoln address, etc. Do they understand this and what does it do to the theory of local interest and local responsibility?

Again, such a thing is not quite as simple and appealing as it might first sound. What about no registration, at all, just letting everyone over 18 go to the polls and vote on election day?

We just don't see how you could guarantee an honest election under those conditions. We are all for continuing study of the registration and voting process to encourage greater citizen participation but we think you have to be pretty careful in moving toward that goal.

Attitudes Are Changing

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents has turned down a proposal to allow, under certain conditions, a mixing of the sexes in campus living units. It did so following a report on a study of parental attitudes and a recommendation from a student representative.

The parental study showed 51 per cent of mothers and 61 per cent of fathers would give permission for their son or daughter to participate in a program of visiting hours mixed between boys and girls in the living quarters. NU Lincoln Campus President Joseph Soshnik said that this did not, in his mind, lend sufficient support to the proposal

We agree but it is surprisng that the proposal received as much parental support as it did. We wonder what the questionnaire to parents might have turned up just five short years ago? Our opinion is that the attitude of parents then would have been heavily against the coed visitations.

But the majority vote for the visitations, while only slight for mothers, shows a changing attitude. There is a growing reliance these days upon youthful responsibility and this is reflected in the survey results.

Perhaps the final decision in this matter does not adequately reflect this new responsibility but whether that final decision was right or wrong will be determined by the students themselves. If they allow this issue to become a means of confrontation between university authorities and themselves, they will have demonstrated a lack of responsibility to support the final decision.

If, on the other hand, the students accept this and other disciplines of campus life, they will demonstrate the kind of responsibility that will encourage changes in the future. If coed visitations are advisable, work by students through established channels and continued efforts in the cause will accomplish the desired end. Far more objectives are won the second, third and even fourth time around than they are the first time out.

Quick Questionable Justice

Crime is dealt with quickly in Morocco. Within about 48 hours, the government of King Hassan II has questioned and promptly executed three generals and other officers accused of plotting an unsuccessful coup against the Moroccan monarch.

The executions were ordered by the king to be carried out within 24 hours of the early Saturday coup attempt, but were delayed for one day to permit further questioning of the accused revolutionaries. That is not what one might characterize as an excessive display of human kindness.

Can you imagine what such a situation might have produced in the United States? The ringleaders of a revolt against our government might be quickly jailed, assuming they were known and unsuccessful, and there they would have languished for months, at least. and possibly years.

Weeks would pass before formal charges were settled against the revolutionaries, preliminary hearings would be held, arguments would be made on a bond for the culprits, and a trial date would ultimately be set. From the time of arrest through all the ensuing period, the accused would be provided with topnotch legal assistance.

In Morocco, it never even occurred to anyone that the accused leaders of the coup might not be guilty or that they were entitled to any sort of legal defense.

In the United States, the trial of such men would be a long, expensive and divisive procedure. Along the way, it is quite possible that their guilt or innocence would swing, not upon their alleged perpetration of the crime, but their many and varied reasons for it. Even if guilty, they might be absolved of punishment because of the circumstances involved. Obviously even our system sometimes leaves one a little frustrated with the judicial process, but how far greater it serves the cause of justice than the summary executions in Morocco.

Nearly everyone enjoys "Lassie." The oldsters who have farm backgrounds relate him to their own beloved pets of long ago.

I recall a young couple some ten years back, who raised horses on their acreage. They had sleek cats, and two dogs—"Scarlet", a wiry-haired, short-legged mischief-maker whose worst problem was her muddy feet. She nearly drove herself crazy trying to catch the frogs that swam and leaped in and out of the pasture pond.

Then there was "Mike", the gangly, shepherd pup who adored everything and everyone. Children romped with him and men cuffed and rolled him good-naturedly. Women were unprepared for his rowdy leap that nearly always landed his paws in the middle of their stomachs.

He adored the long-legged colts, sniffing and rubbing noses, and chasing the mares around the pasture was a happy game. For "Pistol," the bay stallion, it was beneath his dignity to be annoyed by this slap-happy bundle of beautiful brown-haired pup. Came the day when Pistol appeared to ignore Mike and the dog pushed his luck too far. He barked, charged, retreated - and suddenly Pistol's back hooves flew out. Mike rolled, yelping in anguish, and dragged home, bleeding, his nose and jaw broken. He healed, but he gave the stallion a wide berth after that.

Mike loved and lived happily, chasing squirrels up timber trees, chasing and shaking soundly the bull or garter snakes. The skunks, he couldn't resist, either. The fact that he was always banished to the barn in disgrace must finally have cured him, or maybe he was growing up.

This year I saw him and a quiet dignity has taken over his joyous puppy days. His eyes ever miss a movement or his ears, a sound, as he lies quietly in the center of a big family room, or strolls about the big lawn, sniffing a rose or lifting his eyes as a flock of birds wing low overhead. A gray rabbit darts across the yard. His ears twitch from yesterday's memories and I think he smiles, remembering what fun the chase used to be.

Mike has a new family now and as the youngest boy goes upstairs to bed, my heart is consoled as Mike follows his new master, who will be guarded as he sleeps, by man's best friend—his dog.

Two Choices

Lincoln, Neb.

According to the latest talks in Paris between the U.S. and North Vietnam, it does not appear at this time that the U.S. can attain any honorable settlement. It appears certain that there is little if any intent on the part of North Vietnam to honor any commitments on their part. The violation of the demilitarization zone is but one example of their attitude.

Under present conditions, it would appear that the U.S. has but two choices, either to withdraw soon and hope the north does not take over the south, when U.S. military forces leave, or continue this war indefinitely.

It is questionable whether this war — so-called, is worth the expenditure of men and materials. If North Vietnam has enough land of their own, why do they want the south?

It would appear now that to stop the north from taking over South Vietnam, it would take a military attack of the intensity of that when Russia entered East Germany, where there was such fire power that whole villages disappeared.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

Our sincere gratitude for the coverage of the Second International Convention of the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia. We were delighted with pictures and stories carried by The Star and with the interest shown in the program which had been arranged by our Lincoln chapter. A special thank-you to Linda Sullivan for her report of the interview at our press conference.

Our out-of-town guests were much impressed by the welcome they received from the entire community. The Star staff and the notice they gave to the historical and educational goals of our organization went a long way in telling our visitors and in reminding those of German-Russian heritage in the Lincoln area that this is indeed a great city in which to live.

Military's Retirees Have Federal Jobs

WASHINGTON — Buddy System — The House Manpower Subcommittee is investigating how military retirees use the buddy system to hustle civil service jobs. The Dual Compensation Act permits retired military personnel to "double dip" from the Treasury by collecting both their pension plus pay from a second-career federal job. This is a privilege not open to other federal retirees. Subcommittee investigators have learned that military retirees on the federal payroll tip off their buddies, who plan to retire from the armed forces, about civil service job openings. Subcommittee sources estimate that 100,000 retired military men now hold civilian jobs on the federal payroll, that the civilian work force in some agencies is rapidly being militarized.

Reagan's Rowdies — Ronald Reagan, governor of California's well-to-do conservatives, clothed himself in righteous white last year and set out to smash the California Rural Legal Assistance program. He vetoed a $1.8 million federal grant to CRLA because its lawyers had thwarted his efforts to curtail services for the poor. It's worth mentioning that Lewis K. Uhler, Reagan's man in charge of investigating the CRLA and a one-time member of the John Birch Society, has now been accused of using state funds for sending out telegrams during the 1970 campaign in behalf of Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif. We have also learned that Uhler's aide, John G. Sawicki, was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to 60 days in jail and three years probation on March 11, 1966, in Spokane, Wash. The court granted a routine "dismissal of cause" after he completed his probation.

Bayh's Bills — Our recent report on Sen. Birch Bayh's lavish campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination brought an immediate response from Washington's Shrader Sound, Inc. Bayh bought two Ampex tape recorders and other electronic equipment from Shrader last March, who expected pay in 10 days. Three months later, less than $200 of the $2,000 bill had been paid. Then we wrote Bayh as raking in between $25,000 and $30,000 a month, which he was spending on champagne breakfasts, chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royces, black-tie dinners and free booze for Democratic leaders. At Bayh headquarters, a sheepish spokesman confirmed the debt and said a check was going out within a week.

President Must Decide Quickly On Proposal If Prisoners To Be Released By Year's End

PARIS — "The only practical American interest remaining in these neogitations is to get out with a degree of honor. This is probably the last chance to do it."

The comment came from a man deeply familiar with the course of the Vietnam peace-talks and therefore without optimistic illusions. He saw that hope—that limited hope—in the new communist peace offer and and the gloss put on it by North Vietnam's ranking figure here, Le Duc Tho.

For three weary years, through 120 stagey meetings, the negotiators have failed to resolve any issue of substance. They have never really got down to negotiating. Why should the situation be different now?

The answer is that until now the issue on the table has been one on which neither side was genuinely prepared to bargain: the political future of South Vietnam. Successive American administrations have been committed to preserve the government in Saigon, the communists to destroy it.

But the talks could focus now on a question less profound and therefore more likely to be within the reach of negotiation. That is the communist proposal for American withdrawal by a fixed date and the simultaneous release of prisoners—both without any prior political understanding.

In discussing that proposal separately, as an interview with Le Duc Tho made clear he envisaged, each side would have an urgent interest and a reason to bargain: the United States to get its prisoners out, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to be assured of an early and total American withdrawal.

Le Duc Tho gave an impression of considerable flexibility. He indicated that the timetable for withdrawal, by the end of 1971, was negotiable. He left open the possibility that American military aid to Saigon could continue. He said for the first time that, after an American exit, the communists would negotiate with the Saigon administration — so long as it was not headed by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Many difficulties are still seen by American diplomats in the new proposal. It could be read as requiring an unacceptably sudden end to U.S. support of the South Vietnamese army. It could exclude from the prisoner exchange Americans captured in Laos and Cambodia, and require the inclusion of civilian "revolutionaries" held in Saigon jails.

Some students of Mr. Nixon believe he will not revert to an old theme not mentioned lately: the demand for "mutual withdrawal" of both North Vietnamese and American forces from South Vietnam. That would effectively indicate a decision not to negotiate.

To take up the communist proposal seriously, the President would probably have to announce a decision in principle to set a final withdrawal date—the step he has so far refused to take. Then he could test, in negotiations, Le Duc Tho's statement that after that decision the details of withdrawal and prisoner exchange could be "rapidly settled."

Nixon will have to choose his course quite swiftly, for he is under severe time pressure on the prisoner issue. The American public demand to "get the boys home by Christmas" is so strong that some think the President will in any case have to announce a final date when he makes his next scheduled troop withdrawal statement in November, if there has been no negotiated agreement by then.

A November announcement may be too late to bring the desired response—early release of all the prisoners. The communists want the decision to come this summer, evidently hoping that it will swing the October presidential election in South Vietnam away from General Thieu and toward a candidate with whom they could negotiate.

Here we approach the question of American honor. The communists, as Le Duc Tho said, would like the United States to arrange that General Thieu lose the election. Most Americans would regard open intervention to that end as improper. We would be repeating our past mistake of playing God in South Vietnam.

But it does not follow that the United States will be honorably neutral in South Vietnamese politics if it stands pat on its present policy this summer.

Even The Economist of London, which has taken a persistently hawkish view, this week sees advantages in the election of a Saigon president who could deal with the communists. Nixon himself could soon come to regret a policy that helped to re-elect General Thieu. For in 1972 the political pressure to do something about the prisoners may become unbearable. And eventually the something could be the step we now eschew: forcing out the man who is the obstacle to a settlement, General Thieu.

If he thinks into that distance, President Nixon may see that prudence and honor both counsel an attempt to seize this last chance in Paris.

Martha's Vineyard Resists 'Progress'

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. — Summer has come to this beautiful island, and once again Martha's Vineyard is being inundated. People, cars, people, hippies, hitchhikers — the human tide is approaching the flood and old timers are wondering how much of the green and once-peaceful past can be saved.

Shortly, the expectation is, a report on the island's future by a conservation commission will come out. According to advance reports, it will set a time span of five years for reversing present trends and checking the slide toward impossible overcrowding, pollution of air and water — all the ills damaging so much of America.

The recommendations in the report will mean facing up to the fact that the solution is not more car ferries from the mainland, more subdivisions, more hotels, more highways, more gas stations. It will mean the end of boosterism; the recognition that limits must be imposed and that what is ironically called progress can be wholly destructive

☆ ☆ ☆

This is the dilemma of the ecology movement not only at a few surviving outposts but everywhere. Basic attitudes must be changed, with a recognition that without limits imposed in some form, the bounty of the America of an earlier day will run down to zero.

Martha's Vineyard happens to have a lot of that bounty still intact — placid ponds, green forests, long stretches of unspoiled beach. After all, the ferry from Woods Hole, the nearest point on the Massachusetts shore, takes nearly an hour to the island and the fare is $2.25 for an individual passenger. That is an inhibiting factor, so that urban sprawl and bumper-to-bumper traffic are not as pervasive as on Cape Cod.

But an old timer who has seen so much change in his 51 years on the island is not too sanguine about the future. Henry Beetls Hough, editor of the Vineyard Gazette, a long-time fighter for conservation, author of many books celebrating the natural beauty of the island, says while he is still hopeful, his hope is tempered with skepticism. There are pressures to tone down the conclusions of the report before it is released. How could anyone be so shortsighted as to oppose progress? Look at the island's prosperity. Look at the way land values have gone up and up and up.

Some summer residents established for a generation or more have private beaches, private roads, caretakers and guards to keep the hippies off their preserves. They may consider themselves immune from the troubles increasingly plaguing the crowded centers. Yet pollution of the beaches cannot be stayed by private fiat. Access to beach that is still public—about nine per cent of the total—is one of the complications in traffic, parking and the other problems of congestion.

Martha's Vineyard is only one small sample of what is happening along the whole Atlantic coastline. Not so much for private use as for private exploitation, a large proportion of the shore has been shut off to the public. What was once a great public domain embracing a coastline as beautiful as any in the world is fenced off. Something very like this is happening on the Pacific Coast.

As is still little understood, the ecology movement so lately come to birth hits head-on with the profit motive. The intervenor must be the federal government. And the intervention has to be on a scale far larger than yet contemplated if the effort that churns up so much political rhetoric is to be more than a brief palliative.

Good things are happening. The State of Delaware has just passed a law forbidding industrial development on its coast. It is to be kept for recreation, an escape hatch for sunbathers and surfers from nearby cities. This is an example other coastal states would be wise to follow.

Man's machines have an irresistible momentum. When the first jets came to the Edgartown airport, you imagined, as one devoted summer resident put it, the whole island trembling.

His eyes ever miss a movement or his ears, a sound, as he lies quietly in the center of a big family room, or strolls about the big lawn, sniffing a rose or lifting his eyes as a flock of birds wing low overhead. A gray rabbit darts across the yard. His ears twitch from yesterday's memories and I think he smiles, remembering what fun the chase used to be.

Mike has a new family now and as the youngest boy goes upstairs to bed, my heart is consoled as Mike follows his new master, who will be guarded as he sleeps, by man's best friend—his dog.

Two Choices

Lincoln, Neb.

According to the latest talks in Paris between the U.S. and North Vietnam, it does not appear at this time that the U.S. can attain any honorable settlement. It appears certain that there is little if any intent on the part of North Vietnam to honor any commitments on their part. The violation of the demilitarization zone is but one example of their attitude.

Under present conditions, it would appear that the U.S. has but two choices, either to withdraw soon and hope the north does not take over the south, when U.S. military forces leave, or continue this war indefinitely.

It is questionable whether this war — so-called, is worth the expenditure of men and materials. If North Vietnam has enough land of their own, why do they want the south?

It would appear now that to stop the north from taking over South Vietnam, it would take a military attack of the intensity of that when Russia entered East Germany, where there was such fire power that whole villages disappeared.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

Our sincere gratitude for the coverage of the Second International Convention of the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia. We were delighted with pictures and stories carried by The Star and with the interest shown in the program which had been arranged by our Lincoln chapter. A special thank-you to Linda Sullivan for her report of the interview at our press conference.

Our out-of-town guests were much impressed by the welcome they received from the entire community. The Star staff and the notice they gave to the historical and educational goals of our organization went a long way in telling our visitors and in reminding those of German-Russian heritage in the Lincoln area that this is indeed a great city in which to live.

Martha's Vineyard Resists 'Progress'

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. — Summer has come to this beautiful island, and once again Martha's Vineyard is being inundated. People, cars, people, hippies, hitchhikers — the human tide is approaching the flood and old timers are wondering how much of the green and once-peaceful past can be saved.

Shortly, the expectation is, a report on the island's future by a conservation commission will come out. According to advance reports, it will set a time span of five years for reversing present trends and checking the slide toward impossible overcrowding, pollution of air and water — all the ills damaging so much of America.

The recommendations in the report will mean facing up to the fact that the solution is not more car ferries from the mainland, more subdivisions, more hotels, more highways, more gas stations. It will mean the end of boosterism; the recognition that limits must be imposed and that what is ironically called progress can be wholly destructive.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is the dilemma of the ecology movement not only at a few surviving outposts but everywhere. Basic attitudes must be changed, with a recognition that without limits imposed in some form, the bounty of the America of an earlier day will run down to zero.

Martha's Vineyard happens to have a lot of that bounty still intact — placid ponds, green forests, long stretches of unspoiled beach. After all, the ferry from Woods Hole, the nearest point on the Massachusetts shore, takes nearly an hour to the island and the fare is $2.25 for an individual passenger. That is an inhibiting factor, so that urban sprawl and bumper-to-bumper traffic are not as pervasive as on Cape Cod.

But an old timer who has seen so much change in his 51 years on the island is not too sanguine about the future. Henry Beetls Hough, editor of the Vineyard Gazette, a long-time fighter for conservation, author of many books celebrating the natural beauty of the island, says while he is still hopeful, his hope is tempered with skepticism. There are pressures to tone down the conclusions of the report before it is released. How could anyone be so shortsighted as to oppose progress? Look at the island's prosperity. Look at the way land values have gone up and up and up.

Some summer residents established for a generation or more have private beaches, private roads, caretakers and guards to keep the hippies off their preserves. They may consider themselves immune from the troubles increasingly plaguing the crowded centers. Yet pollution of the beaches cannot be stayed by private fiat. Access to beach that is still public—about nine per cent of the total—is one of the complications in traffic, parking and the other problems of congestion.

Martha's Vineyard is only one small sample of what is happening along the whole Atlantic coastline. Not so much for private use as for private exploitation, a large proportion of the shore has been shut off to the public. What was once a great public domain embracing a coastline as beautiful as any in the world is fenced off. Something very like this is happening on the Pacific Coast.

As is still little understood, the ecology movement so lately come to birth hits head-on with the profit motive. The intervenor must be the federal government. And the intervention has to be on a scale far larger than yet contemplated if the effort that churns up so much political rhetoric is to be more than a brief palliative.

Good things are happening. The State of Delaware has just passed a law forbidding industrial development on its coast. It is to be kept for recreation, an escape hatch for sunbathers and surfers from nearby cities. This is an example other coastal states would be wise to follow.

Man's machines have an irresistible momentum. When the first jets came to the Edgartown airport, you imagined, as one devoted summer resident put it, the whole island trembling.

Military's Retirees Have Federal Jobs

WASHINGTON — Buddy System — The House Manpower Subcommittee is investigating how military retirees use the buddy system to hustle civil service jobs. The Dual Compensation Act permits retired military personnel to "double dip" from the Treasury by collecting both their pension plus pay from a second-career federal job. This is a privilege not open to other federal retirees. Subcommittee investigators have learned that military retirees on the federal payroll tip off their buddies, who plan to retire from the armed forces, about civil service job openings. Subcommittee sources estimate that 100,000 retired military men now hold civilian jobs on the federal payroll, that the civilian work force in some agencies is rapidly being militarized.

☆ ☆ ☆

Reagan's Rowdies — Ronald Reagan, governor of California's well-to-do conservatives, clothed himself in righteous white last year and set out to smash the California Rural Legal Assistance program. He vetoed a $1.8 million federal grant to CRLA because its lawyers had thwarted his efforts to curtail services for the poor. It's worth mentioning that Lewis K. Uhler, Reagan's man in charge of investigating the CRLA and a one-time member of the John Birch Society, has now been accused of using state funds for sending out telegrams during the 1970 campaign in behalf of Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif. We have also learned that Uhler's aide, John G. Sawicki, was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to 60 days in jail and three years probation on March 11, 1966, in Spokane, Wash. The court granted a routine "dismissal of cause" after he completed his probation.

☆ ☆ ☆

Bayh's Bills — Our recent report on Sen. Birch Bayh's lavish campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination brought an immediate response from Washington's Shrader Sound, Inc. Bayh bought two Ampex tape recorders and other electronic equipment from Shrader last March, who expected pay in 10 days. Three months later, less than $200 of the $2,000 bill had been paid. Then we wrote Bayh as raking in between $25,000 and $30,000 a month, which he was spending on champagne breakfasts, chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royces, black-tie dinners and free booze for Democratic leaders. At Bayh headquarters, a sheepish spokesman confirmed the debt and said a check was going out within a week.

President Must Decide Quickly On Proposal If Prisoners To Be Released By Year's End

PARIS — "The only practical American interest remaining in these neogitations is to get out with a degree of honor. This is probably the last chance to do it."

The comment came from a man deeply familiar with the course of the Vietnam peace-talks and therefore without optimistic illusions. He saw that hope—that limited hope—in the new communist peace offer and and the gloss put on it by North Vietnam's ranking figure here, Le Duc Tho.

For three weary years, through 120 stagey meetings, the negotiators have failed to resolve any issue of substance. They have never really got down to negotiating. Why should the situation be different now?

The answer is that until now the issue on the table has been one on which neither side was genuinely prepared to bargain: the political future of South Vietnam. Successive American administrations have been committed to preserve the government in Saigon, the communists to destroy it.

But the talks could focus now on a question less profound and therefore more likely to be within the reach of negotiation. That is the communist proposal for American withdrawal by a fixed date and the simultaneous release of prisoners—both without any prior political understanding.

In discussing that proposal separately, as an interview with Le Duc Tho made clear he envisaged, each side would have an urgent interest and a reason to bargain: the United States to get its prisoners out, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to be assured of an early and total American withdrawal.

Le Duc Tho gave an impression of considerable flexibility. He indicated that the timetable for withdrawal, by the end of 1971, was negotiable. He left open the possibility that American military aid to Saigon could continue. He said for the first time that, after an American exit, the communists would negotiate with the Saigon administration — so long as it was not headed by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Many difficulties are still seen by American diplomats in the new proposal. It could be read as requiring an unacceptably sudden end to U.S. support of the South Vietnamese army. It could exclude from the prisoner exchange Americans captured in Laos and Cambodia, and require the inclusion of civilian "revolutionaries" held in Saigon jails.

Some students of Mr. Nixon believe he will not revert to an old theme not mentioned lately: the demand for "mutual withdrawal" of both North Vietnamese and American forces from South Vietnam. That would effectively indicate a decision not to negotiate.

To take up the communist proposal seriously, the President would probably have to announce a decision in principle to set a final withdrawal date—the step he has so far refused to take. Then he could test, in negotiations, Le Duc Tho's statement that after that decision the details of withdrawal and prisoner exchange could be "rapidly settled."

Nixon will have to choose his course quite swiftly, for he is under severe time pressure on the prisoner issue. The American public demand to "get the boys home by Christmas" is so strong that some think the President will in any case have to announce a final date when he makes his next scheduled troop withdrawal statement in November, if there has been no negotiated agreement by then.

A November announcement may be too late to bring the desired response—early release of all the prisoners. The communists want the decision to come this summer, evidently hoping that it will swing the October presidential election in South Vietnam away from General Thieu and toward a candidate with whom they could negotiate.

Here we approach the question of American honor. The communists, as Le Duc Tho said, would like the United States to arrange that General Thieu lose the election. Most Americans would regard open intervention to that end as improper. We would be repeating our past mistake of playing God in South Vietnam.

But it does not follow that the United States will be honorably neutral in South Vietnamese politics if it stands pat on its present policy this summer.

Even The Economist of London, which has taken a persistently hawkish view, this week sees advantages in the election of a Saigon president who could deal with the communists. Nixon himself could soon come to regret a policy that helped to re-elect General Thieu. For in 1972 the political pressure to do something about the prisoners may become unbearable. And eventually the something could be the step we now eschew: forcing out the man who is the obstacle to a settlement, General Thieu.

If he thinks into that distance, President Nixon may see that prudence and honor both counsel an attempt to seize this last chance in Paris.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®
NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

We drove up the wild Gaspe Peninsula of French Canada. It's the thick lower lip of the mouth of the St. Lawrence. Province of Quebec — "La Belle Province." The beautiful province.

It's a proud French - speaking country. For this was New France discovered by seamen from Brittany and Normandy. The gray stoned churches lift Norman spires above each village, all named for saints.

We drove through St. Simon and St. Fabien. Through Sacre Coeur and St. Joseph and then Sainte Flavie and then St. Ulric.

It was a holiday weekend. Everybody said: "You must have reservations! Every place will be crowded."

This was entirely true. Everyplace was crowded. But there weren't many places. The highway by American thinking was almost empty. We went miles and miles, seeing only an occasional car.

☆ ☆ ☆

By government statistics, nine million Americans visit Canada each year. Leaving $1.2 billion U.S. dollars. (If you change $100 at a bank they count out $100 Canadian. Then they give you a bonus of $2.12. If you change at a hotel, they give you $100 and a smile.)

I asked the maid: "Do many Americans come here?"

"Oh yes, a lot," she said. "Beaucoup."

However, maybe she thinks 10 is a lot. Who knows? In the waiting line for the ferry — about a hundred cars — I counted three U.S. license plates.

☆ ☆ ☆

It's a grand open country. The roads are fine. Driving with little traffic is a joy. I have a rented stationwagon — air-conditioned. Two children — one just getting over chickenpox looks like wasps have bten at him.

Every five miles or so, there's a one room office: "Informations Touristique."

There's a lady sitting alone and hopeful inside. Perhaps awaiting the magic kiss of the Fairy Prince. I gave them a "bon jour" and waved. It looks like a lonesome job.

☆ ☆ ☆

We fell into a splendid hotel-motel at Matane. The Belle Plage. The belle plage was not particularly belle. In fact it's a rocky kind of beach — the other shore of the St. Lawrence seaway is a faint line on the horizon.

The town is on a salmon river. A highway follows the river for 25 miles. You can get out of your car and walk a few feet and fish anywhere.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Belle Plage is first class — there aren't too many hotels in the Gaspe, even though it's the most popular part of the Province. Just to prove they're first class, they nudge you $1.60 for a martini. A little better than the Kriendler Bros. get at '21".

They have an excellent smoked salmon, carving it off the whole fish at the table and serving it — (like "21") — with oil and pepper and lemon.

☆ ☆ ☆

I went down to the bar and bought $3.20 worth of martinis. They have bar maids in this country. This one was attractive and I asked her: "Is the hotel full?"

She said: "Oh, yes. This is the season." She said: "Are you lacking a room? We have some rooms left."

I said: "Where are those nine million Americans?"

She said: "How's that?"

I said: "Never mind. Give me $1.60 worth more."

☆ ☆ ☆

The French Canadians are proud of their cooking. Along the highway at tiny, shacky marked "Restaurant" the window sign says "Canadian cooking."

The main event is "soupe au pois." Pea Soup. It's on every menu. The country couldn't operate without pea soup any more than it could without electricity. It's pretty good. Laced with onions, spices and lard. I put in a few gallons so far. And I don't ping when I climb hills.

Opportunity For Public Comment Urged On Map Of Natural Resources Districts

By The Associated Press

The League of Women Voters of Nebraska Tuesday asked the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission to give the public a chance to react to the map of natural resource districts which the commission will draw.

In a letter to commission members, the league reminded that it had supported the 1971 Legislature's LB538, which directed the commission to divide the state into 16 to 28 natural resource districts and determine their boundaries this year.

The league noted that 1969 legislation on the subject resulted in a series of public hearings acrosss the state during the summer of 1970.

"However, LB538 contains no provision for public comment," the letter said.

"Because of previous comments you have received, there does not seem to be a need for the ambitious schedule of public hearings held during 1970. Perhaps four or five hearings in central locations across the state would be enough. Perhaps a well publicized program on ETV . . . could be a forum for comment. Perhaps publicizing the new boundaries and asking for written comments would be sufficient."

Union Official Says Sales Tax On Food 'Punishes Poor'

Nebraska's sales tax on food results in "the poor man (being) punished for being poor," State AFL-CIO President Richard Nisley of Omaha said.

"The sales tax is a classical example of regressive imposition.

"When a sales tax is applied to the necessities of life — food, drugs, clothes, etc.—cruelty is added to injustice."

Support For Exon

Nisley outlined organized labor's opposition to the food tax, and its support of Gov. J. James Exon's unsuccessful attempt to abolish it, in a legislative report in "The Unionist," the AFL-CIO's official newspaper.

"We should not underestimate the patience of our people and their ability to get used to injustice," Nisley wrote.

"The sales tax has gone from strength to strength. It is now accepted as a permanent fixture in the state tax system.

'First Essential'

"In general, the first essential of justice is that the tax should vary in proportion to the ability to pay. Since the sales tax is independent of the ability to pay, it is unjust."

Nisley urged local unions to "do a much better job" in communicating their views to state senators by letter.

"Do not underestimate how very important mail is in the method of determining thoughtful constituent opinion," he said.

'Tremendous Victory'

Nisley said defeat of the legislative proposal to repeal the 1969 public employes negotiation act was "a great team effort and a tremendous victory."

The new environmental control act was disappointing, he said.

"We opposed the amended sections that state that Nebraska cannot have more stringent standards than the federal government," Nisley noted.

"The big joke is the board (a new environmental control council) is made up of major polluters."

Pioneers To Close

Pioneers Blvd. from 33rd to 48th will be closed for three weeks for resurfacing, the City Traffic Engineering office announced.

2 NU Grads To Write State Demo History

Two June graduates of the University of Nebraska have been hired to write a history of Nebraska's Democratic Party, State Chairman Hess Dyas of Lincoln said Tuesday.

The pair — Jim Pedersen of Laurel and Ken Wald of Lincoln — hope to complete the manuscript by Sept. 1, Dyas said.

One thousand books will be produced in the first printing and may be ready to go on sale about Jan. 1, 1972, Dyas said.

The project could develop into "a valuable fund-raising vehicle" for the party, he noted.

"I think Democratic families will be interested in this book," Dyas said. "It should give us a sense of history . . . a look at where we've been."

Pedersen and Wald are both members of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Man Hospitalized In Auto Accident

Theodore Rollogas, 46, of 2211 So. 58th, was hospitalized Tuesday following a two-car accident on 48th between Van Dorn and Antelope Creek Rd., police said.

Rollogas was southbound on 48th when his car was in collision with a northbound vehicle driven by Tom D. Sietz, 24, of 1025 No. 63rd, according to police.

Police said Rollogas was admitted to Bryan Memorial Hospital with a broken left knee and hip cuts.

Bride At Evening Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Susan Lynn Maschmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maschmann, and John E. Reno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norval S. Reno of Alliance, took place at the Peace Lutheran Church in Deshler on Saturday evening June 26. The 7 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Robert Wessels.

The honor attendants were Mrs. Steven Zinsmaster and Miss Patricia Houchin.

Arthur Arnett of Colorado Springs, Colo., served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Steven Zinsmaster, Richard Hoffmeyer of Deshler, and Russell Reno and William Reno, both of Alliance.

The bride appeared in a gown of sheer organza and Venetian lace. The lace sculptured the bodice, fashioned the mandarin collar, and capped and cuffed the Camelot sleeves. Beneath the empire waistline the skirt was an A-line silhouette. A bandeau held in place her chapel-length veil which was edged with the lace, and she carried a bouquet of carnations in the peach shade, gypsophelia, stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Reno and his bride are residing at 1318 B St., Apt. 3, in Lincoln.

The bride attended the Lincoln School of Commerce. Mr. Reno attended Chadron State College and the University of Nebraska.

Engagement

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Black make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gloria June, to Ronald Frank Voboril, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voboril.

Saturday, Oct. 2, has been chosen as a wedding date.

Miss Black is careering with the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Mr. Voboril attended IBM School in Kansas City, Mo., and now is associated with the Lincoln Steel Co.

MISS CONNIE HANSEN

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Hansen of Sioux City, Iowa, recently of Ralston, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Connie, to Tim Willits, son of Mrs. Kenneth Willits of Lincoln.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Aug. 7, and the ceremony will be solemnized in Ralston.

Miss Hansen will be a senior next year at Kearney State College.

Mr. Willits also will be a senior at Kearney State College next year.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Both the month and the week have about reached the mid-way mark, and both the month — up to now — and the week have been busy and more activity looms up on the horizon. There are those, so we hear, who are leaving Nebraska's summer heat for far away place, and others who have hied themselves off to places not so far away — We'll tell you about it when they arrive back home.

* * *

This is the day that Mrs. Tom Yates and her daughter, Ann, arrive from Riverside, Conn., to spend a week or two as the house guests of Mrs. Yates' mother, Mrs. Vance Traphagen.

And tomorrow morning, so we hear, Mrs. Yates will be visiting with some of her old and close friends over a cup of coffee at the home of her mother.

* * *

But there will be coffee cup chatter this morning, also — The incentive for this particular party, for which Mrs. Robert Logsdon will be hostess at her home, is Miss Donna Getscher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Getscher, whose marriage to David Ewing Jr., will be solemnized on Saturday, July 31. During the morning the soon-to-be bride will be presented with an around-the-clock shower.

There are many more courtesies for Miss Getscher between now and July 31, and one of these is the party for which Mrs. Douglas Dort and Mrs. Martin Swanson will be hostesses on Saturday, July 24, at the home of Mrs. Dort. The festivities include a morning coffee, and a kitchen shower for the soon-to-be bride.

Then, on the following Thursday evening, July 29, Miss Getscher and her fiance will share honors at a prenuptial courtesy. Their host and hostess will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gotfredson who will entertain at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club.

On Friday evening Mr. Ewing's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Ewing of Wayne, will pay prenuptial courtesy to Miss Getscher and their son when they preside at dinner at the Legionnaire Club.

LWV Leader Will Serve On National Committee

Mrs. James Weber, former president of the League of Women Voters of Nebraska and current legislative chairman of the state organization, has been appointed to the Leagues' national committee on voting rights and representative government.

The appointment was made by the league's national president, Mrs. Bruce Benson of Amherst, Mass.

The national committee will meet in Washington, D.C., this fall to determine policies and plans to implement the League's position on protecting the individual citizen in his right to vote. Committee members were chosen from all regions of the country.

Mrs. Weber also is past president of the Lincoln League and served as a member of Nebraska's Constitutional Revision Commission. She now serves on the nominating commission for judges.

Carrots Go To Their Heads

BY VIVIAN BROWN
(AP Newsfeatures Writer)

When is an egg head not an egg head? When he is an avocado, carrot, celery or banana head, says hair specialist Monsieur Jacques, who uses vegetables and fruits in remedial shampoos for men.

It isn't a gimmick nor does it reflect ecological hysteria, he explains. The method has been used successfully in France for more than 30 years, although he didn't begin using it until a year and a half ago.

Jacques, who fought with the underground in French Morocco during World War II, attracts rugged individuals to his salon. Businessmen, atcors, teachers, lawyers, doctors, outdoor men do not care who knows that Jacques pampers their heads. Stock brokers travel uptown from Wall Street to his midtown establishment. They may sit in one of six comfortable chairs or in private booths equipped with telephones.

"In preparing the remedial shampoos, I test a few strands of the client's hair to determine its degree of dryness or oiliness and I then decide which vegetable or fruit to use. Avocado, a high fat protein, is best for very dry hair. Carrot is used for medium-dry hair, and occasionally I also use a banana for dry hair. Celery is very good for oily hair although I have sometimes used cabbage," he says. He also uses egg.

Jacques, a carrot type, has greying hair that is glossy and healthy.

He crushes the vegetables in a machine and mixes the juices with neutral soap. He often mixes two vegetables. No alcohol is used. Shampoo is left on the head for five minutes, then it is brushed thoroughly-through the hair before it is rinsed off.

"My main concern is to keep a man's hair in good condition so I can work well with it. If he is bald, I can't do beautiful work — he will want a quick hair treatment and become discouraged."

He doesn't do hair weaving or transplanting. It is a long process. If hair is needed, he may fill it out with a very light hair piece.

In addition to the massage and special shampoo, a man may require deep skin cleansing, hair coloring, hair straightening, pedicure or a French sculpted razor cut. Jacques also gives the popular unisex cut — the shaggy hairdo that is popular with both sexes.

When he sees a client for the first time he must persuade him to wear a cap in the shower, he says, and to wash his hair no more than twice a week.

"Many men ruin their hair by washing it in the shower every day which removes the sebum, the natural oil protection for the hair."

Josephine Lowman

This exercise is an easy but excellent waist slimmer. Stand with your feet separated and your arms raised sideward, shoulder height. Twist your torso to the right, pulling back with your right arm. Return forward and twist to the left pulling back with your left arm. Continue twisting right and left with an easy swing. Look back over your right shoulder when you twist to the right and over your left shoulder when you twist to the left. This gives you the extra bonus of a good neck exercise.

Q. I think you contradicted yourself in two articles during the past two weeks. I am referring to the typist who thought that her knuckles were enlarging because of using them so much. You said exercise would not make the bones larger. Now in today's article you said that the pull of the muscles on the bones stimulates them to grow in size and strength. Please explain.

A, No, I really was not inconsistent, although I can see why it might have sounded that way. The pull of the big muscle groups against the bones is entirely different from any stress the small muscles in the fingers produce.

Q. I am going to a prom and must have my hair done. I would like to know what would look best. I have a round face and my hair reaches my shoulder blades.

A. You need some height on top of your head and the hair fairly close on the sides. If you want to keep your hair that long you will have to have it swept up and arranged in some fashion such as I have just described. If you are willing to wear your hair shoulder length then you could have curls on top (yours or an extra hair piece.) However, I think that curls on top would look out of proportion with hair as long as yours.

Q. Please give me advice. My figure is a mess! I am 5 feet, 4 inches tall, weigh 115 pounds and have a small frame. My arms and legs are like sticks. Then at the top of my thighs I am very heavy and my hips are GIGANTIC! How much weight should I lose and how can I redistribute my weight? My backside is as big as a house!

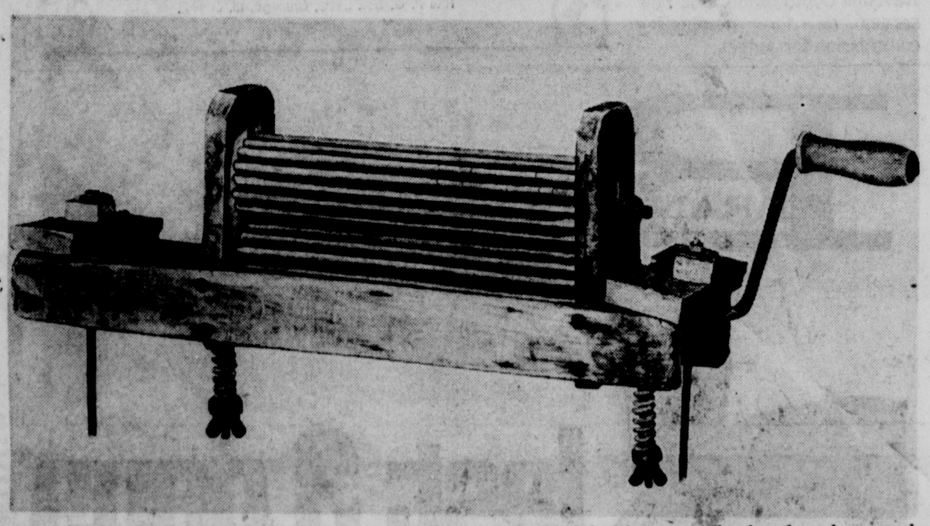
A. You are not overweight, even with a very small frame. in fact you are just right. This is an example of how weight distribution affects the figure. The answer is EXERCISE. That is the only way you can redistribute pounds, and you CAN do it that way.

Concentrate on this exercise for slimming the backside; it is one of the most effective ones: Sit on the floor with your legs resting on the floor (knees straight). Lean back on your hands. Lift both legs, with straight knees, until your body weight falls directly over the fattest part of your hips. Keep your legs in this position as you roll from side to side. catching yourself with your hand at the end of each roll. Do not do this smoothly. Make it choppy!

Q. I am a girl who will be 15 in July. I am five feet and three inches tall and have a medium frame. About how much should I weigh?

A. About 115 pounds.

Know Your Antiques



Wringing clothes by hand needed muscle so a thoughtful 19th century husband made a wooden wringer to help. Maple rollers are held to a pine base with iron bolts, nuts and handle. It was made about 1870.

(Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

By Ralph and Terry Kovel

Washday blues were more muscular during the 19th century. Clothes were soaked, rubbed, wrung and hung. There were no automatic aids. The clothes wringer was an improvement that helped many housewives. The first mass produced wooden wringers appeared during the mid-1800s. A few hand-made versions had been previously made by loving husbands. The early wringers were made with two corrugated wooden rollers that could be turned with a handle. By 1900, rubber rollers were used and the wringers were attached to the washtub with metal clamps.

Q. My chocolate glass dish was made by the Tumbler and Goblet Company of Greentown, Indiana in the 1890s. Can you tell me about the process used in making this special glass? Isn't there a new museum for this glass?

A. The Greentown Glass Museum was opened in 1971 in Greentown, Indiana. Hundreds of pieces of Greentown glass are on display. Many letters and pictures related to the production of the glass are also on display.

The famous chocolate glass which is sometimes referred to collectors, was made from November, 1901, to June, 1903. It is not a true slag glass but was a special secret patented glassware by Jacob Rosenthal. The Indiana Tumbler and Goblet Company was just one of several glasswords where Mr. Rosenthal poured his chocolate glass. The factory burned down in 1903 and Mr. Rosenthal traveled to many other factories where he poured his special glass in molds owned by others. This will help to explain why pieces were found in patterns made by The Northwood Glass Co. of Wheeling, W. Va., and The Fenton Art Glass Co. of Fenton, Ohio.

Chocolate glass is found in many patterns including leaf bracket, cactus, deer, squirrel and herron.

Q. My tea caddy has three sections. Two of them have covers. There is a glass bowl in the center. What was it used for?

A. Many experts say the bowl was used in blending the green and black tea which was kept in the two covered sections. Others claim the tea was blended in the pot. The dish held lumps of sugar cut from the sugar cone. The cone was very large and kept in the kitchen. Several pictures of Victorian tea tables show the sugar in the dish.

BOOK REVIEW

Collectable glass is getting more recent each year, now pieces from the 1930s are eagerly sought. "The Fenton Story of Glass Making" is a color illustrated pamphlet from The Fenton Art Glass Company, Williamstown, W. Va., 26187. It pictures pieces from 1910 to 1968.

It's New

The inside is making more news — at least as far as the inside frame of furniture is concerned.

One of the world's largest manufacturers of furniture has introduced a special line of furniture that is made with a revolutionary new type of inner structure. This is a durable frame of rigid polyurethane foam that takes years of wear without breaking down, says Magdalaene Pfister, Extension home furnishings specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The furniture frame is made form chemicals which form a foaming liquid mixture when they are combined. When this mixture is poured into a mold, in a matter of minutes it forms into a strong durable structure.

This speed of operation helps keep manufacturing costs down and means the consumer can select fine furniture at a lower price. The new type of furniture is characterized by elegant curving lines and an opulent look which would make the furniture highly expensive if produced by commercial manufacturing methods.

With the new foam structure, the furniture has no glue joints to come apart and the frame is consistently strong with no weak parts. The foam has another advantage in being unaffected by heat, cold or humidity. Since the foam is lighter in weight than its equivalent in wood, the homemaker finds the furniture easy to move.

FOOD for a patio party

If you missed your usual hot dog at the ball park, then why not come home to a Frosted "original" features ten frankfurters that have been placed between layers of a mixture of beef, veal and pork, canned tomato sauce special, bread crumbs, onion and seasonings. Bring your friends home, too, because there's enough to serve eight to ten people!

For the family on the go, Frosted Patio Loaf can be prepared ahead of time and left cooling. Once the gang is home again, the creamy cheese topping can be spread over the top and sides of the loaf, garnished and then served. Or, for those active families who prefer their meat loaf warm, the mixture of cream cheese and tomato sauce special may insetad be served as an accompaniment.

A crowded summer calendar needn't concern the smart homemaker who relies on canned variety tomato sauces in her meal preparation. A can of tomato sauce special features chunks of juicy tomatoes, chopped onions, green bell peppers, celery and selected seasonings. The time-consuming task of chopping those onions, green peppers or celery has already been done for her!

FROSTED PATIO LOAF

1½ pounds meat loaf mixture (veal, pork & beef)
1 egg, beaten
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
½ cup chopped green onions
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 (15-ounce) can Tomato Sauce Special
10 all beef frankfurters
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish

Mix meat, egg, bread crumbs, onion, salt, pepper and 1 cup Hunt's tomato sauce special; divide into thirds. Press 1/3 meat mixture into 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Arrange 5 frankfurters lengthwise on meat layer, pressing down slightly; cover with additional 1/3 meat mixture and place remaining 5 franks on top. Top with remaining 1/3 meat mixture. Place loaf pan on foil lined baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees 1 hour. Let stand 10 minutes. Remove meat loaf from pan; cool. Meanwhile, beat together cream cheese, horseradish and remaining Hunt's tomato sauce special. When loaf is cool, spread over top and sides. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives and parsley, if desired. Refrigerate until serving time. Makes 8 servings.

Bride At Evening Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Susan Lynn Maschmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maschmann, and John E. Reno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norval S. Reno of Alliance, took place at the Peace Lutheran Church in Deshler on Saturday evening June 26. The 7 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Robert Wessels.

The honor attendants were Mrs. Steven Zinsmaster and Miss Patricia Houchin.

Arthur Arnett of Colorado Springs, Colo., served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Steven Zinsmaster, Richard Hoffmeyer of Deshler, and Russell Reno and William Reno, both of Alliance.

The bride appeared in a gown of sheer organza and Venetian lace. The lace sculptured the bodice, fashioned the mandarin collar, and capped and cuffed the Camelot sleeves. Beneath the empire waistline the skirt was an A-line silhouette. A bandeau held in place her chapel-length veil which was edged with the lace, and she carried a bouquet of carnations in the peach shade, gypsophelia, stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Reno and his bride are residing at 1318 B St., Apt. 3, in Lincoln.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Both the month and the week have about reached the mid-way mark, and both the month — up to now — and the week have been busy and more activity looms up on the horizon. There are those, so we hear, who are leaving Nebraska's summer heat for far away place, and others who have hied themselves off to places not so far away — We'll tell you about it when they arrive back home.

* * *

This is the day that Mrs. Tom Yates and her daughter, Ann, arrive from Riverside, Conn., to spend a week or two as the house guests of Mrs. Yates' mother, Mrs. Vance Traphagen.

And tomorrow morning, so we hear, Mrs. Yates will be visiting with some of her old and close friends over a cup of coffee at the home of her mother.

* * *

But there will be coffee cup chatter this morning, also — The incentive for this particular party, for which Mrs. Robert Logsdon will be hostess at her home, is Miss Donna Getscher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Getscher, whose marriage to David Ewing Jr., will be solemnized on Saturday, July 31. During the morning the soon-to-be bride will be presented with an around-the-clock shower.

There are many more courtesies for Miss Getscher between now and July 31, and one of these is the party for which Mrs. Douglas Dort and Mrs. Martin Swanson will be hostesses on Saturday, July 24, at the home of Mrs. Dort. The festivities include a morning coffee, and a kitchen shower for the soon-to-be bride.

Then, on the following Thursday evening, July 29, Miss Getscher and her fiance will share honors at a prenuptial courtesy. Their host and hostess will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gotfredson who will entertain at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club.

On Friday evening Mr. Ewing's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Ewing of Wayne, will pay prenuptial courtesy to Miss Getscher and their son when they preside at dinner at the Legionnaire Club.

LWV Leader Will Serve On National Committee

Mrs. James Weber, former president of the League of Women Voters of Nebraska and current legislative chairman of the state organization, has been appointed to the Leagues' national committee on voting rights and representative government.

The appointment was made by the league's national president, Mrs. Bruce Benson of Amherst, Mass.

The national committee will meet in Washington, D.C., this fall to determine policies and plans to implement the League's position on protecting the individual citizen in his right to vote. Committee members were chosen from all regions of the country.

Mrs. Weber also is past president of the Lincoln League and served as a member of Nebraska's Constitutional Revision Commission. She now serves on the nominating commission for judges.

Opening lead — seven of diamonds.

Here is an interesting problem. West led a diamond against four spades, dummy's queen losing to the ace, and back came the queen of clubs.

Declarer ducked, won the continuation with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, and led a heart from dummy. East rose with the ace and returned a heart, but there was no way for South to avoid another club loser and he finished down one.

The problem is to figure out where declarer went wrong, since he would have made the contract had he played correctly. If you'd like to work on the problem, stop reading right here.

The solution goes back to the play from dummy at trick one. Instead of the queen, declarer should have played the duece. Had he done this, he would have made the contract.

East would win with the jack, but would now be stymied. Let's assume he returned the queen of clubs at trick two.

South wins with the ace, cashes the K-A of trumps, and leads the king of diamonds through the ace. Whether East covers makes no difference, so let's say he does cover.

Declarer ruffs, re-enters dummy with a trump, discards two clubs on the Q-10 of diamonds, and leads a heart towards his king, thus more or less ending the hand. In all, South loses a heart, a diamond and a club to bring home the contract.

It is of course difficult to recognize the high importance of the lowly nine of diamonds at trick one. Force of habit would cause almost everyone to play the queen from dummy on the opening lead, and only later would anyone censure himself for having played too hastily on the first trick.

Abby: maybe she's just sentimental

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In your column I saw the question of whether or not one who has earned a Ph.D. degree should be addressed as "Doctor." Why not?

It irks me no end that in the United States only medical doctors are addressed as "Doctor." On the other hand, in Germany, any uneducated goose who happens to be married to a doctor calls herself "Frau Doktor."

IRKED

DEAR IRKED: Save your irk. Any dummkopf can tell in two minutes whether the frau married the title or earned it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 60 and the lady I am dating is 55. I take her out to dinner twice a week, and we alyays go to the finest places.

I am in business for myself and I carry my business cards with me at all times. When I give waiters and waitresses a tip, which is always 20 per cent of the bill, I give them one of my business cards, too. I figure as long as I'm helping them make a living, they can also give me a break if they need anything in my line.

My lady friend says that this is not done in the best of society, and it's embarrassing for me. Who is right?

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

DEAR "IT": The lady is right. I agree, it does pay to advertise, but there are subtler ways of doing it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "VINCE IN PORTLAND": If Italian women do in fact shave their underarms, how do you account for the following old joke? "You can alyays tell an Italian airplane by the hair under the wings."

DEAR ABBY: Carol and I have been married for 12 years and we get along better than most married couples I've known. I work for an international company, and I've had four promotions since our marriage. Each promotion has meant moving to another state.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had this old trunk filled with love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ashtrays from restaurants everytime she had a date. They are all labeled. This trunk has got to weigh 200 pounds.

I was annoyed to think she'd hang on to all that junk, but I didn't say anything. Now I am really burned! After 12 years, she is still hauling this stuff around the country. I think it's time she got rid of it, but I don't want to play the role of the jealous husband. What is your opinion, and what should I do?

CAROL'S QUIET MAN

DEAR MAN: The "junk" belongs to your wife, and if she wants to haul it all over the world for the next 50 years, it's her privilege. You've been smart to be quiet about it. Don't spoil it now. When Carol decides she doesn't need those souvenirs anymore, she'll throw them out of her own accord. Apparently, she still needs a little support for her sagging ego. Or she could just be sentimental.

Carrots Go To Their Heads

BY VIVIAN BROWN
(AP Newsfeatures Writer)

When is an egg head not an egg head? When he is an avocado, carrot, celery or banana head, says hair specialist Monsieur Jacques, who uses vegetables and fruits in remedial shampoos for men.

It isn't a gimmick nor does it reflect ecological hysteria, he explains. The method has been used successfully in France for more than 30 years, although he didn't begin using it until a year and a half ago.

Jacques, who fought with the underground in French Morocco during World War II, attracts rugged individuals to his salon. Businessmen, actors, teachers, lawyers, doctors, outdoor men do not care who knows that Jacques pampers their heads. Stock brokers travel uptown from Wall Street to his midtown establishment. They may sit in one of six comfortable chairs or in private booths equipped with telephones.

"In preparing the remedial shampoos, I test a few strands of the client's hair to determine its degree of dryness or oiliness and I then decide which vegetable or fruit to use. Avocado, a high fat protein, is best for very dry hair. Carrot is used for medium-dry hair, and occasionally I also use a banana for dry hair. Celery is very good for oily hair although I have sometimes used cabbage," he says. He also uses egg.

Jacques, a carrot type, has greying hair that is glossy and healthy.

He crushes the vegetables in a machine and mixes the juices with neutral soap. He often mixes two vegetables. No alcohol is used. Shampoo is left on the head for five minutes, then it is brushed thoroughly through the hair before it is rinsed off.

"My main concern is to keep a man's hair in good condition so I can work well with it. If he is bald, I can't do beautiful work — he will want a quick hair treatment and become discouraged."

He doesn't do hair weaving or transplanting. It is a long process. If hair is needed, he may fill it out with a very light hair piece.

In addition to the massage and special shampoo, a man may require deep skin cleansing, hair coloring, hair straightening, pedicure or a French sculpted razor cut. Jacques also gives the popular unisex cut — the shaggy hairdo that is popular with both sexes.

When he sees a client for the first time he must persuade him to wear a cap in the shower, he says, and to wash his hair no more than twice a week.

"Many men ruin their hair by washing it in the shower every day which removes the sebum, the natural oil protection for the hair."

Josephine Lowman

Q. I think you contradicted yourself in two articles during the past two weeks. I am referring to the typist who thought that her knuckles were enlarging because of using them so much. You said exercise would not make the bones larger. Now in today's article you said that the pull of the muscles on the bones stimulates them to grow in size and strength. Please explain.

A. No, I really was not inconsistent, although I can see why it might have sounded that way. The pull of the big muscle groups against the bones is entirely different from any stress the small muscles in the fingers produce.

Q. I am going to a prom and must have my hair done. I would like to know what would look best. I have a round face and my hair reaches my shoulder blades.

A. You need some height on top of your head and the hair fairly close on the sides. If you want to keep your hair that long you will have to have it swept up and arranged in some fashion such as I have just described. If you are willing to wear your hair shoulder length then you could have curls on top (yours or an extra hair piece.) However, I think that curls on top would look out of proportion with hair as long as yours.

Q. Please give me advice. My figure is a mess! I am 5 feet, 4 inches tall, weigh 115 pounds and have a small frame. My arms and legs are like sticks. Then at the top of my thighs I am very heavy and my hips are GIGANTIC! How much weight should I lose and how can I redistribute my weight? My backside is as big as a house!

A. You are not overweight, even with a very small frame, in fact you are just right. This is an example of how weight distribution affects the figure. The answer is EXERCISE. That is the only way you can redistribute pounds, and you CAN do it that way.

Concentrate on this exercise for slimming the backside; it is one of the most effective ones: Sit on the floor with your legs resting on the floor (knees straight). Lean back on your hands. Lift both legs, with straight knees, until your body weight falls directly over the fattest part of your hips. Keep your legs in this position as you roll from side to side, catching yourself with your hand at the end of each roll. Do not do this smoothly. Make it choppy!

Q. I am a girl who will be 15 in July. I am five feet and three inches tall and have a medium frame. About how much should I weigh?

A. About 115 pounds.

It's New

The inside is making more news — at least as far as the inside frame of furniture is concerned.

One of the world's largest manufacturers of furniture has introduced a special line of furniture that is made with a revolutionary new type of inner structure. This is a durable frame of rigid polyurethane foam that takes years of wear without breaking down, says Magdalaene Pfister, Extension home furnishings specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The furniture frame is made form chemicals which form a foaming liquid mixture when they are combined. When this mixture is poured into a mold, in a matter of minutes it forms into a strong durable structure.

This speed of operation helps keep manufacturing costs down and means the consumer can select fine furniture at a lower price. The new type of furniture is characterized by elegant curving lines and an opulent look which would make the furniture highly expensive if produced by commercial manufacturing methods.

With the new foam structure, the furniture has no glue joints to come apart and the frame is consistently strong with no weak parts. The foam has another advantage in being unaffected by heat, cold or humidity. Since the foam is lighter in weight than its equivalent in wood, the homemaker finds the furniture easy to move.

Wringing clothes by hand needed muscle so a thoughtful 19th century husband made a wooden wringer to help. Maple rollers are held to a pine base with iron bolts, nuts and handle. It was made about 1870.

(Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

By Ralph and Terry Kovel

Washday blues were more muscular during the 19th century. Clothes were soaked, rubbed, wrung and hung. There were no automatic aids. The clothes wringer was an improvement that helped many housewives. The first mass produced wooden wringers appeared during the mid-1800s. A few hand-made versions had been previously made by loving husbands. The early wringers were made with two corrugated wooden rollers that could be turned with a handle. By 1900, rubber rollers were used and the wringers were attached to the washtub with metal clamps.

Q. My chocolate glass dish was made by the Tumbler and Goblet Company of Greentown, Indiana in the 1890s. Can you tell me about the process used in making this special glass? Isn't there a new museum for this glass?

A. The Greentown Glass Museum was opened in 1971 in Greentown, Indiana. Hundreds of pieces of Greentown glass are on display. Many letters and pictures related to the production of the glass are also on display.

The famous chocolate glass which is sometimes referred to collectors, was made from November, 1901, to June, 1903. It is not a true slag glass but was a special secret patented glassware by Jacob Rosenthal. The Indiana Tumbler and Goblet Company was just one of several glasswords where Mr. Rosenthal poured his chocolate glass. The factory burned down in 1903 and Mr. Rosenthal traveled to many other factories where he poured his special glass in molds owned by others. This will help to explain why pieces were found in patterns made by The Northwood Glass Co. of Wheeling, W. Va., and The Fenton Art Glass Co. of Fenton, Ohio.

Chocolate glass is found in many patterns including leaf bracket, cactus, deer, squirrel and herron.

Q. My tea caddy has three sections. Two of them have covers. There is a glass bowl in the center. What was it used for?

A. Many experts say the bowl was used in blending the green and black tea which was kept in the two covered sections. Others claim the tea was blended in the pot. The dish held lumps of sugar cut from the sugar cone. The cone was very large and kept in the kitchen. Several pictures of Victorian tea tables show the sugar in the dish.

BOOK REVIEW

Collectable glass is getting more recent each year, now pieces from the 1930s are eagerly sought. "The Fenton Story of Glass Making" is a color illustrated pamphlet from The Fenton Art Glass Company, Williamstown, W. Va., 26187. It pictures pieces from 1910 to 1968.

The time-consuming task of chopping those onions, green peppers or celery has already been done for her!

FROSTED PATIO LOAF

1½ pounds meat loaf mixture (veal, pork & beef)
1 egg, beaten
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
½ cup chopped green onions
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 (15-ounce) can Tomato Sauce Special
10 all beef frankfurters
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish

Mix meat, egg, bread crumbs, onion, salt, pepper and 1 cup Hunt's tomato sauce special; divide into thirds. Press 1/3 meat mixture into 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Arrange 5 frankfurters lengthwise on meat layer, pressing down slightly; cover with additional 1/3 meat mixture and place remaining 5 franks on top. Top with remaining 1/3 meat mixture. Place loaf pan on foil lined baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees 1 hour. Let stand 10 minutes. Remove meat loaf from pan; cool. Meanwhile, beat together cream cheese, horseradish and remaining Hunt's tomato sauce special. When loaf is cool, spread over top and sides. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives and parsley, if desired. ACCENT—on the world of music and art

Music Festivals

By HAROLD C. SCHOENBERG
(c) New York Times Service

New York — Two of the happier August musical customs will be resumed in a few weeks. The mostly Mozart Festival has scheduled 25 concerts here in Philharmonic Hall between Aug. 2 and 28.

During much the same time the shorter Newport Music Festival in Rhode Island, subtitled "A Romantic Revival in Newport's Fabled Mansions," will be going on, this one from July 29 to Aug. 7. But there will be 28 events at the Newport Music Festival, and those panting to hear some unusual 18th-Century works can attend three concerts a day if they wish.

The mostly Mozart Festival is, of course, antipodal to Newport. As in previous seasons, Mozart will dominate the programs, with Haydn and Schubert occupying an important but lesser place. Seats are priced at $4.50, first come first served; and bargain hunters can buy a discount book of 10 admissions for $27.50.

The New York Chamber Orchestra, which will be the resident group, consists of some of the best musicians in the city, and they will be conducted by such experts as Sergiu Comissiona, Jorge Mester and Michael Tilson Thomas. In addition, several conductors will be making their New York debut — Neville Marriner, who conducts the admired St. Martin-In-The-Fields orchestras in England; the pianist Philippe Entremont (he will lead several Mozart concertos from the keyboard); and David Zinman, former conductor of the Netherlands Chamber Orchestra.

"Art As Adversary"

By JOHN CANADAY
(c) New York Times Service

New York — If you happen to be a racist, a hawk, a Nazi, a crooked politician, or just a plain old sot-in-your-ways member of the capitalist bourgeoise, I do not think you will be running much risk of getting your ideas changed if you pay a visit to the Museum of Modern Art's big summer exhibition, "The Artist As Adversary," even though the 140 artists represented in it have raised their voices against racism, war, fascism, political corruption, and all the comfortable delusions cherished by a conservative society.

The trouble with art as protest is pretty well clarified by the fact that "The Artist As Adversary" assembles work by more than 140 artists from 21 countries, ranging from the impassioned declamations of our century's most vehemently social-minded masters (Ben Shah, the Mexicans, some current blacks) to the arcanums of Robert Motherwell and even Mark Tobey, and that the result is a very good art exhibition but a flaccid bit of social argument.

The trouble is basic: the audience for art in this century already knows all the pros and cons of the issues involved and has already taken sides on race, war, and the rest. The artists' arguments (always on the liberal side) are not interesting; it is only their way of phrasing their declamations that makes them worth attention. The one great exception is Picasso's "Guernica," which is present in this exhibition in sketches and, of course, is upstairs in the Museum for you to look at. But "Guernica" is an exception to everything, proving or disproving, as you wish, any generality you want to make about 20th century art.

Below "Guernica's" astral level but at the top of the heap otherwise among paintings making direct reference to politics and sociology is Peter Blume's allegory on Mussolini as the tawdry heir of Italy's magnificent past, "The Eternal City." This painting looks fine, and is still amazing as a technical marvel whatever the reduced impact of its literary exposition after 35 years. I was interested in Blume's statement in the catalogue:

"Mussolini's propagandists went around brazenly putting up distorted and exaggerated effigies of this ham. They were frighteningly bad, not at all impressive . . . Mussolini had the city covered with shameless statues of himself; one papier mache figure of him was really something like the jack-in-the-box . . . he had himself posing like that all over the place. It was my intention to make the jack-in-the-box absolutely false and unsympathetic to everything else in the picture . . ."

"Fiddler On The Roof" A Successful Play

Over 13,500 men, women and children attended this summer's production at Pinewood Bowl in Pioneers Park. The musical, "Fiddler On The Roof" was presented Friday through Monday evenings, July 9-12.

Directed by John R. Wilson, the annual event is sponsored by the Lincoln Singfest Committee. An improved sound system greatly enhanced the enjoyment of the delightful family story.

While entrance to the performance is free of charge, those in attendance are asked for donations to help support future productions.

Leading roles were played by George Carpenter as Tevye, and Mrs. Marvin Dientsfrey as Golda.

Honored Guests

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, will be one of several special guests at a dinner and cocktail party sponsored by the Lancaster County Democratic Women's Club on Friday evening, July 16.

Other special guests at the event which will be held at Hidden Valley Golf Course will be Gov. and Mrs. J. J. Exon.

The social hour will be held at 6 o'clock, with dinner following at 7 o'clock.

WHAT'S BEST TO TAKE FOR

Dull, Throbbing Pain Of Nervous Tension Headaches?

Anyone who suffers from tension headaches knows only too well how the throbbing pain can dull efficiency, play havoc with nerves and slow you down.

What's best to take? Clinical tests by doctors on over 500 patients who complained of tension headaches proved Anacin® relieves nervous tension headaches just as effectively as the expensive leading prescription. Yet Anacin needs no prescription and costs far less.

Here is other convincing evidence of the effectiveness of Anacin. A survey of over 1,600 specialists in internal medicine showed twice as many doctors said they would recommend the Anacin formula to relieve pain over that of the other leading extra-strength tablet. Yes, twice as many doctors prefer Anacin's formula.

You can trust Anacin to relieve headache pain in minutes. Then its nervous tension and painful pressure on nerves go, too. Anacin lets you do a better job. Lets you function better.

Despite its great strength, Anacin is not habit-forming. You can take it without getting an upset stomach. It makes good sense to take fast-acting, extra-strong Anacin Tablets.

Opening lead — seven of diamonds.

Here is an interesting problem. West led a diamond against four spades, dummy's queen losing to the ace, and back came the queen of clubs.

Declarer ducked, won the continuation with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, and led a heart from dummy. East rose with the ace and returned a heart, but there was no way for South to avoid another club loser and he finished down one.

The problem is to figure out where declarer went wrong, since he would have made the contract had he played correctly. If you'd like to work on the problem, stop reading right here.

The solution goes back to the play from dummy at trick one. Instead of the queen, declarer should have played the duece. Had he done this, he would have made the contract.

East would win with the jack, but would now be stymied. Let's assume he returned the queen of clubs at trick two.

South wins with the ace, cashes the K-A of trumps, and leads the king of diamonds through the ace. Whether East covers makes no difference, so let's say he does cover.

Declarer ruffs, re-enters dummy with a trump, discards two clubs on the Q-10 of diamonds, and leads a heart towards his king, thus more or less ending the hand. In all, South loses a heart, a diamond and a club to bring home the contract.

It is of course difficult to recognize the high importance of the lowly nine of diamonds at trick one. Force of habit would cause almost everyone to play the queen from dummy on the opening lead, and only later would anyone censure himself for having played too hastily on the first trick.

Abby: maybe she's just sentimental

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In your column I saw the question of whether or not one who has earned a Ph.D. degree should be addressed as "Doctor." Why not?

It irks me no end that in the United States only medical doctors are addressed as "Doctor." On the other hand, in Germany, any uneducated goose who happens to be married to a doctor calls herself "Frau Doktor."

IRKED

DEAR IRKED: Save your irk. Any dummkopf can tell in two minutes whether the frau married the title or earned it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 60 and the lady I am dating is 55. I take her out to dinner twice a week, and we alyays go to the finest places.

I am in business for myself and I carry my business cards with me at all times. When I give waiters and waitresses a tip, which is always 20 per cent of the bill, I give them one of my business cards, too. I figure as long as I'm helping them make a living, they can also give me a break if they need anything in my line.

My lady friend says that this is not done in the best of society, and it's embarrassing for me. Who is right?

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

DEAR "IT": The lady is right. I agree, it does pay to advertise, but there are subtler ways of doing it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "VINCE IN PORTLAND": If Italian women do in fact shave their underarms, how do you account for the following old joke? "You can alyays tell an Italian airplane by the hair under the wings."

DEAR ABBY: Carol and I have been married for 12 years and we get along better than most married couples I've known. I work for an international company, and I've had four promotions since our marriage. Each promotion has meant moving to another state.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had this old trunk filled with love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ashtrays from restaurants everytime she had a date. They are all labeled. This trunk has got to weigh 200 pounds.

I was annoyed to think she'd hang on to all that junk, but I didn't say anything. Now I am really burned! After 12 years, she is still hauling this stuff around the country. I think it's time she got rid of it, but I don't want to play the role of the jealous husband. What is your opinion, and what should I do?

CAROL'S QUIET MAN

DEAR MAN: The "junk" belongs to your wife, and if she wants to haul it all over the world for the next 50 years, it's her privilege. You've been smart to be quiet about it. Don't spoil it now. When Carol decides she doesn't need those souvenirs anymore, she'll throw them out of her own accord. Apparently, she still needs a little support for her sagging ego. Or she could just be sentimental.

ACCENT—on the world of music and art

Music Festivals

By HAROLD C. SCHOENBERG
(c) New York Times Service

New York — Two of the happier August musical customs will be resumed in a few weeks. The mostly Mozart Festival has scheduled 25 concerts here in Philharmonic Hall between Aug. 2 and 28.

During much the same time the shorter Newport Music Festival in Rhode Island, subtitled "A Romantic Revival in Newport's Fabled Mansions," will be going on, this one from July 29 to Aug. 7. But there will be 23 events at the Newport Music Festival, and those panting to hear some unusual 18th-Century works can attend three concerts a day if they wish.

The mostly Mozart Festival is, of course, antipodal to Newport. As in previous seasons, Mozart will dominate the programs, with Haydn and Schubert occupying an important but lesser place. Seats are priced at $4.50, first come first served; and bargain hunters can buy a discount book of 10 admissions for $27.50.

The New York Chamber Orchestra, which will be the resident group, consists of some of the best musicians in the city, and they will be conducted by such experts as Sergiu Comissiona, Jorge Mester and Michael Tilson Thomas. In addition, several conductors will be making their New York debut — Neville Marriner, who conducts the admired St. Martin-In-The-Fields orchestras in England; the pianist Philippe Entremont (he will lead several Mozart concertos from the keyboard); and David Zinman, former conductor of the Netherlands Chamber Orchestra.

"Art As Adversary"

By JOHN CANADAY
(c) New York Times Service

New York — If you happen to be a racist, a hawk, a Nazi, a crooked politician, or just a plain old sot-in-your-ways member of the capitalist bourgeoise, I do not think you will be running much risk of getting your ideas changed if you pay a visit to the Museum of Modern Art's big summer exhibition, "The Artist As Adversary," even though the 140 artists represented in it have raised their voices against racism, war, fascism, political corruption, and all the comfortable delusions cherished by a conservative society.

The trouble with art as protest is pretty well clarified by the fact that "The Artist As Adversary" assembles work by more than 140 artists from 21 countries, ranging from the impassioned declamations of our century's most vehemently social-minded masters (Ben Shah, the Mexicans, some current blacks) to the arcanums of Robert Motherwell and even Mark Tobey, and that the result is a very good art exhibition but a flaccid bit of social argument.

The trouble is basic: the audience for art in this century already knows all the pros and cons of the issues involved and has already taken sides on race, war, and the rest. The artists' arguments (always on the liberal side) are not interesting; it is only their way of phrasing their declamations that makes them worth attention. The one great exception is Picasso's "Guernica," which is present in this exhibition in sketches and, of course, is upstairs in the Museum for you to look at. But "Guernica" is an exception to everything, proving or disproving, as you wish, any generality you want to make about 20th century art.

Below "Guernica's" astral level but at the top of the heap otherwise among paintings making direct reference to politics and sociology is Peter Blume's allegory on Mussolini as the tawdry heir of Italy's magnificent past, "The Eternal City." This painting looks fine, and is still amazing as a technical marvel whatever the reduced impact of its literary exposition after 35 years. I was interested in Blume's statement in the catalogue:

"Mussolini's propagandists went around brazenly putting up distorted and exaggerated effigies of this ham. They were frighteningly bad, not at all impressive . . . Mussolini had the city covered with shameless statues of himself; one papier mache figure of him was really something like the jack-in-the-box . . . he had himself posing like that all over the place. It was my intention to make the jack-in-the-box absolutely false and unsympathetic to everything else in the picture . . ."

"Fiddler On The Roof" A Successful Play

Over 13,500 men, women and children attended this summer's production at Pinewood Bowl in Pioneers Park. The musical, "Fiddler On The Roof" was presented Friday through Monday evenings, July 9-12.

Directed by John R. Wilson, the annual event is sponsored by the Lincoln Singfest Committee An improved sound system greatly enhanced the enjoyment of the delightful family story.

While entrance to the performance is free of charge, those in attendance are asked for donations to help support future productions.

Leading roles were played by George Carpenter as Tevye, and Mrs. Marvin Dientsfrey as Golda.

Honored Guests

Sen George McGovern of South Dakota, will be one of several special guests at a dinner and cocktail party sponsored by the Lancaster County Democratic Women's Club on Friday evening, July 16.

Other special guests at the event which will be held at Hidden Valley Golf Course will be Gov. and Mrs J. J. Exon.

The social hour will be held at 6 o'clock, with dinner following at 7 o'clock.

WHAT'S BEST TO TAKE FOR

Dull, Throbbing Pain Of Nervous Tension Headaches?

Anyone who suffers from tension headaches knows only too well how the throbbing pain can dull efficiency, play havoc with nerves and slow you down.

What's best to take? Clinical tests by doctors on over 500 patients who complained of tension headaches proved Anacin® relieves nervous tension headaches just as effectively as the expensive leading prescription. Yet Anacin needs no prescription and costs far less.

Here is other convincing evidence of the effectiveness of Anacin. A survey of over 1,600 specialists in internal medicine showed twice as many doctors said they would recommend the Anacin formula to relieve pain over that of the other leading extra-strength tablet. Yes, twice as many doctors prefer Anacin's formula.

You can trust Anacin to relieve headache pain in minutes. Then its nervous tension and painful pressure on nerves go, too. Anacin lets you do a better job. Lets you function better.

Despite its great strength, Anacin is not habit-forming. You can take it without getting an upset stomach. It makes good sense to take fast-acting, extra-strong Anacin Tablets.

Public Hearing Set On School Budget

. . . BOARD TENTATIVELY SEEKS SLIGHT MILL LEVY HIKE

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education's budgeting plans for the coming school year will get a public airing in two weeks, according to board action Tuesday.

The board set July 26 as the date for its public hearing. It will meet the next day to take final action on the 1971-72 budget for both the regular school program and the Lincoln Technical College.

At its regular meeting, the board agreed tentatively to a 54.948 mill levy figure, up from 54.552 for the current year. The estimated levy could change yet, depending on final action of the board and county decision on assessed valuation.

Growth Assumed

The board has been working with an assessed valuation figure of $390 million, assuming a small natural growth from the current $379 million.

Dollar-wise, the board will go to the hearing with plans to increase expenditures for day school operations slightly more than $1 million and for the Technical College of just less than $600,000.

Most of the increase in day school operations will go for salaries. Increased costs of goods accounts for a portion of the increase.

Special Programs

The only major program expansion anticipated next year will come in special education programs.

Increased costs in the Technical College program are due to two major factors: an effort to identify costs of all services supplied the tech college by the public school program and expansion and improvement of tech college offerings.

The anticipated mill levy for public school operations will actually decrease slightly, despite a planned increase in expenditures, due to the expected increase in assessed valuation.

Next Year

Local taxes during the current year constitute $20,259,564 of the total of $26,029,384 budgeted for public school operations. Next year's expenditures are expected to require $20,700,301 from local taxes of the total of $27,068,771.

The differences are made up by state, federal and other sources.

The mill levy support for tech college operations is expected to go from the current 1.056 to 1.875.

General fund millage is expected to go from the current 44.367 to 44.400.

Had Been Hoped

Board members had hoped to hold the total millage for all programs and funds to this year's figure, and district administrators had come Tuesday with a figure only .2 of a mill higher.

But then the board decided to add another $80,000 to the district retirement fund, a move which would add an aditional .2 of a mill. An actuarial report expected to be completed before the board's meeting in two weeks may change that need.

The budget hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. July 26 in the school administration building, 720 So. 22nd.

Here is a breakdown of the district's major funds, showing sources of funding and local property tax levies, with a comparison between the current year's actual figures and next year's anticipated data:

Fund	1970-71 Budget	Levy	1971-72 Budget	Levy

PASSAGE CHALLENGED

Twenty-five-year-old Colin Irwin, a British computer salesman, arrived in the tiny town of Kotzebue, Alaska, in his attempt to sail his 18-foot boat through the Northwest Passge. The U.S. Weather Service says he will probably encounter floating ice during the next 100 miles of his voyage.

School Board Approves 'Police Liaison' Project

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday approved a proposal for a "police liaison" program in two of the district's junior high schools.

Supt. John Prasch said the proposal came from the local crime commission, which has yet to finalize plans for the program. Prasch said the plan would put two non-uniformed police personnel into two junior high schools and two "feeder" elementary schools — whose elementary students go on to the junior highs.

The purpose, he said, would be to improve communication between police and youngsters.

Prasch said the two officers would be paid by the crime commission and would "be there (in the schools) practically all the time.

Precedent Opposed

Board member Catherine Angle opposed the proposal, saying it would appear to call for a change in board policy. If authorized without a policy decision, she argued, it might prove difficult to turn down other groups who might want to put representatives into schools with near-counselor status.

In other matters, the board also approved an alcohol "counter-measures" program sponsored by the city's alcohol safety program, which is funded with a U.S. Department of Transportation grant.

Prasch said the program plans to train a Lincoln teacher as a specialist in alcohol education.

The board turned down a proposal from Prasch to permit authorized photographers to take and sell individual photos of students at all grade levels.

More Protein OKd

On another matter it approved recommendations for a number of changes in the food services program, including a boost in the protein portion at the high school level from 2 to 2½ ounces per meal.

Associate Supt. Robert Den Hartog said the district may go to a soybean meat substitute recently approved by the federal government in a mix with meat.

The board action also approved a one-year pilot of prepackaged meals in two elementary schools—Bryan and Hayward—next year and sustained a recommendation to hold meal prices at the current rates.

In peronnel action, the board authorized hiring Del Lumbard as parent involvement coordinator for the district's Follow Through program.

Lumbard resigned last month as associate director of the Lincoln Action Program.

Dr. Merchant Elected Health Board President

Dr. Eugene Merchant was elected to a one-year term as president of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Board succeeding Rollin R. Bailey Tuesday night.

DR. EUGENE MERCHANT
Elected President

Warren Hinze, vice-president, and Wayne Marolf, secretary, were each re-elected to one-year terms. Also present at the meeting were City Councilman Merle Hale replacing Dick Hartsock as city liaison member and County Commissioner Robert Colin Sr. succeeding Kenneth Bourne as county representative on the board.

In other business, Food Service Sanitation report was presented by Steve Schwaller, Chief Food Sanitarian of the Division of Environmental Health.

Schwaller said that there has been a problem this year with establishments not paying their Food Establishment Operator's Permit Fee. All establishments were notified one month before permits became due, and specific instructions were outlined.

Schwaller also told the group that there has been a problem with children suffering frostbite from fudgebars and popcicles purchased from mobile ice cream venders.

He said this is caused by using dry ice to keep the merchandise cold which lowers the temperture to such a degree that children's lips and tongues become frozen to the objects.

The need for a drug treatment program was brought up at the meeting and Les Jensen of the Public Health Education Division presented a film dealing with drug abuse which will be shown in Lincoln schools in the fall.

Dr. George Underwood, executive director of the board, told the group that the drug problem is as complicated as any problem we now face adding that "we have never really been able to define the problem in Lincoln."

Dr. Underwood said that drug abuse is rooted in people and personalities and not in the drugs themselves and that present treatment programs have to be altered to gain acceptance of the various types of drug users.

He said that "most young drug abusers are not sick but unhappy."

Missouri Synod Delegates Vote Against Ordination Of Women

Milwaukee, Wis. (UPI) — Delgates to the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod convention Tuesday voted overwhelmingly in favor of a resolution banning ordination of women.

The resolution, passed 674-194, stated that God, through the Bible, prohibits women from serving as pastors.

It relied heavily on two passages from the New Testment, both attributed to the Apostle Paul: First Corinthians 14:34, "The women should keep silent in the churches," and First Timothy 2:12, "I permit no woman to teach or to have authority over men; she is to keep silent."

The resolution read:

"Those statements of scripture which direct women to keep silent in the church and which prohibit them to teach and to exercise authority over men, we understand to mean that women ought not hold the pastoral office or serve in any other capacity involving the distinctive functions of this office."

It was introduced for a third time Tuesday and passed on a voice vote with little debate. One delegate asked for a formal vote count so future conventions would know to what extent delegates here were divided.

In earlier debate on the resolution, several speakers had argued that biblical passages relating to the status of women need not be interpreted literally since times and the relative position of women in society have changed.

Stalling Charged

Before Tuesday's vote, one delegate charged that parliamentary procedure had been used to stall the resolution. Another argued that women should not serve as pastors "though they can serve as day and Sunday school teachers."

A woman who identified herself as May Lynn Buss of Milwaukee and who said she was a member of the Missouri Synod, though not a delegate, read a statement prepared by the women's caucus at a news conference shortly before the vote.

The statement said Missouri Synod women were "voiceless and disenfranchised . . . so we come today to speak to people beyond the crumbling walls of the church."

Only 4 Women

She said there were only four women delegates of the 1,021 voting delegates, although women make up well over half of the church's three million members.

The caucus, she said, backed the ordination of women and commended the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America for allowing ordination of women.

The caucus statement also said that abortion is "a woman's right and a woman's choice" and pledged the caucus to work in order to make the choice available to all women — "the poor women of Milwaukee's inner core as well as the rich women of suburban Whitefish Bay."

Superior Man Fatally Injured In Kansas Crash

Belleville, Kan. (AP) — A Superior, Neb., man was killed and two South Dakota men were injured in a head-on crash on U.S. 81, 5 miles south of here early Tuesday.

The Kansas Highway Patrol reported Roy E. Drake Sr., 68, Superior, was alone in his car at the time of the accident.

13 Top Mafia Leaders Named

Rome (AP) --A parliamentary commission, after a seven-year investigation, named 13 top Mafia leaders Tuesday. It said they were "bloody criminals, killers, drug dealers, persons capable of any atrocity."

One of those named — Vicenzo di Carlo, rated as "one of the most powerful Mafia bosses" — once was a judge and an official of the Christian Democratic Party, the report said.

The 300-page report was one of a series that will cover political and other aspects of Mafia infiltration. It said the Sicilian Mafia has spread from the countryside into cities and has become part of international gangsterism.

Di Carlo In Jail

Of the men listed, only Di Carlo is in jail serving a life term for multiple murder. Four were gunned to death years ago, five are exiled and one is missing. One, Tommaso Buscetta, is in New York and another, Giuseppe Greco, lives in freedom in Palermo, Sicily's capital.

It was the first time a parliamentary investigation has mentioned top Mafiosi by name.

The report said Mafia men seldom have been convicted in court because they have enjoyed "powerful and authoritative protection and political complicty" from police up to the central government.

It said the ruling Christian Democrats were among the parties that traded political protection for the Mafia's electoral support.

One of those on the list, Tommasco Buscetta, was arrested last Aug. 27 in New York and charged with accepting a bogus visa for entry into the United States.

Convicted In Absentia

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Serive said Buscetta was convicted in absentia by an Italian court in the deaths of seven policemen and two bystanders in Palermo in 1963. He was released on $75,000 bail last September and is awaiting grand jury action in the United States, the report said.

Buscetta and Rosario Mancino, another on the list, "are involved in drug trafficking and bear witness to the full interrelation between the Sicilian Mafia and the international underworld," it added.

Mancino is one of 33 "Mafiosi" who were exiled last month to small islands off Sicily and Sardinia under an emergency anti-Mafia law which allows authorities to send Mafia suspects to confinement without previous trail or pending appeal.

The biggest Mafia roundup in postwar Italy came in the wake of the machine-gun murder last May of Pietro Scaglione, Sicily's top criminal prosecutor.

All Parties Represented

The commission, including members from all parties from the Communists to the Fascists, was set up by parliament after the violent deaths in Sicily of nine persons, including seven policemen.

The officers died in 1963 in the explosion of a car which had been rigged by a Mafia gang and was intended for other Mafia hoodlums with whom if had been feuding. Buscetta was implicated in the bombing.

The report is one of a series the commission has been preparing and submitting to parliament on various aspects of Mafia.

The connections between Mafia and politics were mentioned only in passing in Tuesday's report. The commission said it was completing a separate report on the political aspects.

Those listed as the big guns of Sicilian Mafia after World War II also included Michele Navarra, who became chief physician of a hospital in a town near Palermo after his predecessor was gunned down in an ambush.

The report said Navarra was the major "supplier" of votes in the town, Corleone, for the Liberal Party and then for the church-backed Christian Democrats. He was killed at the peak of his power, the report said.

Bid For Power

The commission said Navarra's killers were hired by Luciano Liggio, also identified in the list of top "Mafiosi." The report said Liggio arranged the killing in a bid to take over from Navarra, his former protector.

Liggio disappeared in 1969 after a court cleared him of the killing. An appeal of his release resulted in a life imprisonment sentence, the report said,. But it added Liggio is still at large.

Others named by the commission included the brothers Giuseppe and Peitro Greco and their brother-in-law of the same name, Giuseppe Greco, the brothers Angelo and Salvatore la Barbera, Genco Russo, Mariano Licari and Salvatore Zizzo.

Death 'American-Style'

Angelo la Barbera was described as the man who introduced "American-style" killings to Sicily, replacing the traditional sawed-off shotgun with the more efficient machine guns and explosives.

He was among those exiled to the Isle of Linosa. His brother and accomplice Salvatore was killed, the report said, while his brother-in-law Giuseppe lives a free man in Palermo.

An Italian court ruled Tuesday in a separate case involving Italy's problems with gangsters that Joe Adonis, once the reputed gambling king of the U.S. East Coast, must live in exile for four years in a little mountain town. Adonis must observe a 10 p.m to 7 a.m. curfew and avoid use of the telephone, the court said.

The report delved into Mafia activities since the end of World War II. It did not get into the question of who may have taken over Mafia leadership from the bosses named who were killed or imprisoned.

INSIGNIA . . . of Apollo 15 astronauts' suits.

Apollo Takes Key Step

Cape Kennedy (UPI) — Apollo 15's frost-coated rocket passed a realistic trial countdown and its three astronauts passed preliminary medical checkups Tuesday in key steps toward the July 26 launch to the moon.

Dr. Willard R. Hawkins reported that astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin were in good condition and ready for the 12-day expedition. Their last major prelaunch medical tests are scheduled for July 21.

The pilots underwent the physicals while their rocket wound up a week-long countdown rehearsal without a hitch. The astronauts will run through their part of the countdown Wednesday morning.

The Saturn 5 rocket, weighing a record 3,247 tons, simulated blastoff at 8:34 a.m. CDT — the time it is scheduled to be launched in 13 days. Officials at the launch control center reported all the complex flight systems and supporting ground equipment worked as planned.

Trimming Begun By County Board

Lancaster County commissioners, in continuing budget hearings with department heads Tuesday, still indicated concern over keeping the levy down and cut $28,000 off the proposed $900,000 Lancaster Manor budget.

This was the first definite trimming the board had done in going over departmental requests but the commissioners indicated trimming wherever possible would be done from all requests in order to keep the levy below the statutory maximum.

Among the items cut in the proposed Lancaster Manor budget were $5,000 off architectural services; $3,000 off salaries, social security and insurance; $5,000 off building maintenance; $10,000 off housekeeping, custodial and other supplies and $5,000 off equipment.

Increase Of $138,000

The Lancaster Manor proposed 1971-72 budget is up $138,000 from last year's adopted budget of $772,000.

The other sizeable budget considered by the board Tuesday was that of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR), which proposed a budget of $723,862, of which $91,355 would come from county tax money.

LOMR Director Verlin Boldry, in outlining the proposed budget, noted that the substantial increase over last year's budget of $537,000 would result in expansion of services to more individuals.

Boldry explained that the county would actually be benefiting substantially more with little more expended because the remaining amount of the budget will come from state and federal funds.

$83,000 Last Year

He said that last year's budget, which was considerably less, required $83,000 in county money.

The proposal includes $350,696 for new Family Resource Services; $207,447 for child development; $140,742 for vocational development and $25,754 for administration.

The board also heard the request from the Humane Society for an increase in the contract it holds with the county.

Bernard Patton, Humane Society director, told the board that the society received its last increase in 1967 when it was increased from $166.50 per month to $291.66 per month. He said it is now requesting $475 per month.

This contract provides for the Humane Society's maintaning an office and shelter to house stray animals from within the county and other expenses, he said.

Bottle Club Application OKd By County Board

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday approved an application for a bottle club license sought by LeRoy Wittmier for operation in Bennet.

Attorney Clem Gaughan, who appeared in behalf of Wittmier, told the board that the operation now has a beer license and plans call for a separate structure for the bottle club.

Several other persons were present at the hearing and the commissioners indicated numerous letters in support of but none opposed to the application had been received. No one appeared in opposition.

In other business, the board approved reducing the speed limit from 65 to 50 miles per hour on three-fourths of a mile on the Prairie Home Road east of Waverly.

County Engineer Walter Hoppe said that the Waverly Village Board had requested the speed limit reduction.

He also reminded the commissioners that they must approve by Aug. 1 numbering of all county roads as required by legislation passed by the 1969 Legislature.

Southeast Health Group Approves New Budget

By IVAN TRAVNICEK
Star Staff Writer

The Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SeNHPC) budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971 calling for an expediture of $66,015 was approved by the SeNHPC executive committee at a meeting Tuesday night at the Lincoln Center.

This money, coming from county boards, hospital boards, local medical societies, community organizations, business and industry donations, foundations, private contributors and insurance companies will be matched by an equal sum funded from a 5-year, $590,390 federal grant.

Treasurer Neal Tyner also reported that expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971 totaled $69,911 with an additional $20,000 spent in providing in kind services. Tyner gave the financial report breakdown as follows:

—Personnel — $46,813.
—Consultant — $7,500.
—Equipment — $625.
—Supplies — $2,138.
—Travel — $2,235.
—Other — $10,597.
—In kind service — $20,000.

From this expenditure, Tyner said, the SeNHPC had $10,116 cash left on hand with $1,212 cash outstanding from counties pushing the total to $11,328.

SeNHPC executive director Jerry Woollen said the council had a $450 bill outstanding for a three-year audit that will have to be paid out of the cash left on hand and reflected in the budget for the fiscal year 1972.

Associate director Bill Joern said "chairmen and vice chairmen of the corporation's housekeeping, planning and task force committees were appointed" at the meeting. He said "additional committee members will be selected by each committee chairman with the approval of the president and the board."

Joern said he was unable to release all the names of the chairmen selected as they had not all been notified yet.

The SeNHPC, organized to study, plan for and coordinate personal, mental and environmental health facilities, services and manpower needs in the 17 counties of southeast Nebraska (13 are participating at present), reviewed planning activities of the five districts of the SeNHPC.

Joern said there were about 30 committees either functioning or in the embryo stage involving about 300 workers. Joern then gave a short review of each committee's status covering mental hospitals, alcoholism, aging and other related areas.

Nurse Accused Of Setting Fire That Killed 10

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — A young nurse's aide, credited with saving some survivors during a fire at a senior citizens' home, was indicted Tuesday on 10 counts of willful murder and one of arson.

The Jefferson County grand jury charged that Mary Ann Wyatt, 21, set the fire the morning of Jan. 14 at Westminster Terrace Presbyterian Home.

Destruction Of U.S. War Germs Begun

Pine Bluff, Ark. (AP) — The Army began Tuesday destruction of the U.S. stockpile of deadly war germs and said when the process is completed this nation's capability to be an aggressor in germ warfare will be destroyed.

"It is the policy of the government to try to reduce world tensions and this is a step in that direction," said Col. John K. Stoner, commander of the Pine Bluff Arsenal, where the germ stockpile is being destroyed.

"It would take 10 to 15 years to re-create what is being destroyed here," Stoner said. "When it is destroyed, the total capability of the United States to produce these agents will be destroyed."

Stoner said the biological agents and toxins that have been produced and stored at the arsenal comprised the entire U.S. stockpile except for those used for defensive research, such as the development of vaccine.

Biological agents to be destroyed are francisella tularensis, the cause of rabbit fever; coxiella burnetii, responsible for "Q" fever; Venezuelan equine enciphalomyelitis, a flu-type disease, and bacillus anthracis, which causes anthrax.

Toxins to be destroyed are catanella, which is a shellfish poison and botulinum toxin and stephylococcus enterotoxin, which are food poisons.

Meos Take Control Of Plain

Saigon (AP) — American-backed Meo tribesmen were reported Tuesday to have extended government control over all of the rain-swept Plain of Jars in northern Laos.

The Laotian Defense Ministry in Vientiane said Meo special forces met no significant resistance in a week-old operation to take over the long-time domain of North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces.

U.S. B52 and smaller tactical bombers struck inside Laos, hitting at the Ho Chi Minh Trail in the panhandle and also along Route 7 leading from North Vietnam to the eastern edge of the plain.

Every year, the Meo forces trained, equipped and paid by the Central Intelligence Agency, have moved on to the plain during the summertime rainy season only to be pushed back by the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao during the dry season, which starts in October or November.

For the most part, the plain has been Communist-held territory since 1964.

Damages Sought In Car-Cycle Accident In 1968

Scott K. Steele Tuesday filed a $250,000 suit in Lancaster District Court against Karyn M. Jones in connection with a July 13, 1968, car-motorcycle accident.

He claims negligence on the part of the defendant when the car she was driving collided with the motorcycle he was riding at 66th and Logan.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant failed to maintain proper lookout and to yield the right of way, and as a result of the collision he was knocked off the motorcycle, his safety crash helmet was dislodged and he was thrown head first into a utility pole on the corner of the intersection.

Steele further contends that as a result of the accident he sustained multiple injuries including concussions, fracture of the femur with gross displacement, fracture of the left forearm, right knee and back injuries, chest bruises and many other bruises, scrapes and cuts.

Reds Massacre Laotian Village

Saigon (UPI) — Military sources reported Tuesday that North Vietnamese soldiers massacred 51 civilians, mostly women and children, and wiped out most of an undefended village in Laos north of the Plain of Jars.

An official Saigon report said the bodies were discovered last Saturday by Meo tribesmen, trained and financed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, who entered the village of Phou Bia in the Laotian government's drive to retake the strategic plain.

Viet Election Law Upheld By Court

Saigon (AP) — South Vietnam's Supreme Court upheld Tuesday night the constitutionality of a newly enacted and controversial election law which restricts the number of presidential candidates.

The law was recently pushed through the National Assembly with the backing of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

New York (AP) — There will be much more glass in automobile tires in coming years, says Alan R. Kerivan, an official whose firm produces fiberglass.

Most U.S. States Are Susceptible To Earthquakes

New York (AP) — There is a possibility of earthquake almost everywhere in the United States, the Insurance Information Institute says.

Even so, insurance against earthquake damage to property is hard to sell, according to an article in the current issue of the institute's magazine, The Journal of Insurance.

The publication cites data from the National Earthquake Information Center- at Rockland, Md., indicating that in every state except Alabama, Florida and parts of Texas, varying degrees of earthquake hazard exist.

Outside of California, which is a special high-hazard case, there are 15 states in which major destructive earthquakes could occur, the center says. These states are Nevada, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Missouri, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, New York, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Public Hearing Set On School Budget

. . . BOARD TENTATIVELY SEEKS SLIGHT MILL LEVY HIKE

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education's budgeting plans for the coming school year will get a public airing in two weeks, according to board action Tuesday.

The board set July 26 as the date for its public hearing. It will meet the next day to take final action on the 1971-72 budget for both the regular school program and the Lincoln Technical College.

At its regular meeting, the board agreed tentatively to a 54.948 mill levy figure, up from 54.552 for the current year. The estimated levy could change yet, depending on final action of the board and county decision on assessed valuation.

Growth Assumed

The board has been working with an assessed valuation figure of $390 million, assuming a small natural growth from the current $379 million.

Dollar-wise, the board will go to the hearing with plans to increase expenditures for day school operations slightly more than $1 million and for the Technical College of just less than $600,000.

Most of the increase in day school operations will go for salaries. Increased costs of goods accounts for a portion of the increase.

Special Programs

The only major program expansion anticipated next year will come in special education programs.

Increased costs in the Technical College program are due to two major factors: an effort to identify costs of all services supplied the tech college by the public school program and expansion and improvement of tech college offerings.

The anticipated mill levy for public school operations will actually decrease slightly, despite a planned increase in expenditures, due to the expected increase in assessed valuation.

Next Year

Local taxes during the current year constitute $20,259,564 of the total of $26,029,384 budgeted for public school operations. Next year's expenditures are expected to require $20,700,301 from local taxes of the total of $27,068,771.

The differences are made up by state, federal and other sources.

The mill levy support for tech college operations is expected to go from the current 1.056 to 1.875.

General fund millage is expected to go from the current 44.367 to 44.400.

Had Been Hoped

Board members had hoped to hold the total millage for all programs and funds to this year's figure, and district administrators had come Tuesday with a figure only .2 of a mill higher.

But then the board decided to add another $80,000 to the district retirement fund, a move which would add an aditional .2 of a mill. An actuarial report expected to be completed before the board's meeting in two weeks may change that need.

The budget hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. July 26 in the school administration building, 720 So. 22nd.

Here is a breakdown of the district's major funds, showing sources of funding and local property tax levies, with a comparison between the current year's actual figures and next year's anticipated data:

PASSAGE CHALLENGED

Twenty-five-year-old Colin Irwin, a British computer salesman, arrived in the tiny town of Kotzebue, Alaska, in his attempt to sail his 18-foot boat through the Northwest Passge. The U.S. Weather Service says he will probably encounter floating ice during the next 100 miles of his voyage.

Dr. Merchant Elected Health Board President

Dr. Eugene Merchant was elected to a one-year term as president of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Board succeeding Rollin R. Bailey Tuesday night.

Warren Hinze, vice-president, and Wayne Marolf, secretary, were each re-elected to one-year terms. Also present at the meeting were City Councilman Merle Hale replacing Dick Hartsock as city liaison member and County Commissioner Robert Colin Sr. succeeding Kenneth Bourne as county representative on the board.

In other business, Food Service Sanitation report was presented by Steve Schwaller, Chief Food Sanitarian of the Division of Environmental Health.

Schwaller said that there has been a problem this year with establishments not paying their Food Establishment Operator's Permit Fee. All establishments were notified one month before permits became due, and specific instructions were outlined.

Schwaller also told the group that there has been a problem with children suffering frostbite from fudgebars and popcicles purchased from mobile icc cream venders.

He said this is caused by using dry ice to keep the merchandise cold which lowers the temperture to such a degree that children's lips and tongues become frozen to the objects.

The need for a drug treatment program was brought up at the meeting and Les Jensen of the Public Health Education Division presented a film dealing with drug abuse which will be shown in Lincoln schools in the fall.

Dr. George Underwood, executive director of the board, told the group that the drug problem is as complicated as any problem we now face adding that "we have never really been able to define the problem in Lincoln."

Dr. Underwood said that drug abuse is rooted in people and personalities and not in the drugs themselves and that present treatment programs have to be altered to gain acceptance of the various types of drug users.

He said that "most young drug abusers are not sick but unhappy."

GM Lays Off 900

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — General Motors Corp. will lay off 900 workers at its Leeds assembly plant here July 27, about 23% of the working force. The layoffs will be made in anticipation of the annual model changeover.

School Board Approves 'Police Liaison' Project

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday approved a proposal for a "police liaison" program in two of the district's junior high schools.

Supt. John Prasch said the proposal came from the local crime commission, which has yet to finalize plans for the program. Prasch said the plan would put two non-uniformed police personnel into two junior high schools and two "feeder" elementary schools — whose elementary students go on to the junior highs.

The purpose, he said, would be to improve communication between police and youngsters.

Prasch said the two officers would be paid by the crime commission and would "be there (in the schools) practically all the time.

Precedent Opposed

Board member Catherine Angle opposed the proposal, saying it would appear to call for a change in board policy. If authorized without a policy decision, she argued, it might prove difficult to turn down other groups who might want to put representatives into schools with near-counselor status.

In other matters, the board also approved an alcohol "counter-measures" program sponsored by the city's alcohol safety program, which is funded with a U.S. Department of Transportation grant.

Prasch said the program plans to train a Lincoln teacher as a specialist in alcohol education.

The board turned down a proposal from Prasch to permit authorized photographers to take and sell individual photos of students at all grade levels.

More Protein OKd

On another matter it approved recommendations for a number of changes in the food services program, including a boost in the protein portion at the high school level from 2 to 2½ ounces per meal.

Associate Supt. Robert Den Hartog said the district may go to a soybean meat substitute recently approved by the federal government in a mix with meat.

The board action also approved a one-year pilot of prepackaged meals in two elementary schools—Bryan and Hayward—next year and sustained a recommendation to hold meal prices at the current rates.

In peronnel action, the board authorized hiring Del Lumbard as parent involvement coordinator for the district's Follow Through program.

Lumbard resigned last month as associate director of the Lincoln Action Program.

Missouri Synod Delegates Vote Against Ordination Of Women

Milwaukee, Wis. (UPI) — Delgates to the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod convention Tuesday voted overwhelmingly in favor of a resolution banning ordination of women.

The resolution, passed 674-194, stated that God, through the Bible, prohibits women from serving as pastors.

It relied heavily on two passages from the New Testment, both attributed to the Apostle Paul: First Corinthians 14:34, "The women should keep silent in the churches," and First Timothy 2:12, "I permit no woman to teach or to have authority over men; she is to keep silent."

The resolution read:

"Those statements of scripture which direct women to keep silent in the church and which prohibit them to teach and to exercise authority over men, we understand to mean that women ought not hold the pastoral office or serve in any other capacity involving the distinctive functions of this office."

It was introduced for a third time Tuesday and passed on a voice vote with little debate. One delegate asked for a formal vote count so future conventions would know to what extent delegates here were divided.

In earlier debate on the resolution, several speakers had argued that biblical passages relating to the status of women need not be interpreted literally since times and the relative position of women in society have changed.

Stalling Charged

Before Tuesday's vote, one delegate charged that parliamentary procedure had been used to stall the resolution. Another argued that women should not serve as pastors "though they can serve as day and Sunday school teachers."

A woman who identified herself as May Lynn Buss of Milwaukee and who said she was a member of the Missouri Synod, though not a delegate, read a statement prepared by the women's caucus at a news conference shortly before the vote.

The statement said Missouri Synod women were "voiceless and disenfranchised . . . so we come today to speak to people beyond the crumbling walls of the church."

Only 4 Women

She said there were only four women delegates of the 1,021 voting delegates, although women make up well over half of the church's three million members.

The caucus, she said, backed the ordination of women and commended the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America for allowing ordination of women.

The caucus statement also said that abortion is "a woman's right and a woman's choice" and pledged the caucus to work in order to make the choice available to all women — "the poor women of Milwaukee's inner core as well as the rich women of suburban Whitefish Bay."

Superior Man Fatally Injured In Kansas Crash

Belleville, Kan. (AP) — A Superior, Neb., man was killed and two South Dakota men were injured in a head-on crash on U.S. 81, 5 miles south of here early Tuesday.

The Kansas Highway Patrol reported Roy E. Drake Sr., 68, Superior, was alone in his car at the time of the accident.

The occupants of the other car, identified by the patrol as Doug and Terry Harrington of Cavour, S.D., were hospitalized in serious condition in a Belleville hospital.

Bicycle Ordinance Changes Referred To Subcommittee

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Mayor's Bicycle Committee Tuesday briefly discussed suggested changes for a city bicycle ordinance, then referred the matter to a subcommittee for study.

Among the questions to be resolved by the ordinance drafting subcommittee is whether bicycles should be permitted to operate on both the right and left sides of one-way streets, whether bicycles should be barred from arterial streets — at least during peak hours or on the more congested ones — and whether bicyclists making left turns at intersections should be required to dismount and use the pedestrian crosswalk.

Norman Langemach Jr., an assistant city attorney, told the committee these are some of the basic problems to be resolved in drafting a separate bicycle ordinance.

The committee has proposed a separate ordinance and the clarification of legal conflicts in the current code which treats bicycles as both a vehicle and a pedestrian.

City Councilwoman Helen Boosalis, a committee member, said the preparation of a new ordinance should be given top priority because it is the key to the committee's future planning activities.

Mrs. Boosalis said the public relations subcommittee recommends a bike licensing and safety week after the new ordinance is drafted and has contacted bicycle dealers for their cooperation in advising bike purchases on the city's bike license and operating code.

Another subcommittee on planning reported two or three weeks will be required to develop a rudimentary map of alternative bike routes to the more congested arterial streets.

In other action, the committee approved the YMCA's proposed "Bike Day" planned for July 31 on the Lincoln High School parking lot.

John Bonham, YMCA representative, said the bike rally would combine bike riding contests with a safety education and licensing program.

A schedule of events will be announced later, he said.

Assistant Police Chief Willis Manchester reported bike accidents increased 105% during the first six months of this year as compared with the 51 total last year and an average of 35 annually for the previous four years.

He said 462 tickets were issued in June to bicycle riders, with riding at night without lights and no bike license being the leading violations.

While bike accidents showed an increase, Manchester said, motorcycle accidents decreased 20% during the first half of this year.

The committee was advised the University of Nebraska is purchasing racks for 2,500 bicycles in anticipation of the "influx of bicycles when school resumes this fall" and is also interested in the establishment of a bike route between the downtown and East campuses.

First National Bank Valuation Adjusted

Lancaster County Commissioners have adjusted the 1970 assessed valuation of the First National Bank Building at 13th and M to $1,178,940 or 60% of full assessed value.

Commissioner William Grossman, who is the chairman of the board of equalization, said that the board felt that the structure was about 60% complete on Jan. 1, 1970, and that the new figure was appropriate for that tax year.

He explained that the value originally placed on the property also included a 13th floor which does not exist in the biulding.

The property had previously been valued at $6,114,900 actual and $2,140,210 assessed.

Owners of the property had protested the value of the building on the contention that it was not 85% complete on Jan. 1, 1970, as part of the valuation placed on the property for 1970 tax purposes indicated.

Grossman said that the actual value of the property has been adjusted to $5,614,000 and that 60% of that is $3,368,400 on which assessment for 1970 has now been based.

However, he noted, that 1971 taxation will be based on the actual value of $5,614,000 and the assessed value of $1,964,900.

Kimball Girl's Death Attributed To Encephalitis

Kimball (AP) — A preliminary report of an autopsy on Connie Gooden, 12, of Kimball, indicates she died Monday from a type of encephalitis.

Dr. Henry Tsumagari, pathologist from Cheyenne, Wyo., said the exact type of the disease will not be known for a month pending further tests.

The girl became ill over the weekend and was taken to the Kimball County Hospital for tests and treatment. Her heart stopped and was revived by a Kimball physician Sunday, and then she was taken to a Cheyenne, Wyo., hospital where she died Monday.

Dr. Tsumagari said there are numerous types of the disease and numerous ways it is transported such as by insects, animals and water.

City Bus Manager Candidate Will Be Named On Monday

The Transit Advisory Committee will recommend to the City Council Monday a candidate to manage the bus lines after it shifts from private to public ownership July 15, the committee decided Tuesday.

The committee, which has not released the name of the candidate, has tentatively agreed that the manager should be payed $12,000 to $14,000.

A number of problems involved with the transferal of ownership were discussed at the Tuesday meeting, including problems with bus maintenance and advertising.

William Franklin, current manager of the Lincoln City Lines, advised the committee to adopt a policy that would prohibit carrying advertising messages on the outside back and sides of the buses.

Franklin said buses without advertising look better, although such a policy would mean a loss of about $7,000 annual advertising net revenue for the bus company.

The committee also discussed the need for a name for the new company and the possibility of using jail trustees to clean the buses, but no decision was reached.

The committee will meet again Friday at 7 a.m.

13 Top Mafia Leaders Named

Rome (AP) —A parliamentary commission, after a seven-year investigation, named 13 top Mafia leaders Tuesday. It said they were "bloody criminals, killers, drug dealers, persons capable of any atrocity."

One of those named — Vicenzo di Carlo, rated as "one of the most powerful Mafia bosses" — once was a judge and an official of the Christian Democratic Party, the report said.

The 300-page report was one of a series that will cover political and other aspects of Mafia infiltration. It said the Sicilian Mafia has spread from the countryside into cities and has become part of international gangsterism.

Di Carlo In Jail

Of the men listed, only Di Carlo is in jail serving a life term for multiple murder. Four were gunned to death years ago, five are exiled and one is missing. One, Tommaso Buscetta, is in New York and another, Giuseppe Greco. lives in freedom in Palermo, Sicily's capital.

It was the first time a parliamentary investigation has mentioned top Mafiosi by name.

The report said Mafia men seldom have been convicted in court because they have enjoyed "powerful and authoritative protection and political complicty" from police up to the central government.

It said the ruling Christian Democrats were among the parties that traded political protection for the Mafia's electoral support.

One of those on the list, Tommasco Buscetta, was arrested last Aug. 27 in New York and charged with accepting a bogus visa for entry into the United States.

Convicted In Absentia

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Serive said Buscetta was convicted in absentia by an Italian court in the deaths of seven policemen and two bystanders in Palermo in 1963. He was released on $75,000 bail last September and is awaiting grand jury action in the United States, the report said.

Buscetta and Rosario Mancino, another on the list, "are involved in drug trafficking and bear witness to the full interrelation between the Sicilian Mafia and the international underworld," it added.

Mancino is one of 33 "Mafiosi" who were exiled last month to small islands off Sicily and Sardinia under an emergency anti-Mafia law which allows authorities to send Mafia suspects to confinement without previous trail or pending appeal.

The biggest Mafia roundup in postwar Italy came in the wake of the machine-gun murder last May of Pietro Scaglione, Sicily's top criminal prosecutor.

All Parties Represented

The commission, including members from all parties from the Communists to the Fascists, was set up by parliament after the violent deaths in Sicily of nine persons, including seven policemen.

The officers died in 1963 in the explosion of a car which had been rigged by a Mafia gang and was intended for other Mafia hoodlums with whom if had been feuding. Buscetta was implicated in the bombing.

The report is one of a series the commission has been preparing and submitting to parliament on various aspects of Mafia.

The connections between Mafia and politics were mentioned only in passing in Tuesday's report. The commission said it was completing a separate report on the political aspects.

Those listed as the big guns of Sicilian Mafia after World War II also included Michele Navarra, who became chief physician of a hospital in a town near Palermo after his predecessor was gunned down in an ambush.

The report said Navarra was the major "supplier" of votes in the town, Corleone, for the Liberal Party and then for the church-backed Christian Democrats. He was killed at the peak of his power, the report said.

Bid For Power

The commission said Navarra's killers were hired by Luciano Liggio, also identified in the list of top "Mafiosi." The report said Liggio arranged the killing in a bid to take over from Navarra. his former protector.

Liggio disappeared in 1969 after a court cleared him of the killing. An appeal of his release resulted in a life imprisonment sentence, the report said,. But it added Liggio is still at large.

Others named by the commission included the brothers Giuseppe and Peitro Greco and their brother-in-law of the same name, Giuseppe Greco, the brothers Angelo and Salvatore la Barbera, Genco Russo, Mariano Licari and Salvatore Zizzo.

Death 'American-Style'

Angelo la Barbera was described as the man who introduced "American-style" killings to Sicily, replacing the traditional sawed-off shotgun with the more efficient machine guns and explosives.

He was among those exiled to the Isle of Linosa. His brother and accomplice Salvatore was killed, the report said, while his brother-in-law Giuseppe lives a free man in Palermo.

An Italian court ruled Tuesday in a separate case involving Italy's problems with gangsters that Joe Adonis, once the reputed gambling king of the U.S. East Coast, must live in exile for four years in a little mountain town. Adonis must observe a 10 p.m to 7 a.m. curfew and avoid use of the telephone, the court said.

The report delved into Mafia activities since the end of World War II. It did not get into the question of who may have taken over Mafia leadership from the bosses named who were killed or imprisoned.

INSIGNIA . . . of Apollo 15 astronauts' suits.

Apollo Takes Key Step

Cape Kennedy (UPI) — Apollo 15's frost-coated rocket passed a realistic trial countdown and its three astronauts passed preliminary medical checkups Tuesday in key steps toward the July 26 launch to the moon.

Dr. Willard R. Hawkins reported that astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin were in good condition and ready for the 12-day expedition. Their last major prelaunch medical tests are scheduled for July 21.

The pilots underwent the physicals while their rocket wound up a week-long countdown rehearsal without a hitch. The astronauts will run through their part of the countdown Wednesday morning.

The Saturn 5 rocket, weighing a record 3,247 tons, simulated blastoff at 8:34 a.m. CDT — the time it is scheduled to be launched in 13 days. Officials at the launch control center reported all the complex flight systems and supporting ground equipment worked as planned.

Trimming Begun By County Board

Lancaster County commissioners, in continuing budget hearings with department heads Tuesday. still indicated concern over keeping the levy down and cut $28,000 off the proposed $900,000 Lancaster Manor budget.

This was the first definite trimming the board had done in going over departmental requests but the commissioners indicated trimming wherever possible would be done from all requests in order to keep the levy below the statutory maximum.

Among the items cut in the proposed Lancaster Manor budget were $5,000 off architectural services; $3,000 off salaries, social security and insurance; $5,000 off building maintenance: $10,000 off housekeeping. custodial and other supplies and $5.000 off equipment.

Increase Of $138,000

The Lancaster Manor proposed 1971-72 budget is up $138,000 from last year's adopted budget of $772,000.

The other sizeable budget considered by the board Tuesday was that of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR), which proposed a budget of $723,862. of which $91,355 would come from county tax money.

LOMR Director Verlin Boldry, in outlining the proposed budget, noted that the substantial increase over last year's budget of $537,000 would result in expansion of services to more individuals.

Boldry explained that the county would actually be benefiting substantially more with little more expended because the remaining amount of the budget will come from state and federal funds.

$83,000 Last Year

He said that last year's budget, which was considerably less, required $83,000 in county money.

The proposal includes $350,696 for new Family Resource Services: $207,447 for child development; $140,742 for vocational development and $25,754 for administration.

The board also heard the request from the Humane Society for an increase in the contract it holds with the county.

Bernard Patton, Humane Society director, told the board that the society received its last increase in 1967 when it was increased from $166.50 per month to $291.66 per month. He said it is now requesting $475 per month.

This contract provides for the Humane Society's maintaning an office and shelter to house stray animals from within the county and other expenses, he said.

Bottle Club Application OKd By County Board

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday approved an application for a bottle club license sought by LeRoy Wittmier for operation in Bennet.

Attorney Clem Gaughan, who appeared in behalf of Wittmier, told the board that the operation now has a beer license and plans call for a separate structure for the bottle club.

Several other persons were present at the hearing and the commissioners indicated numerous letters in support of but none opposed to the application had been received. No one appeared in opposition.

In other business, the board approved reducing the speed limit from 65 to 50 miles per hour on three-fourths of a mile on the Prairie Home Road east of Waverly.

County Engineer Walter Hoppe said that the Waverly Village Board had requested the speed limit reduction.

He also reminded the commissioners that they must approve by Aug. 1 numbering of all county roads as required by legislation passed by the 1969 Legislature.

Southeast Health Group Approves New Budget

By IVAN TRAVNICEK
Star Staff Writer

The Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SeNHPC) budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971 calling for an expediture of $66,015 was approved by the SeNHPC executive committee at a meeting Tuesday night at the Lincoln Center.

This money, coming from county boards, hospital boards, local medical societies, community organizations, business and industry donations, foundations, private contributors and insurance companies will be matched by an equal sum funded from a 5-year, $590,390 federal grant.

Treasurer Neal Tyner also reported that expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971 totaled $69,911 with an additional $20,000 spent in providing in kind services. Tyner gave the financial report breakdown as follows:

—Personnel — $46,813.
—Consultant — $7,500.
—Equipment — $625.
—Supplies — $2,138.
—Travel — $2,235.
—Other — $10,597.
—In kind service — $20,000.

From this expenditure, Tyner said, the SeNHPC had $10,116 cash left on hand with $1,212 cash outstanding from counties pushing the total to $11,328.

SeNHPC executive director Jerry Woollen said the council had a $450 bill outstanding for a three-year audit that will have to be paid out of the cash left on hand and reflected in the budget for the fiscal year 1972.

Associate director Bill Joern said "chairmen and vice chairmen of the corporation's housekeeping, planning and task force committees were appointed" at the meeting. He said "additional committee members will be selected by each committee chairman with the approval of the president and the board."

Joern said he was unable to release all the names of the chairmen selected as they had not all been notified yet.

The SeNHPC, organized to study, plan for and coordinate personal, mental and environmental health facilities, services and manpower needs in the 17 counties of southeast Nebraska (13 are participating at present), reviewed planning activities of the five districts of the SeNHPC.

Joern said there were about 30 committees either functioning or in the embryo stage involving about 300 workers. Joern then gave a short review of each committee's status covering mental hospitals, alcoholism, aging and other related areas.

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — A young, nurse's aide, credited with saving some survivors during a fire at a senior citizens' home, was indicted Tuesday on 10 counts of willful murder and one of arson.

The Jefferson County grand jury charged that Mary Ann Wyatt, 21, set the fire the morning of Jan. 14 at Westminster Terrace Presbyterian Home.

Destruction Of U.S. War Germs Begun

Pine Bluff, Ark. (AP) — The Army began Tuesday destruction of the U.S. stockpile of deadly war germs and said when the process is completed this nation's capability to be an aggressor in germ warfare will be destroyed.

"It is the policy of the government to try to reduce world tensions and this is a step in that direction," said Col. John K. Stoner, commander of the Pine Bluff Arsenal, where the germ stockpile is being destroyed.

"It would take 10 to 15 years to re-create what is being destroyed here," Stoner said. "When it is destroyed, the total capability of the United States to produce these agents will be destroyed."

Stoner said the biological agents and toxins that have been produced and stored at the arsenal comprised the entire U.S. stockpile except for those used for defensive research, such as the development of vaccine.

Biological agents to be destroyed are francisella tularensis, the cause of rabbit fever; coxiella burnetii, responsible for "Q" fever; Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis, a flu-type disease, and bacillus anthracis, which causes anthrax.

Toxins to be destroyed are catanella, which is a shellfish poison and botulinum toxin and stephylococcus enterotoxin, which are food poisons.

Meos Take Control Of Plain

Saigon (AP) — American-backed Meo tribesmen were reported Tuesday to have extended government control over all of the rain-swept Plain of Jars in northern Laos.

The Laotian Defense Ministry in Vientiane said Meo special forces met no significant resistance in a week-old operation to take over the long-time domain of North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces.

U.S. B52 and smaller tactical bombers struck inside Laos, hitting at the Ho Chi Minh Trail in the panhandle and also along Route 7 leading from North Vietnam to the eastern edge of the plain.

Every year, the Meo forces trained, equipped and paid by the Central Intelligence Agency. have moved on to the plain during the summertime rainy season only to be pushed back by the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao during the dry season, which starts in October or November.

For the most part, the plain has been Communist-held territory since 1964.

Damages Sought In Car-Cycle Accident In 1968

Scott K. Steele Tuesday filed a $250,000 suit in Lancaster District Court against Karyn M. Jones in connection with a July 13, 1968, car-motorcycle accident.

He claims negligence on the part of the defendant when the car she was driving collided with the motorcycle he was riding at 66th and Logan.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant failed to maintain proper lookout and to yield the right of way, and as a result of the collision he was knocked off the motorcycle, his safety crash helmet was dislodged and he was thrown head first into a utility pole on the corner of the intersection.

Steele further contends that as a result of the accident he sustained multiple injuries including concussions, fracture of the femur with gross displacement, fracture of the left forearm, right knee and back injuries, chest bruises and many other bruises, scrapes and cuts.

Reds Massacre Laotian Village

Saigon (UPI) — Military sources reported Tuesday that North Vietnamese soldiers massacred 51 civilians, mostly women and children, and wiped out most of an undefended village in Laos north of the Plain of Jars.

An official Saigon report said the bodies were discovered last Saturday by Meo tribesmen, trained and financed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, who entered the village of Phou Bia in the Laotian government's drive to retake the strategic plain.

The law was recently pushed through the National Assembly with the backing of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Most U.S. States Are Susceptible To Earthquakes

New York (AP) — There is a possibility of earthquake almost everywhere in the United States, the Insurance Information Institute says

Even so, insurance against earthquake damage to property is hard to sell, according to an article in the current issue of the institute's magazine, The Journal of Insurance.

The publication cites data from the National Earthquake Information Center- at Rockland, Md., indicating that in every state except Alabama, Florida and parts of Texas, varying degrees of earthquake hazard exist.

Outside of California, which is a special high-hazard case, there are 15 states in which major destructive earthquakes could occur, the center says. These states are Nevada, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Missouri, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, New York, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Photos Of Nebraska Pollution Remind Control Agency Of Its Job

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

On the wall in the office of the State Environmental Control Council hangs a bulletin board covered with color snapshots.

The pictures are not the ordinary kind people usually would want to display prominently. That is because the subjects in these photos are pollution.

Some pictures show streams littered with the remnants of cars, mattresses, signs and tires. Others show plumes of sinister-looking smoke rising from smokestacks enveloping towns. Still others show pipes, like Merlin's magic wand, turning streams into lifeless sewers.

Taken In Nebraska

The pollution pictures were not taken in New York or Los Angeles, but right here in Nebraska. That is why they are so shocking.

T. A. Filipi, the special agent appointed by the governor to oversee the launching of the new agency, says this miniature gallery shows what the agency is up against.

Watching and listening to him, one is impressed by his obvious enthusiasm for the new agency created by the 1971 Legislature which he likens to Nebraska's equivalent to the national Environmental Protection Agency headed by William Ruckelshaus.

"Let's see just how far we can go in keeping the quality of life at a good level." This is the attitude he wants to imbue on the members of the council.

What he is fighitng against is the "just-enough-to-get-by-if-we-have-to" attitude which prevails in the business community.

"They say our standards are too high and if enforced will not allow them to operate profitably.

"So then we say if you can't meet those requirements what have you done to cut down any sewage discharge or smoke emissions? Usually the standards are needed to make sure they do something other than complain about the costs of pollution control," Filipi said.

Labels Defeatists

He calls such men defeatists who throw their arms up in the air in despair when confronted with the problems created by too much affluence.

This tremendous affluence and lack of foresight is what got us into the pollution dilemma, he says.

"Consider Omaha. Its sewage treatment plants are overloaded as it is. Anyone with a nose driving in South Omaha can tell you that.

"But here on my desk is a request from a developer who wants to build a subdivision to allow him to connect into Omaha's sewer lines. Why bite off more than we can chew?"

Consumers Also Faulted

But Filipi also places the blame for pollution on consumers.

"Our affluence has blinded us and led us to create artificial needs. For instance, there is a sale on lawnmowers right now, and I was considering buying one. But then I thought about it and realized that my present one could last me for five more years. This is especially true of cars."

The remedy, he says, is a re-birth of old-fashioned economy which realizes that we live in a finite system.

When asked if such a re-birth is likely, he points to the growing numbers of bicyclists among young and old and the growing resistence to the "no deposit-no return" way of life.

'Basically Education'

"Basically, it is a process of education, and I think many people are getting the ecology message."

Nebraska is fortunate, he notes, in that its road to a clean environment is not nearly as long a road as some states have.

"In New York right now there are 500 orders out to halt discharges of sewage into waterways. Here in Nebraska there are only three towns which do not have secondary sewage treatment plants: Belgrade, Ponca and Homer. These last two towns will have treatment plants soon."

Filipi feels the answer should rest with each consumer. When he goes to buy something, he should ask himself, "Is it necessary for me to consume?" And if it is, then he should realize that the pollution problem is not only down at the factory, but also at home.

House Votes Against Citing CBS, Stanton

Washington (UPI) — The House Tuesday killed a move to cite CBS President Frank Stanton and his network for contempt of Congress for refusing to supply subpoenaed films and tapes used in making the controversial television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

The 226-181 roll call vote to refer the issue back to the House Commerce Committee was a blow to its chairman, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., who had staked his prestige on a showdown vote against the network.

Staggers, who had accused CBS of deception and distortions through its film editing, conceded after the vote that any contempt action was dead.

But he said his committee still might draft legislation asserting a right by Congress — disputed by some of his colleagues — to exercise control over the networks as users of the public airwaves.

"We're done with this deception," Staggers told the House before the vote. "We've had enough of it."

But Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., countered that "the First Amendment towers over these proceedings like a Colossus" and a "monument to our liberty" which should not be toppled.

Stanton issued a statement expressing pleasure over the "decisive" House vote in CBS' favor. "As responsible journalists, we shall continue to do our best to report on public events in a fair and responsible manner," he said.

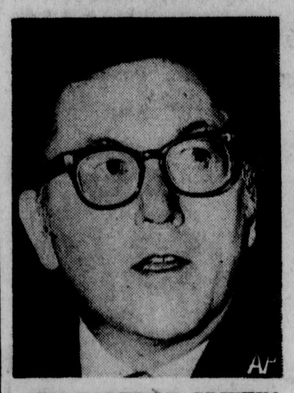
House leaders had sought in vain to persuade Staggers against bringing up the contempt motion Tuesday. Then they agreed on a plan whereby Speaker Carl Albert would recognize Celler, for a motion to "recommit" the citation to Celler's Judiciary Committee for study of its constitutional implications.

This plan was abandoned at the last minute, informants said, as too harsh a slap at the mild-mannered Staggers, a 23-year House veteran.

The final move was to send it back to Staggers' own committee, where it was certain to stay. Staggers had said he was losing votes for citing CBS with each passing day because of what he termed massive lobbying by the broadcast industry.

(Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., said he voted with the majority.)

Also voting against citing CBS were Nebraska Republican Reps. Dave Martin and John McCollister.



SEN. ROBERT P. GRIFFIN

Griffin Says Fear Hangs Over UMW

Washington (AP) —Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., declaring a "cloud of fear" hangs over the United Mine Workers Union, called on the Nixon administration Tuesday to end what he termed a policy "in favor of the entrenched union hierarchy."

Griffin, co-author of the 1959 Landrum-Griffin Labor Act, said while the Labor Department delays acting on a number of chrges against the union "the advantage left in the hands of incumbents charged with violations of the act is unconscionable."

He said the Labor Department waited for 11 years to force the UMW to keep proper financial records despite a specific provision in the law that it do so.

Narrow Interpretation

More importantly, Griffin said, the department has given the narrowest of interpretations to enforcement provisions of the law and as a result incumbents remain in power at every level of the UMW despite widespread court rulings against them.

Noting charges by a dissident miners group, Miners for Democracy, Griffin said "the response of the Department of Labor has been less than vigorous."

Miners for Democracy ran an insurgent slate of candidates against UMW incumbents in a key District 5 election in western Pennsylvania last December.

The UMW declared District 5 incumbent Michael Budzanoski to be the winner after invalidating ballots from three locals which voted for Miners for Democracy.

"During the interim the incumbents remain in office and can continue to use their positions of power and influence to further undercut the strength of the challenging group," Griffin told a Senate labor subcommittee.

'Feel Threatened'

He said Miners for Democracy members "feel threatened by reprisals because of their activity."

In other testimony, attorney Joseph Yablonski Jr., son of the slain UMW insurgent, said two years of dealing with the Labor Department has convinced him it "doesn't seem to realize there are real people out in the coal fields."

Asked why, he said, "I am loathe to think that there is corruption within the department, but its policies and practices are so outrageous that an observer might be led to conclude just that."

18-Year-Olds Ruled OK For Public Office

The State Justice Department has ruled that 18-year-olds can run for office unless the office has a minimum age requirement, Secretary of State Allen Beermann said Tuesday.

Beermann said an opinion from Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer had also said a state constitutional amendment lowering the voting age in state and local elections from 20 to 18 must remain on the ballot in next year's primary.

The amendment was put on the ballot by the 1971 Legislature prior to ratification by the necessary number of states of an amendment to the federal Constitution lowering the voting age to 18.

Beermann reported the opinion said some offices have minimum requirements as far as age is concerned an said the opinion held those requirements must still be observed.

However, Beermann said, if the filing of an 18-year-old for office is challenged, "it would have to be decided by the courts."

Lakenheath, England — An eight-man military panel found Capt. Thomas S. Culver guilty Tuesday of taking part in an antiwar demonstration.

Culver, 32, the first American officer accused of participating in an antiwar demonstration in Britain, stood impassively before the court as the verdict was announced. He saluted the court president, Col. Eugene Fraendly, of Woodside, N.Y., and walked stiffly to his seat. Several young American women in the courtroom burst into tears.

"My God, it'll take a hunk out of my life," said Culver, a legal officer, "but I'm not sorry for what I did. I did something right. I'm proud of it."

"It doesn't surprise me," Culver said, standing on the sun-drenched pavement outside the courtroom. "I feel this court had little option. The military judge refused our frequent requests to take up the constitutional issue. The court had little choice."

U.S. High Court Rulings Cited In Hartington Case

The State Justice Department Tuesday cited a series of recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings as a brief was filed in a case pending before the Nebraska Supreme Court involving the state's ban on the use of public money for private schools.

The Justice Department, on behalf of the State Board of Education, had asked the state high court to overturn a Lancaster County District Court ruling in which the Hartington School District was declared a winner in its suit against the State Board of Education.

Tuesday's brief, filed by Asst. Atty. Gen. C. C. Sheldon, cited last month's U.S. Supreme Court ruling which banned the use of state funds in aiding parochial schools at the elementary and secondary level.

According to the suit filed by the Hartington district in the lower court, the State Education Department had disallowed a district application for federal funds in a remedial reading program because the project involved the use of leased classrooms in the Hartington Cedar Catholic High School building.

District Judge Elmer Scheele found in favor of the school district.

Sheldon's brief said the U.S. Supreme Court ruling had enunciated the law with respect to public aid to private schools and said the Hartington case is in violation of U.S. high court findings.

Bicycle Ordinance Changes Referred To Subcommittee

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Mayor's Bicycle Committee Tuesday briefly discussed suggested changes for a city bicycle ordinance, then referred the matter to a subcommittee for study

Among the questions to be resolved by the ordinance drafting subcommittee is whether bicycles should be permitted to operate on both the right and left sides of one-way streets, whether bicycles should be barred from arterial streets — at least during peak hours or on the more congested ones — and whether bicyclists making left turns at intersections should be required to dismount and use the pedestrian crosswalk.

Norman Langemach Jr., an assistant city attorney, told the committee these are some of the basic problems to be resolved in drafting a separate bicycle ordinance.

The committee has proposed a separate ordinance and the clarification of legal conflicts in the current code which treats bicycles as both a vehicle and a pedestrian.

City Councilwoman Helen Boosalis, a committee member, said the preparation of a new ordinance should be given top priority because it is the key to the committee's future planning activities.

Mrs. Boosalis said the public relations subcommittee recommends a bike licensing and safety week after the new ordinance is drafted and has contacted bicycle dealers for their cooperation in advising bike purchases on the city's bike license and operating code.

Another subcommittee on planning reported two or three weeks will be required to develop a rudimentary map of alternative bike routes to the more congested arterial streets.

In other action, the committee approved the YMCA's proposed "Bike Day" planned for July 31 on the Lincoln High School parking lot.

John Bonham, YMCA representative, said the bike rally would combine bike riding contests with a safety education and licensing program.

A schedule of events will be announced later, he said.

Assistant Police Chief Willis Manchester reported bike accidents increased 105% during the first six months of this year as compared with the 51 total last year and an average of 35 annually for the previous four years.

He said 462 tickets were issued in June to bicycle riders, with riding at night without lights and no bike license being the leading violations.

While bike accidents showed an increase, Manchester said, motorcycle accidents decreased 20% during the first half of this year.

The committee was advised the University of Nebraska is purchasing racks for 2,500 bicycles in anticipation of the "influx of bicycles when school resumes this fall" and is also interested in the establishment of a bike route between the downtown and East campuses.

First National Bank ValuationAdjusted

Lancaster County Commissioners have adjusted the 1970 assessed valuation of the First National Bank Building at 13th and M to $1,178,940 or 60% of full assessed value.

Commissioner William Grossman, who is the chairman of the board of equalization, said that the board felt that the structure was about 60% complete on Jan. 1, 1970, and that the new figure was appropriate for that tax year.

He explained that the value originally placed on the property also included a 13th floor which does not exist in the building.

The property had previously been valued at $6,114,900 actual and $2,140,210 assessed.

Owners of the property had protested the value of the building on the contention that it was not 85% complete on Jan. 1, 1970, as part of the valuation placed on the property for 1970 tax purposes indicated.

Grossman said that the actual value of the property has been adjusted to $5,614,000 and that 60% of that is $3,368,400 on which assessment for 1970 has now been based

However, he noted, that 1971 taxation will be based on the actual value of $5,614,000 and the assessed value of $1,964,900.

Kimball Girl's Death Attributed To Encephalitis

Kimball (AP) — A preliminary report of an autopsy on Connie Gooden, 12, of Kimball, indicates she died Monday from a type of encephalitis.

Dr. Henry Tsumagari, pathologist from Cheyenne, Wyo., said the exact type of the disease will not be known for a month pending further tests.

The girl became ill over the weekend and was taken to the Kimball County Hospital for tests and treatment. Her heart stopped and was revived by a Kimball physician Sunday, and then she was taken to a Cheyenne, Wyo., hospital where she died Monday.

Dr. Tsumagari said there are numerous types of the disease and numerous ways it is transported such as by insects, animals and water.

City Bus Manager Candidate Will Be Named On Monday

The Transit Advisory Committee will recommend to the City Council Monday a candidate to manage the bus lines after it shifts from private to public ownership July 15, the committee decided Tuesday.

The committee, which has not released the name of the candidate, has tentatively agreed that the manager should be payed $12,000 to $14,000.

A number of problems involved with the transferal of ownership were discussed at the Tuesday meeting, including problems with bus maintenance and advertising.

William Franklin, current manager of the Lincoln City Lines, advised the committee to adopt a policy that would prohibit carrying advertising messages on the outside back and sides of the buses.

Franklin said buses without advertising look better, although such a policy would mean a loss of about $7,000 annual advertising net revenue for the bus company.

The committee also discussed the need for a name for the new company and the possibility of using jail trustees to clean the buses, but no decision was reached.

The committee will meet again Friday at 7 a.m.

Photos Of Nebraska Pollution Remind Control Agency Of Its Job

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

On the wall in the office of the State Environmental Control Council hangs a bulletin board covered with color snapshots.

The pictures are not the ordinary kind people usually would want to display prominently. That is because the subjects in these photos are pollution.

Some pictures show streams littered with the remnants of cars, mattresses, signs and tires. Others show plumes of sinister-looking smoke rising from smokestacks enveloping towns. Still others show pipes, like Merlin's magic wand, turning streams into lifeless sewers.

Taken In Nebraska

The pollution pictures were not taken in New York or Los Angeles, but right here in Nebraska. That is why they are so shocking.

T. A. Filipi, the special agent appointed by the governor to oversee the launching of the new agency, says this miniature gallery shows what the agency is up against.

Watching and listening to him, one is impressed by his obvious enthusiasm for the new agency created by the 1971 Legislature which he likens to Nebraska's equivalent to the national Environmental Protection Agency headed by William Ruckelshaus.

"Let's see just how far we can go in keeping the quality of life at a good level." This is the attitude he wants to imbue on the members of the council.

What he is fighitng against is the "just-enough-to-get-by-if-we-have-to" attitude which prevails in the business community.

"They say our standards are too high and if enforced will not allow them to operate profitably.

"So then we say if you can't meet those requirements what have you done to cut down any sewage discharge or smoke emissions? Usually the standards are needed to make sure they do something other than complain about the costs of pollution control," Filipi said.

Labels Defeatists

He calls such men defeatists who throw their arms up in the air in despair when confronted with the problems created by too much affluence.

This tremendous affluence and lack of foresight is what got us into the pollution dilemma, he says.

"Consider Omaha. Its sewage treatment plants are overloaded as it is. Anyone with a nose driving in South Omaha can tell you that.

"But here on my desk is a request from a developer who wants to build a subdivision to allow him to connect into Omaha's sewer lines. Why bite off more than we can chew?"

Consumers Also Faulted

But Filipi also places the blame for pollution on consumers.

"Our affluence has blinded us and led us to create artificial needs. For instance, there is a sale on lawnmowers right now, and I was considering buying one. But then I thought about it and realized that my present one could last me for five more years. This is especially true of cars."

The remedy, he says, is a re-birth of old-fashioned economy which realizes that we live in a finite system.

When asked if such a re-birth is likely, he points to the growing numbers of bicyclists among young and old and the growing resistence to the "no deposit-no return" way of life.

'Basically Education'

"Basically, it is a process of education, and I think many people are getting the ecology message."

Nebraska is fortunate, he notes, in that its road to a clean environment is not nearly as long a road as some states have.

"In New York right now there are 500 orders out to halt discharges of sewage into waterways Here in Nebraska there are only three towns which do not have secondary sewage treatment plants. Belgrade, Ponca and Homer. These last two towns will have treatment plants soon."

Filipi feels the answer should rest with each consumer. When he goes to buy something, he should ask himself, "Is it necessary for me to consume?" And if it is, then he should realize that the pollution problem is not only down at the factory, but also at home

House Votes Against Citing CBS, Stanton

Washington (UPI) — The House Tuesday killed a move to cite CBS President Frank Stanton and his network for contempt of Congress for refusing to supply subpoenaed films and tapes used in making the controversial television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon"

The 226-181 roll call vote to refer the issue back to the House Commerce Committee was a blow to its chairman, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., who had staked his prestige on a showdown vote against the network.

Staggers, who had accused CBS of deception and distortions through its film editing, conceded after the vote that any contempt action was dead.

But he said his committee still might draft legislation asserting a right by Congress — disputed by some of his colleagues — to exercise control over the networks as users of the public airwaves.

"We're done with this deception," Staggers told the House before the vote. "We've had enough of it"

But Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., countered that "the First Amendment towers over these proceedings like a Colossus" and a "monument to our liberty" which should not be toppled.

Stanton issued a statement expressing pleasure over the "decisive" House vote in CBS' favor. "As responsible journalists, we shall continue to do our best to report on public events in a fair and responsible manner," he said.

House leaders had sought in vain to persuade Staggers against bringing up the contempt motion Tuesday. Then they agreed on a plan whereby Speaker Carl Albert would recognize Celler, for a motion to "recommit" the citation to Celler's Judiciary Committee for study of its constitutional implications

This plan was abandoned at the last minute, informants said, as too harsh a slap at the mild-mannered Staggers, a 23-year House veteran.

The final move was to send it back to Staggers' own committee, where it was certain to stay. Staggers had said he was losing votes for citing CBS with each passing day because of what he termed massive lobbying by the broadcast industry

(Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb , said he voted with the majority)

Also voting against citing CBS were Nebraska Republican Reps. Dave Martin and John McCollister.

SEN. ROBERT P. GRIFFIN

Griffin Says Fear Hangs Over UMW

Washington (AP) —Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., declaring a "cloud of fear" hangs over the United Mine Workers Union, called on the Nixon administration Tuesday to end what he termed a policy "in favor of the entrenched union hierarchy."

Griffin, co-author of the 1959 Landrum-Griffin Labor Act, said while the Labor Department delays acting on a number of chrges against the union "the advantage left in the hands of incumbents charged with violations of the act is unconscionable."

He said the Labor Department waited for 11 years to force the UMW to keep proper financial records despite a specific provision in the law that it do so.

Narrow Interpretation

More importantly, Griffin said, the department has given the narrowest of interpretations to enforcement provisions of the law and as a result incumbents remain in power at every level of the UMW despite widespread court rulings against them

Noting charges by a dissident miners group, Miners for Democracy, Griffin said "the response of the Department of Labor has been less than vigorous"

Miners for Democracy ran an insurgent slate of candidates against UMW incumbents in a key District 5 election in western Pennsylvania last December.

The UMW declared District 5 incumbent Michael Budzanoski to be the winner after invalidating ballots from three locals which voted for Miners for Democracy.

"During the interim the incumbents remain in office and can continue to use their positions of power and influence to further undercut the strength of the challenging group," Griffin told a Senate labor subcommittee.

'Feel Threatened'

He said Miners for Democracy members "feel threatened by reprisals because of their activity"

In other testimony, attorney Joseph Yablonski Jr., son of the slain UMW insurgent, said two years of dealing with the Labor Department has convinced him it "doesn't seem to realize there are real people out in the coal fields."

Asked why, he said, "I am loathe to think that there is corruption within the department, but its policies and practices are so outrageous that an observer might be led to conclude just that."

18-Year-Olds Ruled OK For Public Office

The State Justice Department has ruled that 18-year-olds can run for office unless the office has a minimum age requirement, Secretary of State Allen Beermann said Tuesday.

Beermann said an opinion from Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H Meyer had also said a state constitutional amendment lowering the voting age in state and local elections from 20 to 18 must remain on the ballot in next year's primary.

The amendment was put on the ballot by the 1971 Legislature prior to ratification by the necessary number of states of an amendment to the federal Constitution lowering the voting age to 18

Beermann reported the opinion said some offices have minimum requirements as far as age is concerned an said the opinion held those requirements must still be observed.

However, Beermann said, if the filing of an 18-year-old for office is challenged, "it would have to be decided by the courts."

Capt. Culver Found Guilty

©The New York Times

Lakenheath, England — An eight-man military panel found Capt. Thomas S. Culver guilty Tuesday of taking part in an antiwar demonstration.

Culver, 32, the first American officer accused of participating in an antiwar demonstration in Britain, stood impassively before the court as the verdict was announced. He saluted the court president, Col Eugene Traendly, of Woodside, NY, and walked stiffly to his seat

Several young American women in the courtroom burst into tears.

"My God, it'll take a hunk out of my life," said Culver, a legal officer, "but I'm not sorry for what I did. I did something right. I'm proud of it."

"It doesn't surprise me," Culver said, standing on the sun-drenched pavement outside the courtroom "I feel this court had little option. The military judge refused our frequent requests to take up the constitutional issue The court had little choice"

U.S. High Court Rulings Cited In Hartington Case

The State Justice Department Tuesday cited a series of recent U.S Supreme Court rulings as a brief was filed in a case pending before the Nebraska Supreme Court involving the state's ban on the use of public money for private schools.

The Justice Department, on behalf of the State Board of Education, had asked the state high court to overturn a Lancaster County District Court ruling in which the Hartington School District was declared a winner in its suit against the State Board of Education.

Tuesday's brief, filed by Asst. Atty. Gen. C. C. Sheldon, cited last month's U.S. Supreme Court ruling which banned the use of state funds in aiding parochial schools at the elementary and secondary level.

According to the suit filed by the Hartington district in the lower court, the State Education Department had disallowed a district application for federal funds in a remedial reading program because the project involved the use of leased classrooms in the Hartington Cedar Catholic High School building.

District Judge Elmer Scheele found in favor of the school district.

Sheldon's brief said the U.S. Supreme Court ruling had enunciated the law with respect to public aid to private schools and said the Hartington case is in violation of U S. high court findings.

A Most Debatable Issue

Hardly anything — not a political race, a tax issue nor a Who's No. 1 at the mid-point in a football season — has created more heated debate in coffee shops, golf course locker rooms or watering spots across the state than the Johnny Rodgers issue.

We have avoided getting into the debate in print and have tried to avoid it, albeit sometimes unsuccessfully, in confidence in the man making the decision.

Our first reaction, we'll admit, upon hearing of the charge while attending the Big Eight spring meetings in Stillwater, Okla., was that Johnny Rodgers should not play football in 1971.

And we continued to lean in that direction until this week when a couple of points made in a letter from an assistant Kansas track coach to Bob Hentzen, sports editor of the Topeka Capital-Journal, helped change our mind.

Just as our initial reaction continued to carry top weight in our mind, we're sure that's true of nearly everyone, who has an opinion on the case — and nearly everyone does have an opinion.

But initial reactions often are hasty ones and generally based on emotions with little regard for what is right and wrong.

All Agree On Wrong

Everyone is in agreement that what Johnny Rodgers did was wrong, but as the song goes, "Two Wrongs Don't Make A Right."

In our mind there is only one logical argument for the suspension of Johnny Rodgers from the football team and that argument concerns his idolization by hundreds of youngsters in the state, who clamored for his autograph and his chin strap after each Husker home game.

For them, maybe Johnny Rodgers should have been suspended by NU head coach Bob Devaney, but there are many other things to consider on the other side of the ledger.

His peers, the University's Student Tribunal, said it was okay for him to continue his school activities. The court said he was free to pursue normal pursuits.

His crime was against society and he was given a go-ahead in society by the court. His crime was not against the football team and did not affect either his performance in that pursuit nor the performance of his teammates.

And we strongly disagree with those who contend that the only reason he is free today is because he is a Big Red star. We think anyone checking court records will find the probation roles filled with names of similar violators, whose crime was a first offense.

Most Important Consideration

But the most important consideration — and this consideration we feel is going over the heads of those highly emotionalized arguments against Johnny — must be Rodgers' future itself.

This is where a letter from KU track aide Harvey Greer, a former high school coach in an inner Kansas City high school who faced many decisions of a similar nature regarding his high school athletes, strikes home.

"The coach in a situation such as this, must consider the effects of his judgment on the team and University but even more important is the effect his decision will have on Johnny Rodgers," is one of the points Greer made in a letter to Hentzen.

"You (Hentzen) state you'll be disappointed in Devaney 'if in his soul searching he decides that winning in 1971 transcends all else.'

"I hope, and think, we will find Devaney is more interested in Johnny Rodgers becoming a winner in life. Bob Devaney is in a much better position to dtcide how that is to be achieved than are you and I."

We consider Bob Devaney to be among the best football coaches in the nation — and even those opposed to his handling of the Rodgers' case would hardly argue that. We also consider him a master handler of people and particularly young people as evidenced by the lack of squad problems at NU while many other football programs have been hit by such problems.

A person very close to Devaney claims, "I've never seen Bob work harder on any decision in my life than he did on this one." We think that Bob Devaney put a lot more time and consideration into this matter than his critics are doing.

AMERICAN STARS TRIUMPH

. . . Eight-Game Streak Broken, Home Run Mark Tied

Detroit (AP) —They've always called Tiger Stadium a hitter's ball yard and the 71-year-old park held true to its reputation Tuesday night with the American League All-Stars besting the Nationals, 6-4, in a record-tying home run duel.

There were six home runs in the game, the third time that's happenedin 42 midseason clashes. The only difference was that the Americans remembered to have men on base when they connected.

A trio of two-run shots by Reggie Jackson, Frank Robinson and Harmon Killebrew carried the Americans to their victory and ended an eight-game National League winning streak. Johnny Bench, Hank Aaron and Roberto Clemente connected for the Nationals, who still lead in the over-all series 23-18-1.

The shot of the night was a towering third-inning blast by Jackson, who unloaded while pinch hitting for winning pitcher Vida Blue. The ball soared 50 feet up on a light tower atop the right-center field roof, which is 370 feet from home plate and 82 feet high.

Bench, whose second-inning homer had helped the Nationals to an early 3-0 edge, called Jackson's shot the hardest ball he's ever seen hit.

"If you noticed," the National League catcher said, "he didn't even run. He just stood there and watched it. It was some shot."

"This is the longest ball I've ever hit," said Jackson. "If I stood at second base I don't think I could hit it that far."

"I knew we'd see some long balls hit," said Sparky Anderson the dejected National League manager, "but I never thought we'd see anything like that."

Jackson's jolt started the American League's comeback after Bench's homer had gotten the National League on the scoreboard before most of the crowd of 53,559 had settled in their seats.

Willie Stargell was hit by Blue's first pitch in the second inning and after Willie McCovey struck out, Bench unloaded on one of Blue's fast balls and sent it into the second deck in rightcenter field.

An inning later, Atlanta's Hank Aaron, making the first appearance of his fabulous career in Detroit, tagged another Blue blazer, sending it 360 feet into the second deck in right field.

The homer was the first extra-base hit for Aaron in All-Star competition. The Braves' right fielder, top vote getter in balloting among the fans, was appearing in his 20th midseason game.

That gave the Nationals a 3-0 lead against Blue, considered to be the American League's best pitcher. But the power pendulum suddenly swung to the Americans.

Boston's Luis Aparicio opened the third inning with a single to center and Jackson, added to the squad as a replacement for injured Tony Oliva, was sent up to swing for Blue.

Jackson, who was 0-for-2 in his only previous All-Star appearance in 1969, unloaded on Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis and sent a towering drive toward the roof in right-center.

The ball banged into a generator box located about 50 feet above the roof line. The roof is 82 feet high and had been cleared only 13 times before in the history of the 71-year-old park.

After Minnesota's Rod Carew walked, Ellie settled down to get the next two batters. But then Robinson, going with an outside pitch, tagged one into the lower deck in right field, giving the Americans a lead they never surrendered.

Robinson had homered for the National League in 1959 but his homer Tuesday night was the first hit he's had for the AL All-Stars. It also made him the first man ever to slug a homer for each league and he was named the game's most valuable player.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer and Mike Cuellar followed Blue to the mound and shut out the Nationals for two innings each.

Meanwhile, manager Earl Weaver substituted freely, and in the sixth inning, Al Kaline, appering in his first All-Star game before Detroit fans, tagged a leadoff single against Chicago's Ferguson Jenkins.

Killebrew, who had taken over at first base, followed with the American League's third two-run homer of the game, this one a shot into the lower deck in left field.

Now the Americans led 6-3 and Weaver brought on Detroit's Mickey Lolich, another local hero, to finish the Nationals off.

Lolich struck out the first batter he faced in the eighth but then Roberto Clemente slugged the sixth home run of the game, tying an All-Star mark set in 1951 and matched in 1954.

The homer brought back memories of so many late rallies that National League teams had used to overtake the Americans and established their All-Star superiority in recent years.

But there was to be none of that Tuesday night. Lolich wiped out the last five batters in order and when Brooks Robinson squeezed the third-out pop fly to end the ball game, the American's mobbed Lolich.

Chaos First Day King In State Ladies Meet

. . . CONSTITUTIONAL QUIRKS CREATE CONFUSION IN MEDALIST ROUND

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Norfolk — The 50th annual Nebraska State Ladies Golf Championship got off to what must be the most confusing start in 50 years, a start even more conflusing than one would think even women could create.

But somehoy they managed to do it and in so doing, a fine round of three-over-par c77 by four-time champion Dorothy Schwartzkopf of Lincoln was nearly lost in the chaotic situation.

And it was that 77 for medalist honors that started it all. The medalist normally, it was thought, gets the No. 1 spot at the top of the bracket for the match play competition.

Except that some of the women golfers, including Dorothy and daughter Christie, two-time defending champion, along with host pro Glen Blakeman, were of the opinion that the defending champion had the option of claiming the No. 1 spot in the bracketing.

Operating under that conception, which turned out to be a misconception, Chrisite, figuring out that her 81 would put her in the same upper bracket with her mother and forcing a possible family confrontation in Thursday's quarterfinals, chose to exercise the option, dumping

Results, Page 26

Dorothy into the No. 2 position — at the top of the lower bracket, meaning they could not meet until Saturday's 36-hole championship match.

After the pairings were made and announced on that basis, that troublesome women's constitution, which has caused similar chaos in prior championships, popped up again.

Digging into that constitution, someone discovered that it called for the defending champ to waive her bid for the medalist prize, thus playing only a practice round, and being placed in the No. 16 slot.

So Christie's 81, which had never been posted on the scoreboard, thus became a practice round and she was put into the No. 16 slot — in the lower bracket and restoring Dorothy to the top of the upper bracket.

Barring further post-midnight developments, a third confrontation between the two Schwartzkopfs in state tourney play will not occur before Saturday's championship match.

The first meeting between the two came at their home Hillcrest Country Club in the finals with Dorothy winning. Christie won the second meeting, in last year's semifinals at the Lincoln Country Club en route to her second straight crown.

While admitting that winning medalist honors had little to do with the remainder of the tourney with match play beginning today, Mrs. Schwartzkopf nevertheless was pleased with her round Tuesday.

"It's fun to play a good round of golf," she explained. Except for two holes, she played a fine round of golf.

Dorothy triple bogeyed the 13th after leaving a ball in a sand trap, chipping short and taking three more from the fringe, and double-bogeyed the seventh from the trees.

But she got four of those strokes back with birdie putts of eight feet at No. 2, two feet at the fifth, eight feet at No. 11 and 20 feet at the 18th.

The leading role in the qualifying round was a far cry from the Lincoln City Tournament of a couple of weeks ago in which she finished 27 strokes in arrears of Jean Hyland.

"I've done a little practicing since then," Dorothy pointed out. "I hadn't had a chance to practice ahead of the city tournament, but Jean played good golf in that one."

Mrs. Hyland also played good golf Tuesday with a 79, a score matched by Omaha city champion June Saggau and last year's runner-up, Joan Martig of Omaha.

In today's first round matches in the championship flight Mrs. Schwartzkopf will lead off against another former champion, Betty Marchese of Omaha, while Christie will go against Mary Jordan of Fremont, a newcomer to the championship scene.

Today's championship flight pairings:

9:25 a.m. — Dorothy Schwartzkopf, Lincoln, vs. Betty Marchese, Omaha.
9:30 — Cindy Friend, Hastings, vs. Nancy Young Walker, Omaha.
9:35 — Jean Hyland, Lincoln, vs. Debbie Reed, Norfolk.
9:40 — Barbara Berger, Omaha, vs. Betty Abel, Lincoln.
9:45 — Christie Schwartzkopf, Lincoln, vs. Mary Jordan, Fremont.
9:50 — Joan Martig, Omaha, vs. Wilma Gilliland, Kimball.
9:55 — June Saggau, Omaha, vs. Doris Kadell, Hastings.

Roam'n Free Posts First Win In '71

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Roam'n Free finally put it all together Tuesday evening at the Lincoln Fairgrounds as the 7-year-old chestnut mare from Colorado won the seventh race by five lengths to post her first win of the 1971 season.

At the start of the race, it looked like a two-horse race between Buck's Jet and Jr.'s Deck as the two fought neck and neck through the first half of the six furlong allowance race, totally neglecting the rest of the field.

Roam'n Free, owned by Clyde Cranwell from Holyoke, Colo., with apprentice jockey John Rettele in the irons, came from back in the pack to slip past on the rail at the halfway mark.

The product of Roman Bout out of In Free quickly grabbed a three-length lead as Buck's Jet finally gained an edge over Jr.'s Deck and headed after Roam'n Free.

But Rettele, after his first win of the afternoon, keep the mare in front to win by five lengths over Buck's Jet, with jockey Dave King aboard and Jr.'s Deck with Fred Ecoffey up.

Roam'n Free, now sporting a record of one win and one place finish in seven starts, returned $8.80, $4.00 and $2.20 to backers while Buck's Jet brought home $3.80 and $2.20. Jr.'s Deck paid $2.20.

The show poll ended in the red during the seventh race, but Fairground officials said the difference was more than made up by the longshot pools with Hasty Kerry paying $26.20, $9.40 and $6.80 to win in the fifth and Rythmn Peel returning $25.60, $9.00 and $4.40 in the second.

Ecoffey, leading jockey during the 1971 meeting, failed to bring home a winner as Terry Barnes brought home three winners — Rythmn Peel in the second, Fighting Foxetta in the fourth, and Gallant Flair in the fifth. Ecoffey, however, still remains the leader by more than 25 points.

Gypsy Melody bids for a second win at the Fairgrounds today when she teams with Ecoffey to challenge six others for the Sportswriters Purse during the seventh race.

Gypsy Melody will carry 117 pounds during the 5½ furlong sprint, conceding from five to eight pounds to rivals.

Aunt Priscilla Looks For Gold In Today's Races

Dearie me! It just seems like I should be doing a little better in my pickets.

Your dear old Aunt Priscilla bet $2 win tickets on Just Made It in the second and Last Try in the sixth, but Just Made It didn't make it as he ran dead last and my Last Try was third in the sixth.

Priscilla

My $100 spree fund is now $4 lighter but I'm still ahead for the season with a total of $111.80 in my purse.

Today I'll look for a small pot of gold with $2 win tickets on Brackets in the second and County Fleet in the fourth.

Seeded Players Advance

Washington (AP) — The four top-seeded players rolled to easy victories Tuesday in the first round of the $50,000 Washington Star International Tennis tournament.

John Newcombe of Australia, Wimbledon winner and No. 1 here, trounced contract pro Torben Ulrich of Denmark, 6-0, 6-0. Fellow Australian Rod Laver, who is No. 4, rolled over Roy Barth of San Diego, Calif., 6-3, 6-1.

Stan Smith of Sea Pine, S.C., No. 2, ran into early difficulties with Harold Soloman of Silver Spring, Md., who won the U.S. National Amateur Clay Court championships last weekend, but came back strongly for a 6-4, 6-2 victory.

Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va. No. 3, defeated Tito Alvarez of Argentina, 6-1, 6-2.

America's top-ranked player, Cliff Richey, Sarasota, Fla., ranked fifth here won his first match Monday by defeating Jeff Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

In a mild first-round upset, unseeded Boro Jovanovic of Yugoslavia ousted Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, ranked 13th, 7-6, 6-2.

First prize in this three-year-old tournament is $10,000. Sixteen second round matches will be played Wednesday.

In other matches involving seeded players, Cliff Drysdale, South Africa, No. 6, downed Barry MacKay, Ross, Calif., 6-3, 3-6 6-1; Tom Okker Netherlands, No. 7, defeated Terry Ryan, South Africa, 7-4, 6-3; Ken Rosewall, Australia No. 9, edged Jim Osborne, Honolulu, Hawaii, 3-6, 7-6, 6-3; and Zeljko Franulovic, Yugoslavia, No. 10 defeated Phil Dent, Australia, 7-6, 6-4.

Roy Emerson of Australia, seeded No. 11, withdrew from the tournament after he lost his first set to Patricia Cornejo of Chile because he aggravated a groin muscle injury suffered at Wimbledon.

Laver and Emerson, winners of the Wimbledon doubles, were top seeded in the pairs here.

NFL's St. Louis Acquires Jones

St. Louis (AP) — The football Cardinals announced Tuesday they have acquired wide receiver Homer Jones from the Cleveland Browns in exchange for a high future draft choice.

Jones, 30, lost his starting position after being traded to the Browns last year and caught only 10 passes for 141 yards during the season. However, he led the Browns in kickoff returns, running back 29 for 739 yards, including a 94-yard scoring dash against the New York Jets.

Jones was traded to Cleveland by the New York Giants for running back Ron Johnson, Jim Kanicki and Wayne Meylan. In four previous years with the Giants, Jones caught 184 passes for 4,054 yards and 29 touchdowns, averaging 22 yards per catch.

Landry, Lions Squabbling Over Contract Terms

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions' quarterback Greg Landry served notice Tuesday that he would consider himself a free agent at the end of the upcoming 1971-72 National Football League season unless the club comes to contract agreement with him.

The four-year NFL veteran led the Detroit Lions from midseason to a position in the postseason playoffs. His three-year pact ran out this year.

Informed sources said he was paid about $35,000 a year under the old contract and that he is asking about $115,000 this time around. The same sources said the Lions have offered him about $70,000.

Landry drew a full house of newsmen and radio-television sportscasters at a news conference and read a prepared statement listing his financial problems with the Lions.

Landry said negotiations had been handled by his attorney, Joe Whelton of Nashua, N.H., and by the Lions and their attorney, Fred Nash.

He made much of the fact that the Lions did not make a firm offer to him until June 24. Neither side disclosed the amount.

Lions sources confirmed that only one offer had been made but they said it was because Landry had insisted that all contract talks be with his attorney and that any offer should be relayed through the lawyer.

The 24-year-old quarterback called the Lions offer "ludicrous" but said that despite his disappointment over the money offered, he would report to the Lions' early camp at Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills later in the day.

The camp is for rookies and a few veterans including Landry and his competitor for the Lions No. 1 signal calling spot, Bill Munson.

Munson, a seven-year veteran in the NFL, reportedly may be facing prospects of a salary cut but he told the team he would report anyway for the beginning of drills and while contract talks continue.

Munson reportedly got $70,000 last season, a year in which he started out as the team's No. 1 quarterback but saw Landry move into that spot before the year was over.

Landry said at the news conference that some people had suggested to him that he should remain away from the Lions training camp until he is signed but he said, "I feel it is only right and moral to live up to the terms of the contract I signed on May 28, 1968 and I will report at Cranbrook."

Anderson's Accurate Prophecy Fatal

. . . AS AL STARS OUTSLUG NATIONAL CLUB IN HOMER DUEL

Detroit (AP) — Sparky Anderson, manager of the National League All-Stars, proved to be an accurate prophet when he predicted there would be some long-ball hitting in the All-Star clash which he lost Tuesday night.

But even he was surprised as each team slammed out three home runs, one of them a monumental two-run pinch homer by American Leaguer Reggie Jackson that bounced high off a light tower in right-center fiedl.

"I've seen both Dock Ellis and Vida Blue with sharper stuff, but they both pitched well," he said. "It was a hitters' night."

To most of the 53,559 the game was an exhibition, but to Anderson it was one he wanted to win and he was somewhat downcast in the dressing room postmortem.

"We wanted to win, but at the same time we had to remember that a lot of these fellows are in pennant races and we did not want to take a chance on injuring any of them," he said.

Anderson, who substituted freely, as is the custom in the traditional game, added, "We had lots and lots of strength on the bench and there was not one case where we hurt the ball club a bit by making a change.

Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, who got the National League early scoring surge underway with a two-run home run blast off Oakland's Blue in the second inning, had been a questionable starter because of an injury to his left wrist, but, as he said, "The pain stopped when the game began.

"That ball I hit was an inside fast pitch and it came right after a low outside pitch, the one I wanted to hit," he said. "I fouled that one off but got good wood on the home run ball."

Bench's homer came moments after Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell had been hit by a pitched ball.

"I didn't see much of Blue because the pitch that hit me was the only one he threw to me and I never got a chance to swing against him," said the National League's leading home run hitter.

"I would have liked another chance to bat against him," Stargell said. Blue departed after a three-inning stint in which the National Leaguers tagged him for three runs on a pair of homers.

Bench shook his head in amazement as he recalled Jackson's home run in the third inning.

"That ball really took off and I thought it was going to knock the light tower down . . seriously, if it hadn't hit the tower that ball would still be rolling," Bench said.

Anderson shook his head when newsmen asked him why his team's bats had cooled off after a hot start in which they got off to a 3-0 lead.

"I guess you've got to give a lot of the credit to those American League pitchers," he said, adding: "I've never seen Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers any sharper than he was out there tonight in finishing up against us."

—ROBINSON GETS NOD—

AL's Weaver Says Entire Squad MVP

Detroit (AP) — "I figure I've got 28 Most Valuable Players even though some of them didn't get in the game," Earl Weaver said diplomatically.

And he may not have been trying to avoid pinpointing a hero, for three of his American League sluggers came through with two-run homers to defeat the National League 6-4 Tuesday night at Tiger Stadium and snap an eight-game AL losing streak.

The blasts were by Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Frank Robinson of Baltimore and Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota, and each of them were surrounded by a mob of reporters afterwards in the jubilant winner's clubhouse.

Sweat poured from Robinson's face as the veteran outfielder — who was named the game's Most Valuable Player by the news media — praised the performance of Jackson.

A few feet away Jackson was singing the praises of Robinson, who managed him in winter ball in Puerto Rico.

"If I could walk in his image it would be tremendous," Jackson said, putting down a slice of pizza to respond to hoards of questions from huddling newsmen.

"He lives, eats and sleeps baseball all the time," Robinson said to another group of reporters, referring to Jackson.

Jackson's homer was a towering pinch-hit blast that hit the generator box of the light tower in right centerfield. The drive was about 50 feet above the 82-foot-high roof, making it only the 14th home run ever hit over the roof at Tiger Stadium.

It followed a single by Luis Aparicio of Boston and came moments before Robinson drilled his two-run shot in the big four-run third inning off Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh. The pair of homers gave the AL a 4-3 lead and they didn't trail thereafter.

"After watching him this past winter in Puerto Rico I'm not in awe at all," Robinson said of Jackson's homer.

Johnny Bench, All-Star National League catcher from Cincinnati, was even in the winner's clubhouse briefly to congratulate the opposition.

Nearly every ballplayer was being interviewed and the quick shower was not in evidence.

Weaver was all smiles. The Baltimore field boss now has a 1-1 record as an All-Star manager.

He was loudly booed when introduced before the game by the partisan Detroit Tigre fans, but he smiled later: "You get used to it. I've been booed many times. But this time it was worth it."

Miami To Start Mira In Drills For Saturday

Miami (AP) — Former University of Miami Standout George Mira will start at quarterback for the Miami Dolphins in a Saturday night scrimmage at Fort Lauderdale.

Mira, 29, has spent his pro career as a backup quarterback for San Francisco, Philadelphia and Baltimore. He signed with the Dolphins as a free agent this year.

Coach Don Shula also nominated running backs Barry Pryor and Hubert Ginn as starters along with wide receivers Pat Hauser and Otto Stowe and tight end Jim Mandich.

Mira reported with rookies and second-year men Sunday night. Veteran quarterbacks and receivers are not due until Thursday.

Rookie tackle Ron Maree, a 298-pounder from Purdue, was in Mercy Hospital Wednesday suffering from heat exhaustion. Vic Surme, a rookie from Penn State, was back in action after temporarily departing the team's training camp after Tuesday drills.

Amateur Champ Has Pro Status

Richmond, Va. (AP) — U.S. amateur golf champion Lanny Wadkins said Tuesday night he has turned professional and has filed application as a pro for the Virginia State Golf Association Open championship scheduled here July 30-Aug. 1.

Wadkins, who had a year of eligibility left at Wake Forest University, said he had fulfilled the two main requirements for professional entry in the Virginia tournament.

He told the Richmond Times Dispatch from his apartment in Winston-Salem, N.C., that "under VSGA rules, I qualify as a resident. And I meet the other main qualification in that I will be on the staff of a member club of the VSGA."

Grandmaster Fischer Still On Chess Binge

Denver (AP) — U.S. Grand master Bobby Fischer continued his fantastic winning streak when he forced Bent Larsen of Denmark to resign after 33 moves in the fourth game of their match at Temple Buell College here Tuesday night.

The American now leads 4-0 and needs only 1½ points in his remaining six games with Larsen to clinch the match.

Masters Awarded For 'Cats'

Flathead catfish come big in Nebraska, as three recent winners of Master Angler Awards can testify.

Lorence Blase of Hampton leads the trio with a 46-pound, 2 ounce fish taken from the Loup Canal near Genoa, and Jack Fuller of Fairbury is not far behind. His big flathead, taken from the Little Blue River, tipped the scales at an even 45 pounds. The smallest of the trio, weighing "only" 37 pounds, was hauled in from Wagon Lake by Tony Renker of Nebraska City.

A Most Debatable Issue

Hardly anything — not a political race, a tax issue nor a Who's No. 1 at the mid-point in a football season — has created more heated debate in coffee shops, golf course locker rooms or watering spots across the state than the Johnny Rodgers issue.

We have avoided getting into the debate in print and have tried to avoid it, albeit sometimes unsuccessfully, in confidence in the man making the decision.

Our first reaction, we'll admit, upon hearing of the charge while attending the Big Eight spring meetings in Stillwater, Okla., was that Johnny Rodgers should not play football in 1971.

And we continued to lean in that direction until this week when a couple of points made in a letter from an assistant Kansas track coach to Bob Hentzen, sports editor of the Topeka Capital-Journal, helped change our mind.

Just as our initial reaction continued to carry top weight in our mind, we're sure that's true of nearly everyone, who has an opinion on the case — and nearly everyone does have an opinion.

But initial reactions often are hasty ones and generally based on emotions with little regard for what is right and wrong.

All Agree On Wrong

Everyone is in agreement that what Johnny Rodgers did was wrong, but as the song goes, "Two Wrongs Don't Make A Right."

In our mind there is only one logical argument for the suspension of Johnny Rodgers from the football team and that argument concerns his idolization by hundreds of youngsters in the state, who clamored for his autograph and his chin strap after each Husker home game.

For them, maybe Johnny Rodgers should have been suspended by NU head coach Bob Devaney, but there are many other things to consider on the other side of the ledger.

His peers, the University's Student Tribunal, said it was okay for him to continue his school activities. The court said he was free to pursue normal pursuits.

His crime was against society and he was given a go-ahead in society by the court. His crime was not against the football team and did not affect either his performance in that pursuit nor the performance of his teammates.

And we strongly disagree with those who contend that the only reason he is free today is because he is a Big Red star. We think anyone checking court records will find the probation roles filled with names of similar violators, whose crime was a first offense.

Most Important Consideration

But the most important consideration — and this consideration we feel is going over the heads of those highly emotionalized arguments against Johnny — must be Rodgers' future itself.

This is where a letter from KU track aide Harvey Greer, a former high school coach in an inner Kansas City high school who faced many decisions of a similar nature regarding his high school athletes, strikes home.

"The coach in a situation such as this, must consider the effects of his judgment on the team and University but even more important is the effect his decision will have on Johnny Rodgers," is one of the points Greer made in a letter to Hentzen.

"You (Hentzen) state you'll be disappointed in Devaney 'if in his soul searching he decides that winning in 1971 transcends all else.'

"I hope, and think, we will find Devaney is more interested in Johnny Rodgers becoming a winner in life. Bob Devaney is in a much better position to dtcide how that is to be achieved than are you and I."

We consider Bob Devaney to be among the best football coaches in the nation — and even those opposed to his handling of the Rodgers' case would hardly argue that. We also consider him a master handler of people and particularly young people as evidenced by the lack of squad problems at NU while many other football programs have been hit by such problems.

A person very close to Devaney claims, "I've never seen Bob work harder on any decision in my life than he did on this one." We think that Bob Devaney put a lot more time and consideration into this matter than his critics are doing.

AMERICAN STARS TRIUMPH

. . . Eight-Game Streak Broken, Home Run Mark Tied

Detroit (AP) —They've always called Tiger Stadium a hitter's ball yard and the 71-year-old park held true to its reputation Tuesday night with the American League All-Stars besting the Nationals, 6-4, in a record-tying home run duel.

There were six home runs in the game, the third time that's happened in 42 midseason clashes. The only difference was that the Americans remembered to have men on base when they connected.

A trio of two-run shots by Reggie Jackson, Frank Robinson and Harmon Killebrew carried the Americans to their victory and ended an eight-game National League winning streak. Johnny Bench, Hank Aaron and Roberto Clemente connected for the Nationals, who still lead in the over-all series 23-18-1.

The shot of the night was a towering third-inning blast by Jackson, who unloaded while pinch hitting for winning pitcher Vida Blue. The ball soared 50 feet up on a light tower atop the right-center field roof, which is 370 feet from home plate and 82 feet high.

Bench, whose second-inning homer had helped the Nationals to an early 3-0 edge, called Jackson's shot the hardest ball he's ever seen hit.

"If you noticed," the National League catcher said, "he didn't even run. He just stood there and watched it. It was some shot."

"This is the longest ball I've ever hit," said Jackson. "If I stood at second base I don't think I could hit it that far."

"I knew we'd see some long balls hit," said Sparky Anderson the dejected National League manager, "but I never thought we'd see anything like that."

Jackson's jolt started the American League's comeback after Bench's homer had gotten the National League on the scoreboard before most of the crowd of 53,559 had settled in their seats.

Willie Stargell was hit by Blue's first pitch in the second inning and after Willie McCovey struck out, Bench unloaded on one of Blue's fast balls and sent it into the second deck in rightcenter field.

An inning later, Atlanta's Hank Aaron, making the first appearance of his fabulous career in Detroit, tagged another Blue blazer, sending it 360 feet into the second deck in right field.

The homer was the first extra-base hit for Aaron in All-Star competition. The Braves' right fielder, top vote getter in balloting among the fans, was appearing in his 20th midseason game.

That gave the Nationals a 3-0 lead against Blue, considered to be the American League's best pitcher. But the power pendulum suddenly swung to the Americans.

Boston's Luis Aparicio opened the third inning with a single to center and Jackson, added to the squad as a replacement for injured Tony Oliva, was sent up to swing for Blue.

Jackson, who was 0-for-2 in his only previous All-Star appearance in 1969, unloaded on Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis and sent a towering drive toward the roof in right-center.

The ball banged into a generator box located about 50 feet above the roof line. The roof is 82 feet high and had been cleared only 13 times before in the history of the 71-year-old park.

After Minnesota's Rod Carew walked, Ellie settled down to get the next two batters. But then Robinson, going with an outside pitch, tagged one into the lower deck in right field, giving the Americans a lead they never surrendered.

Robinson had homered for the National League in 1959 but his homer Tuesday night was the first hit he's had for the AL All-Stars. It also made him the first man ever to slug a homer for each league and he was named the game's most valuable player.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer and Mike Cuellar followed Blue to the mound and shut out the Nationals for two innings each.

Meanwhile, manager Earl Weaver substituted freely, and in the sixth inning, Al Kaline, appering in his first All-Star game before Detroit fans, tagged a leadoff single against Chicago's Ferguson Jenkins.

Killebrew, who had taken over at first base, followed with the American League's third two-run homer of the game, this one a shot into the lower deck in left field.

Now the Americans led 6-3 and Weaver brought on Detroit's Mickey Lolich, another local hero, to finish the Nationals off.

Lolich struck out the first batter he faced in the eighth but then Roberto Clemente slugged the sixth home run of the game, tying an All-Star mark set in 1951 and matched in 1954.

The homer brought back memories of so many late rallies that National League teams had used to overtake the Americans and established their All-Star superiority in recent years.

But there was to be none of that Tuesday night. Lolich wiped out the last five batters in order and when Brooks Robinson squeezed the third-out pop fly to end the ball game, the American's mobbed Lolich.

Chaos First Day King In State Ladies Meet

. . . CONSTITUTIONAL QUIRKS CREATE CONFUSION IN MEDALIST ROUND

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Norfolk — The 50th annual Nebraska State Ladies Golf Championship got off to what must be the most confusing start in 50 years, a start even more confusing than one would think even women could create.

But somehoy they managed to do it and in so doing, a fine round of three-over-par c77 by four-time champion Dorothy Schwartzkopf of Lincoln was nearly lost in the chaotic situation.

And it was that 77 for medalist honors that started it all. The medalist normally, it was thought, gets the No. 1 spot at the top of the bracket for the match play competition.

Except that some of the women golfers, including Dorothy and daughter Christie, two-time defending champion, along with host pro Glen Blakeman, were of the opinion that the defending champion had the option of claiming the No. 1 spot in the bracketing.

Operating under that conception, which turned out to be a misconception, Chrisite, figuring out that her 81 would put her in the same upper bracket with her mother and forcing a possible family confrontation in Thursday's quarterfinals, chose to exercise the option, dumping

Dorothy into the No. 2 position — at the top of the lower bracket, meaning they could not meet until Saturday's 36-hole championship match.

After the pairings were made and announced on that basis, that troublesome women's constitution, which has caused similar chaos in prior championships, popped up again.

Digging into that constitution, someone discovered that it called for the defending champ to waive her bid for the medalist prize, thus playing only a practice round, and being placed in the No. 16 slot.

So Christie's 81, which had never been posted on the scoreboard, thus became a practice round and she was put into the No. 16 slot — in the lower bracket and restoring Dorothy to the top of the upper bracket.

Barring further post-midnight developments, a third confrontation between the two Schwartzkopfs in state tourney play will not occur before Saturday's championship match.

The first meeting between the two came at their home Hillcrest Country Club in the finals with Dorothy winning. Christie won the second meeting, in last year's semifinals at the Lincoln Country Club en route to her second straight crown.

While admitting that winning medalist honors had little to do with the remainder of the tourney with match play beginning today, Mrs. Schwartzkopf nevertheless was pleased with her round Tuesday.

"It's fun to play a good round of golf," she explained. Except for two holes, she played a fine round of golf.

Dorothy triple bogeyed the 13th after leaving a ball in a sand trap, chipping short and taking three more from the fringe, and double-bogeyed the seventh from the trees.

But she got four of those strokes back with birdie putts of eight feet at No. 2, two feet at the fifth, eight feet at No. 11 and 20 feet at the 18th.

The leading role in the qualifying round was a far cry from the Lincoln City Tournament of a couple of weeks ago in which she finished 27 strokes in arrears of Jean Hyland.

"I've done a little practicing since then," Dorothy pointed out. "I hadn't had a chance to practice ahead of the city tournament, but Jean played good golf in that one."

Mrs. Hyland also played good golf Tuesday with a 79, a score matched by Omaha city champion June Saggau and last year's runner-up, Joan Martig of Omaha.

In today's first round matches in the championship flight Mrs. Schwartzkopf will lead off against another former champion, Betty Marchese of Omaha, while Christie will go against Mary Jordan of Fremont, a newcomer to the championship scene.

Today's championship flight pairings:

9:25 a.m. — Dorothy Schwartzkopf, Lincoln, vs. Betty Marchese, Omaha.
9:30 — Cindy Friend, Hastings, vs. Nancy Young Walker, Omaha.
9:35 — Jean Hyland, Lincoln, vs. Debbie Reed, Norfolk.
9:40 — Barbara Berger, Omaha, vs. Betty Abel, Lincoln.
9:45 — Christie Schwartzkopf, Lincoln, vs. Mary Jordan, Fremont.

Roam'n Free Posts First Win In '71

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Roam'n Free finally put it all together Tuesday evening at the Lincoln Fairgrounds as the 7-year-old chestnut mare from Colorado won the seventh race by five lengths to post her first win of the 1971 season.

At the start of the race, it looked like a two-horse race between Buck's Jet and Jr.'s Deck as the two fought neck and neck through the first half of the six furlong allowance race, totally neglecting the rest of the field.

Roam'n Free, owned by Clyde Cranwell from Holyoke, Colo., with apprentice jockey John Rettele in the irons, came from back in the pack to slip past on the rail at the halfway mark.

The product of Roman Bout out of In Free quickly grabbed a three-length lead as Buck's Jet finally gained an edge over Jr.'s Deck and headed after Roam'n Free.

But Rettele, after his first win of the afternoon, keep the mare in front to win by five lengths over Buck's Jet, with jockey Dave King aboard and Jr.'s Deck with Fred Ecoffey up.

Roam'n Free, now sporting a record of one win and one place finish in seven starts, returned $8.80, $4.00 and $2.20 to backers while Buck's Jet brought home $3.80 and $2.20. Jr.'s Deck paid $2.20.

The show poll ended in the red during the seventh race, but Fairground officials said the difference was more than made up by the longshot pools with Hasty Kerry paying $26.20, $9.40 and $6.80 to win in the fifth and Rythmn Peel returning $25.60, $9.00 and $4.40 in the second.

Ecoffey, leading jockey during the 1971 meeting, failed to bring home a winner as Terry Barnes brought home three winners — Rythmn Peel in the second, Fighting Foxetta in the fourth, and Gallant Flair in the fifth. Ecoffey, however, still remains the leader by more than 25 points.

Gypsy Melody bids for a second win at the Fairgrounds today when she teams with Ecoffey to challenge six others for the Sportswriters Purse during the seventh race.

Gypsy Melody will carry 117 pounds during the 5½ furlong sprint, conceding from five to eight pounds to rivals.

Aunt Priscilla Looks For Gold In Today's Races

Dearie me! It just seems like I should be doing a little better in my pickets.

Your dear old Aunt Priscilla bet $2 win tickets on Just Made It in the second and Last Try in the sixth, but Just Made It didn't make it as he ran dead last and my Last Try was third in the sixth.

Priscilla

My $100 spree fund is now $4 lighter but I'm still ahead for the season with a total of $111.80 in my purse.

Today I'll look for a small pot of gold with $2 win tickets on Brackets in the second and County Fleet in the fourth.

Step To Rear— Trevino's Here

. . . A CROWD'S DELIGHT

Lost Tree Village, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino's hotter than a jalapeno pepper. The U.S. Open . . ., Canadian Open . . ., British Open, all in a row

Golf's other headliners are suddenly mere supporting actors to Supermex from El Paso.

"Trevino has the same underdog characteristics that endeared Arnold Palmer to golf fans," says Jack Nicklaus, the game's premier 1971 figure prior to Lee's streak.

"Trevino's great for golf," said Nicklaus. "Crowds love him, but most people don't realize Lee releases tensions by making those funny remarks.

"When he's tightest, he's funniest."

Trevino's rise from a $35-a-week hustler began when the panther-haired unknown scored a shocking triumph at the 1968 U.S. Open.

Three years later the Mexican-American's average monthly golf income has exploded to $35,000. Mid-season earnings of $210,000 have already set a one-year pro tour record.

"He's as solid a player as I've seen in a long time," said Nicklaus, a victim of Trevino in the U.S. Open playoff that ignited the three-tournament heroics.

"His swing is always the same . . . very accurate off the tee . . . and, you can believe me, his putting was sensational during the past month."

Nicklaus, winner of 11 major titles, is at home tending to business interests this week, skipping the Western Open.

"Trevino's three straight victories amazed me," he admitted. "It's awfully hard to stay mentally and physically tuned for such a stretch."

Nicklaus said he was surprised that Palmer, a somewhat-fading 41-year-old idol, chose not to show up in Southport, England, last week for the British Open.

Even though Jack compared Arnold's crowd appeal to that of onetime pauper Trevino, Lee found himself a jeered No. 2 with the English gallery the day he played with British hero Tony Jacklin.

It reminded Nicklaus of past problems with the thundering "Arnie's Army" in his numerous head-to-head battles with Palmer.

"I've run into that program for a few years," smiled Jack. "It was new for Trevino . . . he was 'threatening' Jacklin in front of Englishmen. It disturbed him."

But, by the time Lee departed Southport, the Britons were cheering along with most of the world.

Chargers Warn Player To Show

Irvine, Calif. (AP) —The San Diego Chargers warned their giant defensive lineman, Ron Billingsley, to show up for the strat of preseason practice Wednesday or be fined.

The 6-foot-8, 286-pound tackle told the National Football League club Monday that he wants to be traded. If he isn't, his lawyer said Billingsley will retire.

Coach Sid Gilman said of Billingsley, his No. 1 draft choice from Wyoming in 1967:

"If he misses one meeting, we'll fine him $100. If he misses one practice, we will fine him another $100."

Meanwhile, there were reports that defensive lineman Phil Olsen may be heading for the Charger camp.

The NFL declared Olsen a free agent 11 days ago after a flaw was discovered in his contract with the New England Patriots.

Philadelphia (AP) — Johnny Sample, former star defensive back in professional football, was arrested Tuesday and charged with passing $5,700 in forged U.S. Treasury checks.

Sample was arrested in his Sample Ticket Agency by postal inspectors and Secret Service agents.

At a news conference, Weinstein said 16 checks were cashed at the West Philadelphia branch of the Provident National Bank.

Old Pro Howe Ailing

Detroit (AP) — Gordie Howe, 43-year-old veteran of 25 record-filled years with the National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings, is so troubled by arthritis that he says "If training camp were tomorrow, I don't think I'd make it."

Howe told an audience at a dinner Monday night following a Gordie Howe Celebrity Golf Tournament that, "I think pride will be the determining factor in whether or not I play. If I play, I want to participate — I wouldn't want to injure the club and I wouldn't want to sit on the end of the bench."

Howe, whose mother died last month following a fall in his northern Michgan cottage, recalled that "One of the last things my mother said to me was that she wished I'd give up the game before I was permanently injured. But then

Arias Leaving Baptista, Coming To Work In U.S.

New York (AP) —Juan Arias, the Venezuelan trainer of Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner Canonero II, announced Tuesday he was leaving the employment of Padro Baptista to pursue a creer in the United States.

Baptista sold Canonero II to King Ranch for more than $1 million after the 3-year-old lost the Belmont Stakes in his bid for thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

The 32-year-old Arias became Baptista's trainer in 1967, eight years after his graduation from the Venezuelan government's school for trainers. He had had Canonero II in his care for the past two years.

Arias said part of the reason he was resigning was because Baptista's stable had dwindled from 40 to six horses.

Arias said his immediate plans included going to the Keeneland sales July 19-20, where Canonero II was bought for $1,200 as a yearling, and then to Saratoga after a short trip to his home in Caracas.

Kurek Retires From Bears

Chicago (AP)— Ralph Kurek, Chicago Bears' running back, announced his retirement from professional football Tuesday.

Kurek, 28, was a former Wisconsin star. He joined the Bears in 1965.

Laver and Emerson, winners of the Wimbledon doubles, were top seeded in the pairs here.

NFL's St. Louis Acquires Jones

St. Louis (AP) — The football Cardinals announced Tuesday they have acquired wide receiver Homer Jones from the Cleveland Browns in exchange for a high future draft choice

Jones, 30, lost his starting position after being traded to the Browns last year and caught only 10 passes for 141 yards during the season. However, he led the Browns in kickoff returns, running back 29 for 739 yards, including a 94-yard scoring dash against the New York Jets.

Jones was traded to Cleveland by the New York Giants for running back Ron Johnson, Jim Kanicki and Wayne Meylan In four previous years with the Giants, Jones caught 184 passes for 4,054 yards and 29 touchdowns, averaging 22 yards per catch

Landry, Lions Squabbling Over Contract Terms

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions' quarterback Greg Landry served notice Tuesday that he would consider himself a free agent at the end of the upcoming 1971-72 National Football League season unless the club comes to contract agreement with him.

The four-year NFL veteran led the Detroit Lions from midseason to a position in the postseason playoffs. His three-year pact ran out this year.

Informed sources said he was paid about $35,000 a year under the old contract and that he is asking about $115,000 this time around. The same sources said the Lions have offered him about $70,000.

Landry drew a full house of newsmen and radio-television sportscasters at a news conference and read a prepared statement listing his financial problems with the Lions.

Landry said negotiations had been handled by his attorney, Joe Whelton of Nashua, N.H., and by the Lions and their attorney, Fred Nash.

He made much of the fact that the Lions did not make a firm offer to him until June 24. Neither side disclosed the amount.

Lions sources confirmed that only one offer had been made but they said it was because Landry had insisted that all contract talks be with his attorney and that any offer should be relayed through the lawyer.

The 24-year-old quarterback called the Lions offer "ludicrous" but said that despite his disappointment over the money offered, he would report to the Lions' early camp at Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills later in the day.

The camp is for rookies and a few veterans including Landry and his competitor for the Lions No. 1 signal calling spot, Bill Munson.

Munson, a seven-year veteran in the NFL, reportedly may be facing prospects of a salary cut but he told the team he would report anyway for the beginning of drills and while contract talks continue.

Munson reportedly got $70,000 last season, a year in which he started out as the team's No. 1 quarterback but saw Landry move into that spot before the year was over.

Landry said at the news conference that some people had suggested to him that he should remain away from the Lions training camp until he is signed but he said, "I feel it is only right and moral to live up to the terms of the contract I signed on May 28, 1968 and I will report at Cranbrook."

Anderson's Accurate Prophecy Fatal

. . . AS AL STARS OUTSLUG NATIONAL CLUB IN HOMER DUEL

Detroit (AP) — Sparky Anderson, manager of the National League All-Stars, proved to be an accurate prophet when he predicted there would be some long-ball hitting in the All-Star clash which he lost Tuesday night

But even he was surprised as each team slammed out three home runs, one of them a monumental two-run pinch homer by American Leaguer Reggie Jackson that bounced high off a light tower in right-center fiedl.

"I've seen both Dock Ellis and Vida Blue with sharper stuff, but they both pitched well," he said. "It was a hitters' night '

To most of the 53,559 the game was an exhibition, but to Anderson it was one he wanted to win and he was somewhat downcast in the dressing room postmortem.

"We wanted to win, but at the same time we had to remember that a lot of these fellows are in pennant races and we did not want to take a chance on injuring any of them," he said.

Anderson, who substituted freely, as is the custom in the traditional game, added, "We had lots and lots of strength on the bench and there was not one case where we hurt the ball club a bit by making a change.

Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, who got the National League early scoring surge underway with a two-run home run blast off Oakland's Blue in the second inning, had been a questionable starter because of an injury to his left wrist, but, as he said, "The pain stopped when the game began.

"That ball I hit was an inside fast pitch and it came right after a low outside pitch, the one I wanted to hit," he said. "I fouled that one off but got good wood on the home run ball."

Bench's homer came moments after Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell had been hit by a pitched ball.

"I didn't see much of Blue because the pitch that hit me was the only one he threw to me and I never got a chance to swing against him," said the National League's leading home run hitter

"I would have liked another chance to bat against him," Stargell said. Blue departed after a three-inning stint in which the National Leaguers tagged him for three runs on a pair of homers.

Bench shook his head in amazement as he recalled Jackson's home run in the third inning.

"That ball really took off and I thought it was going to knock the light tower down . . seriously, if it hadn't hit the tower that ball would still be rolling," Bench said.

Anderson shook his head when newsmen asked him why his team's bats had cooled off after a hot start in which they got off to a 3-0 lead.

"I guess you've got to give a lot of the credit to those American League pitchers," he said, adding: "I've never seen Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers any sharper than he was out there tonight in finishing up against us "

AL's Weaver Says Entire Squad MVP

Detroit (AP) — "I figure I've got 28 Most Valuable Players even though some of them didn't get in the game," Earl Weaver said diplomatically.

And he may not have been trying to avoid pinpointing a hero, for three of his American League sluggers came through with two-run homers to defeat the National League 6-4 Tuesday night at Tiger Stadium and snap an eight-game AL losing streak.

The blasts were by Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Frank Robinson of Baltimore and Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota, and each of them were surrounded by a mob of reporters afterwards in the jubilant winner's clubhouse.

Sweat poured from Robinson's face as the veteran outfielder — who was named the game's Most Valuable Player by the news media — praised the performance of Jackson.

A few feet away Jackson was singing the praises of Robinson, who managed him in winter ball in Puerto Rico.

"If I could walk in his image it would be tremendous," Jackson said, putting down a slice of pizza to respond to hoards of questions from huddling newsmen.

"He lives, eats and sleeps baseball all the time," Robinson said to another group of reporters, referring to Jackson.

Jackson's homer was a towering pinch-hit blast that hit the generator box of the light tower in right centerfield. The drive was about 50 feet above the 82-foot-high roof, making it only the 14th home run ever hit over the roof at Tiger Stadium.

It followed a single by Luis Aparicio of Boston and came moments before Robinson drilled his two-run shot in the big four-run third inning off Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh. The pair of homers gave the AL a 4-3 lead and they didn't trail thereafter.

"After watching him this past winter in Puerto Rico I'm not in awe at all," Robinson said of Jackson s homer.

Johnny Bench, All-Star National League catcher from Cincinnati, was even in the winner's clubhouse briefly to congratulate the opposition.

Nearly every ballplayer was being interviewed and the quick shower was not in evidence

Weaver was all smiles. The Baltimore field boss now has a 1-1 record as an All-Star manager

He was loudly booed when introduced before the game by the partisan Detroit Tigre fans, but he smiled later "You get used to it I've been booed many times But this time it was worth it "

Prices Plunge In Stock Mart

New York (AP) — Sharp losses in glamor issues and a retreat in blue chips paced a hefty stock market decline Tuesday. Trading was moderate.

Analysts said heavy profit taking began when the market stalled in the 900-910 area of the Dow Jones Industrial Average.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed down 11.02 points at 892.38. It was the sharpest single-day drop in the Dow since June 21, when the blue-chip indicator fell12.63 points.

IBM was the heaviest hit issue among the glamours. The stock skidded 13 points to close at 302. The company reported a second-quarter net of $2.22 a share, unchanged from last year. Some analysts said the report was somewhat below projections, adding that with IBM a recent market leader, the report could have contributed to selling in a sharply lower market.

Of the 1,684 issues traded on the New York Exchange, 1,069 declined while 351 advanced. Losers led gainers 659 to 197 among 1,111 issues traded on the American Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume of 13.54 million shares compared with Monday's turnover of 12.03 million shares. On the Amex, volume of 3.19 million shares was off from Monday's pace of 3.4 million shares.

The New York Stock Exchange index of the record 1,350 common stocks traded dropped 0.71 to 55.12, while the Amex price-change index fell .20 to 25.65. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was down 1.32 to 99.50.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed down 3.0 at 320.7. Industrials were off 5.1, rails were down 1.6, and utilities fell .9.

Levi Strauss topped the Big Board's active list, closing down 2½ at 47½ on 153,100 shares. A spokesman for the company said there was no corporate development to account for the drop in the company's stock. Trading in the issue included a block of 79,000 shares at 48, off 2.

Corporate bonds were virtually unchanged, while U.S. governments were higher.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

New Approach To China Doesn't Signify Conversion

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Personality Cult

On this — Bastille Day — when French liberties were born, it is timely not to confues the new approach to co-existence with Communist China as a partial conversion to its philosophy which nullifies individual freedom of choice, personal responsibility, and self-motivated initiative.

In China, the cult of personality is cultivated and Mao is the national ideal. The faceless numbers of followers — described as the Maoist men — constitute regimented participants in the grand design. Thus mass hypnosis is substituted for technology — the art and science of helping workers with mechanically driven, labor-aiding tools of production, which enable the human being to produce more and hence to receive more and better things in return for a week's work.

But the American competitive system, which purportedly pays for productivity, should not be perverted by pressure groups endowed by Congress with fiat privileges to demand more than an equitable share of the economic pie. Demagogues thrive by loose talk about exploitation, but are silent on the new phenomenon of exploitation of capital by artificially created labor monopolies.

Sneered at Democracy

Adolf Hitler in his day sneered at democracy as an undisciplined mob, but we Americans replied that Der Fuehrer underestimated our immense natural resources in self discipline. But today there should be realization that the American antithesis to Maoist (regimented) man is not "the spoiled brat" nor the perpetual welfare client. It is not freedom, but license, to uncouple bridges to Manhattan Island and to stop sanitation facilities for a time because members of a pressure group think that the state legislature may be dragging its feet in ratifying a pension program.

Freedom entails the sprit of give and take. Henry C. Carey, the able nineteenth century economist, advocated "the harmony of the interests" — the opposite pole from Karl Marx's internal class warfare.

Any free society has problems and its imperfections. His genius lies in the potential for self improvement. The U.S. management philosophy is: "Let's strive to do better tomorrow those things which we are doing well today."

But Ralph Nader, the self appointed dictator of consumer policies, at a congressional hearing berated an auto industry spokesman for trying to inventory industry's accomplishments as well as its blunders. Nader insisted of the was the pathology of the industry.

Improved Productivity

No one should give up on the war against poverty, but results come in reducing poverty from improved productivity, not from passing laws to rob Peter to pay Paul.

Since oncoming youth will inherit the earth, it's regrettable that they don't get instruction about the functions of the parts of the economic body and their relationship to one another, instead of being confused by the prejudices of academic exponents of economic cults.

The serious interest of students is to be commended, but those who promote the "generation gap" do a national disservice. Biologically, the father is akin to being the half brother of his children. It is superficial to dwell on the truism that parents don't always live up to their own code. Regrettable as this may seem, it is better to have standards and guidelines rather than to retreat into cynicism and say "anything goes". Since early times, the human personality has represented a struggle between his ideals and savage instincts.

In face of the Communist co-existence situation, and in light of our disappearing export surplus in goods, as lower wage sophistcated technology, it is time for yea-saying — for reaffirming the future promise of American life.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Hearing July 28 For Thompsons In Bates Death

Omaha (AP) — Municipal Judge Paul J. Hickman set July 28 for preliminary hering on first degree murder charges against Theresa JoLine Thompson and James H. Thompson.

Judge Hickman declined to set bond for the Thompsons, charged in the death of Robert F. Bates, a retired Army colonel from Palmetto, Fla.

The Thompsons were arrested at Memphis, Tenn., over the weekend. Bates was found dead May 24 in a North Omaha alley, stabbed in the hand and chest.

Thompson and his wife both are 22.

Step To Rear— Trevino's Here

. . . A CROWD'S DELIGHT

Lost Tree Village, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino's hotter than a jalapeno pepper. The U.S. Open . . ., Canadian Open . . ., British Open, all in a row

Golf's other headliners are suddenly mere supporting actors to Supermex from El Paso.

"Trevino has the same underdog characteristics that endeared Arnold Palmer to golf fans," says Jack Nicklaus, the game's premier 1971 figure prior to Lee's streak.

"Trevino's great for golf," said Nicklaus. "Crowds love him, but most people don't realize Lee releases tensions by making those funny remarks.

"When he's tightest, he's funniest."

Trevino's rise from a $35-a-week hustler began when the panther-haired unknown scored a shocking triumph at the 1968 U.S. Open.

Three years later the Mexican-American's average monthly golf income has exploded to $35,000. Mid-season earnings of $210,000 have already set a one-year pro tour record.

"He's as solid a player as I've seen in a long time," said Nicklaus, a victim of Trevino in the U.S. Open playoff that ignited the three-tournament heroics.

"His swing is always the same . . . very accurate off the tee . and, you can believe me, his putting was sensational during the past month."

Nicklaus, winner of 11 major titles, is at home tending to business interests this week, skipping the Western Open.

"Trevino's three straight victories amazed me," he admitted. "It's awfully hard to stay mentally and physically tuned for such a stretch."

Nicklaus said he was surprised that Palmer, a somewhat-fading 41-year-old idol, chose not to show up in Southport, England, last week for the British Open.

Even though Jack compared Arnold's crowd appeal to that of onetime pauper Trevino, Lee found himself a jeered No. 2 with the English gallery the day he played with British hero Tony Jacklin.

It reminded Nicklaus of past problems with the thundering "Arnie's Army" in his numerous head-to-head battles with Palmer.

"I've run into that program for a few years," smiled Jack. "It was new for Trevino . . . he was 'threatening' Jacklin in front of Englishmen. It disturbed him."

But, by the time Lee departed Southport, the Britons were cheering along with most of the world.

Chargers Warn Player To Show

Irvine, Calif. (AP) —The San Diego Chargers warned their giant defensive lineman, Ron Billingsley, to show up for the strat of preseason practice Wednesday or be fined.

The 6-foot-8, 286-pound tackle told the National Football League club Monday that he wants to be traded. If he isn't, his lawyer said Billingsley will retire.

Coach Sid Gilman said of Billingsley, his No. 1 draft choice from Wyoming in 1967:

"If he misses one meeting, we'll fine him $100. If he misses one practice, we will fine him another $100."

Meanwhile, there were reports that defensive lineman Phil Olsen may be heading for the Charger camp.

The NFL declared Olsen a free agent 11 days ago after a flaw was discovered in his contract with the New England Patriots.

Old Pro Howe Ailing

Detroit (AP) — Gordie Howe, 43-year-old veteran of 25 record-filled years with the National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings, is so troubled by arthritis that he says "If training camp were tomorrow, I don't think I'd make it."

Howe told an audience at a dinner Monday night following a Gordie Howe Celebrity Golf Tournament that, "I think pride will be the determining factor in whether or not I play. If I play, I want to participate — I wouldn't want to injure the club and I wouldn't want to sit on the end of the bench."

Howe, whose mother died last month following a fall in his northern Michgan cottage, recalled that "One of the last things my mother said to me was that she wished I'd give up the game before I was permanently injured But then

Arias Leaving Baptista, Coming To Work In U.S.

New York (AP) —Juan Arias, the Venezuelan trainer of Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner Canonero II, announced Tuesday he was leaving the employment of Padro Baptista to pursue a creer in the United States.

Baptista sold Canonero II to King Ranch for more than $1 million after the 3-year-old lost the Belmont Stakes in his bid for thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

The 32-year-old Arias became Baptista's trainer in 1967, eight years after his graduation from the Venezuelan government's school for trainers. He had had Canonero II in his care for the past two years.

Arias said part of the reason he was resigning was because Baptista's stable had dwindled from 40 to six horses

Arias said his immediate plans included going to the Keeneland sales July 19-20, where Canonero II was bought for $1,200 as a yearling, and then to Saratoga after a short trip to his home in Caracas.

Prices Plunge In Stock Mart

New York (AP) — Sharp losses in glamor issues and a retreat in blue chips paced a hefty stock market decline Tuesday. Trading was moderate.

Analysts said heavy profit taking began when the market stalled in the 900-910 area of the Dow Jones Industrial Average.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed down 11.02 points at 892.38. It was the sharpest single-day drop in the Dow since June 21, when the blue-chip indicator fell12.63 points.

IBM was the heaviest hit issue among the glamours. The stock skidded 13 points to close at 302. The company reported a second-quarter net of $2.22 a share, unchanged from last year. Some analysts said the report was somewhat below projections, adding that with IBM a recent market leader, the report could have contributed to selling in a sharply lower market.

Of the 1,684 issues traded on the New York Exchange, 1,069 declined while 351 advanced. Losers led gainers 659 to 197 among 1,111 issues traded on the American Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume of 13.54 million shares compared with Monday's turnover of 12.03 million shares. On the Amex, volume of 3.19 million shares was off from Monday's pace of 3.4 million shares.

The New York Stock Exchange index of the record 1,350 common stocks traded dropped 0.71 to 55.12, while the Amex price-change index fell .20 to 25.65. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was down 1.32 to 99.50.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed down 3.0 at 320.7. Industrials were off 5.1, rails were down 1.6, and utilities fell .9.

Levi Strauss topped the Big Board's active list, closing down 2½ at 47½ on 153,100 shares. A spokesman for the company said there was no corporate development to account for the drop in the company's stock. Trading in the issue included a block of 79,000 shares at 48, off 2.

Corporate bonds were virtually unchanged, while U.S. governments were higher.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

New Approach To China Doesn't Signify Conversion

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

On this — Bastille Day — when French liberties were born, it is timely not to confues the new approach to co-existence with Communist China as a partial conversion to its philosophy which nullifies individual freedom of choice, personal responsibility, and self-motivated initiative.

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Personality Cult

In China, the cult of personality is cultivated and Mao is the national ideal. The faceless numbers of followers — described as the Maoist men — constitute regimented participants in the grand design. Thus mass hypnosis is substituted for technology — the art and science of helping workers with mechanically driven, labor-aiding tools of production, which enable the human being to produce more and hence to receive more and better things in return for a week's work.

But the American competitive system, which purportedly pays for productivity, should not be perverted by pressure groups endowed by Congress with fiat privileges to demand more than an equitable share of the economic pie. Demagogues thrive by loose talk about exploitation, but are silent on the new phenomenon of exploitation of capital by artificially created labor monopolies.

Sneered at Democracy

Adolf Hitler in his day sneered at democracy as an undisciplined mob, but we Americans replied that Der Fuehrer underestimated our immense natural resources in self discipline. But today there should be realization that the American antithesis to Maoist (regimented) man is not "the spoiled brat" nor the perpetual welfare client. It is not freedom, but license, to uncouple bridges to Manhattan Island and to stop sanitation facilities for a time because members of a pressure group think that the state legislature may be dragging its feet in ratifying a pension program.

Freedom entails the sprit of give and take. Henry C. Carey, the able nineteenth century economist, advocated "the harmony of the interests" — the opposite pole from Karl Marx's internal class warfare.

Any free society has problems and its imperfections. Its genius lies in the potential for self improvement. The U.S. management philosophy is: "Let's strive to do better tomorrow those things which we are doing well today."

But Ralph Nader, the self appointed dictator of consumer policies, at a congressional hearing berated an auto industry spokesman for trying to inventory industry's accomplishments as well as its blunders. Nader insisted of the was the pathology of the industry.

Improved Productivity

No one should give up on the war against poverty, but results come in reducing poverty from improved productivity, not from passing laws to rob Peter to pay Paul.

Since oncoming youth will inherit the earth, it's regrettable that they don't get instruction about the functions of the parts of the economic body and their relationship to one another, instead of being confused by the prejudices of academic exponents of economic cults.

The serious interest of students is to be commended, but those who promote the "generation gap" do a national disservice. Biologically, the father is akin to being the half brother of his children. It is superficial to dwell on the truism that parents don't always live up to their own code. Regrettable as this may seem, it is better to have standards and guidelines rather than to retreat into cynicism and say "anything goes". Since early times, the human personality has represented a struggle between his ideals and savage instincts.

In face of the Communist co-existence situation, and in light of our disappearing export surplus in goods, as lower wage sophisticated technology, it is time for yea-saying — for reaffirming the future promise of American life.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Hearing July 28 For Thompsons In Bates Death

Omaha (AP) — Municipal Judge Paul J. Hickman set July 28 for preliminary hering on first degree murder charges against Theresa JoLine Thompson and James H. Thompson.

Judge Hickman declined to set bond for the Thompsons, charged in the death of Robert F. Bates, a retired Army colonel from Palmetto, Fla.

The Thompsons were arrested at Memphis, Tenn., over the weekend. Bates was found dead May 24 in a North Omaha alley, stabbed in the hand and chest.

Thompson and his wife both are 22.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
